Are You a Snob?

BY RUTH CAMERON.

Are you a snob? Before you give an emphatic "No" to that, please let me explain what I mean by it. Are you absolutely and entirely democratic? Do you never make class distinctions in your mind, if not in your speech? Do you never find yourself in awe of some new acquaintance, because you have been told that he has a great deal of money? Are you never ashamed when one of your more fashionable friends sees you on the street with some shabbily dressed acquaintance? Do you never look down on people for the kind of work they do? Do you never try to make yourself out richer than you are? Do you never boast about your family connection?

If you can honestly answer "No" to all these you may emphatically answer "No" to that first question. But can you? I am afraid not. I am afraid the man who hasn't a single drop of snobbish blood in his veins would be far harder to find than Diogenes' honest man.

Maude Radford Warren tells the story of a young girl of a refined and educated family, who was suddenly thrown on her own resources by death and financial loss. The only way for her to earn her living seemed to be for her to go behind the counter. She lived in a small town which is supposed to be the most democratic place on earth, and yet "It had been a little shock to think of being a clerk in a store," she says. "For all the democracy of our town, there were some distinctions. I didn't want to do it. I guess most of us at heart are snobs, born with an instinct to climb. We are only qualified democrats, the best of us. I had always supposed I looked on a certain friend of my mother's who worked in a shop as quite as good as anyone else; now, however, I found that I had really pitied her."

I suspect that most of us have experiences like that when we realize suddenly that we have been entertaining some such feelings of superiority. I know I have. I love democracy. There is nothing that I desire of myself more ardently than that I may be absolutely and consistently democratic, and yet again and again I am ashamed to find myself entertaining snobbish feelings.

Not that I have anything to be snobbish about, but that's the queer part of it. One doesn't need to have, in the play "Kismet" the beggar who has just been exiled by the Calif, vents his unhappiness upon a beggar of a lower order. As he lords it over the miserable creature, he moralizes to himself: "To the Calif I am dirt, but to the dirt I am Calif."

So we all must be Calif to somebody in the kingdom of our own fancies. Democracy of government is hard to win; but infinitely more difficult to bring about is that greater democracy, the democracy of the heart.

I wonder if it will ever come.

Service and Sureness in Dunlop Traction Tread.

If ALL the cars in a certain Garage were fitted with a certain tire the fact does not help you in deciding which is the best and which is the one you want. It may have been to that garage owner's profit to boost that certain tire.

When you equip your car with tires you want to be assured you are going to get the maximum of service with the minimum possibility of skidding.

DUNLOP TRACTION TREAD assures you the longest service, because it is made of live rubber gum, moulded as a unit.

The TRACTION TREAD assures you and yours against the dangers of skidding with its possibilities of disaster.

It's of truth the "Non-Skid." The official mileage tests tell the whole story. Let us show you.

Fashions and Fads.

Sashes for the summer frock are made of satin taffeta or ribbon. The long ends are finished with fringe.

Ribbon bands embroidered with brilliant colors are used on many small hats designed for street wear.

Chic tailored blouses are made of bright pink linen, the flat collar being finished with a jabot of cream lace.

The newest gloves of white gage kid have diamond shaped insets of pale blue, pink or tan kid at the top.

Platinum topped hair pins, studded with jewels, are worn with evening costumes of any description.

The long tunic basques which hang a little full are fashioned of flowered crepe de chine and taffeta.

Fashion has adopted the remnant idea as a beautiful and useful idea in the construction of gowns this season.

Crepion is much used for little summer frocks. They are trimmed with lace or hand embroidery in colors.

Do not destroy the line of buttoning; if alterations must be made in a shoe, get a wider size and keep the line.

Pretty is a lingrie blouse of sheer, net linen with a vest effect of pleated tulle fastened with small pearl buttons.

Blouses of white and ecru pongee have trimmings of satin embroidered with bright-colored wools in flower designs.

The new style skirt has a deep set-on hem finished with stitching or a narrow piping and softly gathered about the waist.

Colored gloves have come into favor.

and with a white costume will be worn brilliant red gloves stitched with white or black.

