"A Cod and a French Cook Can Work Miracles" – The Breast of One "Chicken" Has Been Known to Satisty Twelve Hungry Diners.

It has almost passed into a proverta that many of the dishes served up in cheap restaurants, where nothing is wasted, are, to put it mildly, mysteries. But, on the other hand, most people who patronize fashionable and more ambitious restaurants are generally content to accept the menu for what it is said to be. This blind trust is some-Weet Long, Two and a Half High and of Lesser Width. what abused, and the amount of "fak-ing" which goes on today in some of the well to do establishments would An ingenious play table for children which has been adopted by many kin-dergartens in this country and even in probably surprise those who are un-initiated in the higher branches of the many is the recent invention of culinary art.

For instance, by the addition of veg-etable juice just before being dished up cod cutlets are, at seasons when salmon is very dear, set before customers as salmon cutlets and are, needless to say, charged accordingly. This deception, according to an ex-chef, is wisely practiced not only in chef, is wisely practiced not only in better class restaurants, but also on some of the great liners.

Another popular trick as practiced by the restaurateur is to serve a veal beef done up overnight in salted bandages, while a skillful chef has very little difficulty in palming off flatfish for sole on epicures who pride themselves on the soundness of their judgment of cooking. It saves space and time, serves as well ment of cooking.

On one occasion some time ago a dinner for seventy-five people was or-dered at a well known fashionable restaurant in the upper part of New York. A large consignment of salmon had been previously ordered, but, to the consternation of the chef, the dinner bour slowly approached and still no

In despair the chef, a Frenchman, decided to "take the bull by the horns" and procure another fish to do duty for the coveted salmon. Accordingly he sat to work to turn cod cutlets into salmen cutiets, and this rapid transforma-tion was soon effected by an addition of vessible juice. The waiters, who naturally were awars of this waste-sale deception, were given express bractivity, were given eap to the deep to report any complaints to the ders to report any complaints to the chef at once. However, to the intense chef at once. The deception is worked in this way: A common crustacean is boiled and the meat carefully chopped off and put into a mortar, while afterward part of the shell is added. The mixture is then vigorously pounded as fine as possible, and on the addition of flavoring it and on the addition of navoring it would tax the powers of the most critical connoisseur to detect any difference between the gastronomic mixture and the genuine lobster patty.
