Stage Fun Unrehearsed. Actors and astresses have a good deal of fun among themselves on the stage, though guying is strongly dis-countenanced by good managers. Generally the fun is quite impromptu, but sometimes a joke is carefully planned beforehand. Once, in a performance of "The Lady of the Lake," one of the principal actors—Roderick Dhu—was known to be in pecuniary difficulties. When Roderick gave the line, "I am Roderick Dhu," Fitz-James responder, "Yes, and your rent's due too."

A piece called "The Spy" was once produced. The early acts showed that it was going to be a dead failure. At a certain point a character had to rush on and shout, "Five hundred pounds for the Spy!" The author, who was concealed behind a rock, arose and cried, "It's yours — copyright, manuscript and parts!" That was the end of the performance.

Artist and Social Worker. Always keenly interested in social problems, Sir William Richmond, B.A., who opened an exhibition at Whitechapel, London, recently, has great ideals for transforming London into a beautiful city. The thanks of the public are due to him for his un-ceasing efforts to get the smoke nuisance of London stopped. He hates ugliness as much as he hates noise, and some time ago announced his intention of designing a motor-car on graceful lines, because he considered the motor-car of to-day a very ugly machine. The famous Academ was one of London's boy prodigies some fifty years ago, and often aston-ished his friends and relatives by cartooning them upon walls, doors, ta-bles—upon anything, in fact, which would bear the mark of his pencil.
