

CALL EXTENDED

Rev. R. B. Cochrane of Woodstock, an old Brantford boy, and son of the late Rev. Dr. Cochrane of this city, has been tendered a call by College Street Presbyterian Church, Toronto. Rev. Mr. Cochrane, who it is expected, will accept the call, is a man of strong and genial personality and an effective preacher. He is a popular man in Woodstock, and his work in organizing the reception of the General Assembly at Woodstock which met in his church last year, was very much appreciated. He is still a young man, being under forty. He has a large circle of warm Brantford friends. War films depicting actual battle scenes are barred from Ontario moving picture shows.

Women's Institute

Echo Place Women's Institute held an open meeting in the Mohawk school, Saturday, June 19th, at which there was a large attendance. Meeting opened as usual by singing "O Canada." It was decided to discontinue the meetings during July and August, and to have a big reopening in September.

During the month of February, the Echo Place Institute will go to Moyle, Tranquility, and will provide the programme for their meeting.

Miss Coats, the government speaker, addressed the meeting, taking as her subject, "Women's Institutes as a civic force." We were told that in spite of the good work already done, there was not one third enough being done for the soldiers. Money is greatly needed for beds and medicinal supplies.

Women's institutes were first founded to help women in the home. As women have great influence on outside affairs they should make the home work as easy as possible. Miss Coats thinks women should have more interest in the school boards, also in starting domestic science classes in public schools. Medical inspection was one of the subjects Miss Coats dealt very lengthily with, pointing out the necessity for giving the young extra care, now so many of the adults are being killed in the present war. She thinks the women's institutes should see that the young people have plenty of healthy recreation. She thinks doctors, ministers, teachers should cooperate to see that healthy and proper recreation is provided.

We were told that in Toronto alone five hundred widows are compelled to leave their homes in order to earn enough to live, leaving their children to drift. Eventually they drift into the police courts. Miss Coats advocates having district representatives to whom mothers may go for help. She thinks women's work in the home should be entitled to more than clothes and board, also that women should sit on juries in order to have the same justice meted out to women as is given to men. She thinks women should alter their attitude to their fallen sisters, and should show more sympathy and charity.

Miss Heaman's rendition of "We must fight for our King and Country" was fine and very much enjoyed by all.

Miss Grey, the second Government speaker took for her subject the individuals value to society. In older times fifty men were required for the same work that now takes only one steam plough. In modern warfare one man behind a gun can do as much harm as fifty men years ago. Miss Grey thinks we are now living in an artificial civilization. She pointed out that no man lives to himself, as the neighbor may creep into our garden, so immoral conduct in the community or neighbor's home may creep into ours. We each have a duty to perform, and that there is no work that cannot be made a fine art. We were told that pains had been taken to find out a woman's industrial value, but no trouble had been taken to find out a woman's value. Miss Grey thinks every country should adopt the law in force in Germany, compelling the boys and girls to attend an industrial school for four years, making for expert labor. She thinks to keep the home atmosphere clear, women should guard their nerves and strength. Her advice was to give the boys and girls the best education possible. The model worth copying up as a woman of tact was held up as a woman of tact, and one very valuable in the neighborhood, especially in the Woman's Institute, also the woman on whom you can always depend. In conclusion Miss Grey's remarks were well worth remembering: Fill your souls with love, your bodies with health and your minds with intelligence and thus be a success in the neighborhood.

Miss Norrie gave a very pleasing solo. Miss Neva Smith delighted the audience with one of her very pleasing selections.

Mrs. Papple in her paper, which was a splendid one for mothers, showed how uselessly babies are dressed in lace and starched clothes, when they should have all the freedom they can get. A vote of thanks moved by Mrs. Cranlock, seconded by Mrs. James was tendered to those who so kindly contributed to the afternoon's entertainment.

After singing the National Anthem the ladies adjourned to the large corridors of the school where the lunch tables were set.

Obituary

THOMAS JULL

One of Brantford's pioneer citizens was called home yesterday afternoon when Thomas Jull slept peacefully away, after a lingering illness. Mr. Jull had been a resident of Brantford for over 50 years, having arrived in Canada from Kent, England in 1854. He took up residence in Paris for a couple of years and then came to this city, where he has resided ever since. Of a large family only two sisters remain. Mrs. Hildred, 217 Sheridan St., city from whose residence the funeral will take place on Friday afternoon, and Mrs. Bayley of London, England. Mr. Jull had always been a loyal Conservative and an ardent adherent of St. Jude's church, having been one of the first wardens of that parish. He had been a subscriber to the Courier for over half a century. He had made many friends who will sorrow at his passing.

Wm. Stone, senior, committed suicide while temporarily insane, according to the finding of the coroner's jury at Whitby.

Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. A. J. Wilkes and Miss Gwendolin Wilkes leave on Friday for New York en route to England, where they intend spending the summer months.

Nuptial Notes

HARTLEY-LONG The wedding of Fred H. Hartley and Miss Ethel Long took place on Thursday when the Rev. D. E. Martin of Wesley church officiated. Both parties belong to the city.

Induction at Trinity Church

Rev. S. E. McKegney was inducted as rector of Holy Trinity Church, Eagle Place, under circumstances of solemn impressiveness. Ven. Archdeacon Mackenzie of Grace Church, officiated, assisted by Rev. Mr. Lester of St. Luke's church, Rev. C. W. Saunders, of St. John's church, and Rev. Mr. Funnell of the Mohawk Church. The choir was augmented by members of the other Anglican choirs in the city, and the singing was very fine.

Rev. Dr. Waller, Principal of Huron College, London, delivered a most eloquent sermon from the words: "For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness, in this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places."

During his eloquent address in exposition of the text, the preacher incidentally spoke of the present world struggle as a righteous war for liberty and the right, on the part of the Allies. He urged the congregation to loyally support their minister in his high duties.

Rev. Mr. McKegney was a distinguished graduate of Huron College, and until recently was curate of St. Mark's Church, Toronto. He has impressed all with whom he has come in contact by his manifest sincerity and likeable manner. To himself and Mrs. McKegney, Brantfordites generally will extend the heartiest of welcomes.

Wm. Beam, aged thirty-five, in charge of the Windsor Hydro Electric system's light staff, was found dead at the foot of an embankment, having come in contact with a live wire, the shock hurling him down and breaking his neck.

Brantford and Paris League Met

Every lover of the game should turn out on Saturday, and help increase the gate receipts for every cent of the proceeds is given to charity—the Brant Sanatorium. The kick off will be at 5:45 sharp at Tutela Park. The second game will not be played on Saturday between the P. S. A. and Tutela because Tutela defaulted to P. S. A. in the last game, which allows P. S. A. to qualify for the finals. The resignation of Referee Marks was read and accepted. It will take effect immediately. J. Treble of the S. O. E. tendered for his release, which was granted him last night. Harry Taylor, who was charged with rough playing at last meeting, was again brought up on the carpet, but nothing was charged against him so he was dismissed.

The last order of business was the choosing of a referee for the coming game. Mr. Wright was chosen to officiate at the S. O. E. Thistle game on Saturday. The standing at present is: Team .. P. W. L.
