From Whom The Increase Comes

Editor Ontario.—

We have read much of late in your paper of the plans made for the greater production campaign which is in progress and also read some of your suggestions which are good. We all realize that if the sowing and planting are not done and done well the harvest cannot be of the best but there is one greater power which we read little or nothing about, and therefore do not know how much place it is given in the minds of the people. That power to which I refer is "Our Divine Father." From what we read a person would think that next summer's harvest depended upon the help obtained and the acreage sown, alone. We must remember that heat and moisture and such things, over which we have no control but are controlled by God, have a large part to play in the size of our next harvest, for we plant and sow and wait for God to give the increase. Now as we plan, we can plan far better if we seek Divine direction and if we would have His smile upon us, we must needs honor the Sabbath Day, the House of Worship, the Bible and God Himself, and if we as a nation, would do this, then would be the greatest housecleaning in our individual lives, that was ever seen and we would be able to approach our Father in Heaven and seek His blessing, for the Bible says that God will withhold no good thing from them that walk uprightly. So as we plan and work and live let us remember that we ought to do all to God's honor.

W. E. Rush.
