

AL MINISTER FROM RUSSIA TO THE STATES.—The N. Y. Herald writes from Washington, says that such has been received by Mr. Macey Seymour, Minister to Russia, on the appointment by Russia of an ambassador to the United States, shortly to take his departure for entry.

POWDER IN THE CRIMEA.—The New York Times says:—"Now that the action is of the past, and Sebastopol fallen, by the combined means of English and American valor, and Yankee enterprise we presume we violate no confidence in stating, from well authenticated sources, that two or three thousand tons of gunpowder, from the most productive mills of Delaware and Connecticut, have been shipped from this port to the British official agents, to the Russian government may be at surprised at the magnitude of the shipment, but will scarcely make it the of diplomatic remonstrance, known as the shipments of the same sort made to Antwerp or Hamburg, to be forwarded, through Germany, for Russia."

tion to the above, we may state that the barque J. H. Davall sailed from New York on the 10th inst., with 400 barrels of gunpowder, 5000 kegs gunpowder, and probably destined to be used in the Crimea. The barque is bound for Smyrna.

OF A VESSEL SUPPOSED TO BE IN THE CRIMEA.—In consequence of information received by Hon. John McKean, States District Attorney, Deputy Attorney General, he was authorized to go on a ship called the Maury, lying at her berth in New York, and take possession of her with her cargo and tackle, on either her having arms and ammunition for the Russian government. The Maury executed his process, and under a quantity of cotton, twelve kegs of powder and ammunition, together with a number of other articles, that this craft had been used for the purpose of capturing and French vessels proceeding to the Crimea with valuable cargoes from the States.

ize was made, it is said, on the part of the British Consul, who allowed her owners were about to sell the Russian government for the purpose of intercepting and capturing the steamers.—Boston Advertiser.

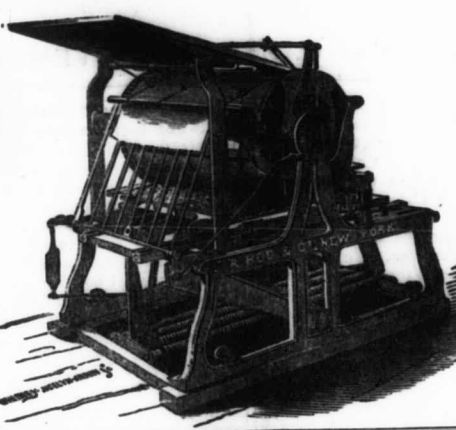

OF EDITORIAL TIME IN SYDNEY.—The author of an article in a late number of Chambers' Journal, descriptive of Australia, thus describes his visit to Sydney:—"At my first call, I went to the palace-like house, the ground occupied by the printing office. On the floor, among other advertisements, a tablet, informing visitors, that the cannot be spoken with, unless paid valuable time; accordingly every-thing without exception is advised to buy a admission at the door of the waiting-room—one hour costing 10s., half-an-hour, 5s.; fifteen minutes, 3s.—Such were the terms of this singular price-current."

OF A FRENCH FRIGATE.—The Director of the Depot, is now discharging at Long wharf some eighteen or twenty iron guns which were taken from the wreck of the French frigate "Faisant"—or Good Will. This was sunk in 1758, at the time of the capture of the English ship the French at sea, to prevent her falling into the hands of the English. The guns, which in weight from one and a half to two and a-half tons, were taken up by the marine armorer of Messrs. Edwin & Co., of Scituate, Mass. We saw our counting-room a flake from the wreck of the guns, composed of iron, wood, and copper. Among other things raised was a flake of one of the floor timbers, which measured 8 by 33 inches. The Director will be at the spot, where the wreck lies, to see more of the remains.—Boston Advertiser.

DEATH OF PROFESSOR JOHNSTON.—We (Daily Express) regret to record the death of our distinguished countryman, Professor J. F. W. Johnston of Durham, which recently took place at his residence in that city. Deceased, we believe, was a native of Kilmarnock, in Ayrshire, in which town—like Rennie, the naturalist, subsequently a Professor in King's College, London—he received the rudiments of his education. From his earliest years, he was devoted to scientific inquiry; and the success which attended his favourite pursuits was at length crowned by his appointment to the Chair of Chemistry in the University of Durham, where he laboured with great enthusiasm and the widest approval. He was born in the year 1796, so that at the time of his death, he was in his 59th year. He was the author of many excellent and popular works, which were issued from the press of the Messrs. Blackwood of this city; and these, besides displaying considerable literary merit, stamped him as the first organic chemist of this day. His best known work, perhaps, was his latest—the "Chemistry of Common Life." In private life, he was distinguished by his amiability and a cordial warmth of disposition, which endeared him to his family and a numerous circle of friends.

