

THE DIOCESE OF MACKENZIE RIVER.

ITS JUBILEE AND AFTER.

SAVE THE CHILDREN.

THE past year, 1908, witnessed the Jubilee of Missionary Work amongst the Indians of the Mackenzie River. It was in 1858 that Arch-deacon Hunter made his memorable journey into the Far North for the purpose of opening up that vast region to the preaching of the Gospel.

In reviewing the work accomplished during these 50 years among the Indians and Eskimo in the North, we, as Christian men and women, cannot but rejoice at the great things God has done through His servants.

The Diocese of Mackenzie River. The Diocese, which is ten times as large as England, extends from Lat. 60 to the Arctic Ocean, with the Rocky Mountains as its Western boundary, and the Diocese of Keewatin on the East. It is the most remote Diocese in the world—its nearest mission post being situated 1,000 miles from a railway station, post office,