Very pretty is a small blue flat hemp hat, with a puffed crown of Persian, designed and trimmed with a blue feather at the back.

Dimity is very much used for little girls' summer dresses. Some delightful little frocks are made by combining figured and plain dimity.

A very charming and chic hat is made of flowered crepon, covered with blue chiffon and trimmed with a darker blue velvet and red roses.

The newest girde is of two strips of folded satin or velvet, crossed in front, the ends terminating on the coragee in two flat bows or buckles.

The silk slip and petticoats worn under lingerie gowns have their hems adorned with deep flounces of lace, stitched with very little fullness.

The smart garden hat is a floppy leghorn with its broad brim covered with colored net or chiffon. Large roses and dainty blue ribbon form the trimming.

Flowered crepon or mousseline de soie makes pretty bonnets for little girls. The latter material should be shirred over a foundation of rose-colored silk.

The newest headdress for evening consists of a narrow band of jewels worn low on the forehead and decorated at the side with a cluster of paradise, ostrich or osprey plumage.

A charming leghorn hat has a bowl-shaped crown entirely covered with narrow, pleated frills of pink maitine.

Two large pink roses are caught on either side of the wide brim.

Would Publish Marriage Banns.

Chicago, May 29.—A movement to revive the old custom of publishing the banns for a reasonable period preceding a wedding was started today at the annual conference of the Chicago diocese of the Episcopal Church, when a resolution, authorising a return to this custom, was adopted. The delegates representing this diocese at the general conference of the Church in New York in October, will make an effort to have publication of the banns made compulsory in all episcopal churches in America.

Vanished Women.

I can't find the old time dame (though throughout the land I've raked) who enjoyed a noble joy based upon the bread she baked, based upon the cakes and pies she compounded passing well; cakes that charmed the glowing eyes, pies that bound us with a spell. She has vanished, dame sublime, hidden somewhere in the mist; and her daughters spend their time playing silly games of whist. Where are all those women now, who in olden times would meet to discuss new kinds of chow, pickles sour and pickles sweet; who put up a stock of jam to relieve the winter's grief, who could defy cure a ham or salt down a side of beef? They are gone, and nevermore shall we see their like. I wist; and their daughters held the floor with their dizzy games of whist. Where are now the good old dames who kept house in proper style, working at their quilting frames, knitting stockings by the mill; who absorbed in household chores, thought their time was thrown away if they left their divers doors for a quarter of a day? Gallivanting was a crime that was frowned upon and hissed; but their daughters spend their time playing dippy games of whist.

Fresh Fish After Two Years.

Professor Danilevsky, the Russian scientist who has been conducting experiments at Hull in a new process of fish curing, is completely satisfied with the result. He claims that his methods will ensure the preservation of fish for eating purposes for a period of at least two years, at one-fifth the cost of the present system of using salt and ice.

He treated twenty-five fish, including plaice, mackerel, whiting, cod, and herring, in certain liquids containing a mixture of common salt, essence of vinegar, and alcohol. After being kept in jars for sixteen days the fish were in an excellent state of preservation and some were eaten at a luncheon in London very recently, at which representatives of the Board of Fisheries were present.

Professor Danilevsky expressed the opinion on Saturday that his invention would prevent much wastage of fish. "Fish at present is put on the market in a relatively worse condition than meat, because it spoils sooner when exposed to the air in hot weather or in hot climates. Fish preserved in my laboratory at St. Petersburg has been fit for eating after two years' treatment. The cost of preserving by my system 200 lb. of fish for twenty-eight days would be from 6d. to 8d. By the use of one of the liquids the fish treated is "cooked" and ready for eating at the end of twelve or fifteen days."—Daily Mail.

Footer Badly Hurt

In Head on Collision.

Len Stick, of the C. E. I. Football team, met with a painful accident a few days ago and is now under the treatment of a doctor. While playing a practice match on the C. E. I. grounds he was run into by an opposing player, the latter's head striking him a violent blow in the face, as a result Stick's nose was fractured and both eyes badly battered. The injured footer is an excellent player and will be missed sorely by his team, as it is not likely he will be able to play again for at least a few weeks.