GENERAL PELISSIER.—A letter, dated Sebastopol, says:—"I was rather surprised at the appearance of the French Commander of the forces. From his character I expected to have seen a young, active man, whereas General Pelissier is an enormously fat man, with very white hair, which is cut very close; he is so fat, that he is unable to ride any distance. He was in an open carriage drawn by four greys, and two soldiers as outriders, and an Arab with a white flowing robe followed it. The General was dressed in uniform, with a number of decorations on his breast, and over his shoulders he wore a white cloak somewhat similar to those worn by the Arab chiefs. He is not very tall, and his face has rather a good-humoured expression, and different from what your imagination would portray from his history, either here or in Africa."

DEATH OF A REMARKABLE PERSON.—A short time since, a woman named Jeanie Bell died at Hollowshillgate, Cannobie, at the advanced age of 100 years. The deceased was born, resided, and died in the cottage, where her father and mother began housekeeping more than a century ago. Her grandfather, who resided at Kidding, provided the Pretender with a bed on his march southward in 1745; and it was Jeanie's mother that baked the bread for his supper, and waited on him.

JEWISH LIBERALITY.—Whilst the Rev. J. Mills (author of the "British Jews") was staying at Jerusalem recently, the Jews, during the service in synagogue, offered up the following prayer on his behalf, the result of friendly intercourse and respect:—"He who dispenseth salvation unto kings, and dominion unto princes, whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom; who delivered his servant David from the destructive sword; who maketh a way in the sea, and a path through the mighty waters; may he bless, preserve, guard, assist, exalt, and greatly prosper our most esteemed friend John Mills. May the supreme King of kings, through his infinite mercy, preserve him and grant him life, and deliver him from all manner of trouble and danger."

HUMBOLDT.—Baron Alexander von Humboldt has just celebrated his eighty-sixth anniversary; at his great age, he still unremittingly continues his important labours.

AGED PARISHIONERS.—The Rev. Dr. Emerson of Salem, Massachusetts, who is now in the fifty-first year of his pastorate, says the Salem Register, preached in the South Church pulpit on Sabbath forenoon, the 23d ult., to the aged, from the text, "when I am old and grey headed, O God, forsake me not." The venerable Doctor, who claimed the right to address his aged friends with propriety, on the score of being one of them, stated the remarkable fact, that in his congregation, there were yet living eighty persons who were upwards of seventy years of age.

A STRANGE CONJUNCTION.—Among the various curious, and almost incredible things, in connection with the war in the East, which have recently turned up, is the following:—In a lecture lately given by the Rev. Dr. Cumming, he quoted the following lines, which he stated that he had copied from an old volume of the fifteenth century:—
In twice two hundred years, the Bear
The Crescent will assail;
But, if the Cock and Bell unite,
The Bear will not prevail.
But mark! in twice ten years again,
Let Islam know and fear,
The Cross shall stand, the Crescent wane,
Dissolve, and disappear.

JAPANESE LITERATURE.—One of the specimens of Japanese literature brought home by Commodore Perry is a poem on tea, of which a stanza is thus translated in the Newark Advertiser:—
When the golden pipe sends out its curling smoke,
'And the wind gently sighs through the thick fir-grove,
Then choose some leaves from the fairy's blossom broke,
And make the light yellow tea we so much love.
At the first sip we feel the thrill,
And every vein and pore cries, 'Fill!
The tongue prolongs the pleasant treat,
And spirits leap with glad'ning beat.

INTERESTING EXPERIMENT.—An interesting experiment was lately performed by Professor Faraday. A diamond, held by a little platinum clamp, and ignited to whiteness in the oxy-hydrogen flame, was plunged while incandescent into a jar of oxygen. It was speedily dissipated into gas, which was proved to be carbonic acid.

THE VICE REGAL RESIDENCE AT TORONTO.—"The Governor, (says the Toronto Leader,) will find us a frugal people, truly. Consulting history he will discover, that the mansion prepared for his reception was six years ago considered too seedy for his predecessor. And if he is disposed to call in question our notions of respectability, let us hope he will do ample justice to our ideas of economy." "The concern intended for him all but escaped falling on the occasion of the Queen's birth day some two years ago. The verandah almost gave way with the weight of some fifty people; and the whole structure was rotten enough in appearance to render its occupation a very considerable risk."

A rich man wears a torn coat, a thread-bare vest, or a worn hat; it is proper in him, if it best suits his fancy; but a man with moderate means must dress well, or he is despised by his fellows. The former may dress poorly because he can dress better; the latter must dress well, because he cannot afford it. The man, who has more money than he wants, can borrow as much as he pleases; the man who has no money and wants it often experiences difficulty, in borrowing a dollar. Poverty travels barefooted over a rugged path; industry is harnessed to a carriage and wealth rides in it.
