Wedding Bells.

COURAGE—POLLOCK.

Saturday, the 9th inst., the Methodist Church of Catalina, was the scene of a very pretty and attractive wedding, when Miss Elsie May Snowden Courage, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Abel Courage, and Mr. John Pollock, of St. John's, who holds the prominent position of chief engineer of the A.S. Clyde, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. P. Ward. The bride who was handsomely attired in white "peau-de-soie" silk with pearl-trimmings, bridal veil of white embroidered silk net, with wreath of orange blossoms, carried a bouquet of carnations and maiden hair fern, looked charming as she entered the church leaning on the arm of her father, whilst the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March were rendered by Miss Mary Pomeroy. She was attended by her cousin Miss Lena Courage, assisted by Miss Nellie House and the bride's sister, Miss Myrtle Courage, who wore white voile dresses and black picture hats, while the groom was ably supported by Mr. A. Northcott, the popular and efficient mail clerk of the Clyde. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's parents where everything was nicely arranged for the reception and where bride and groom received many hearty congratulations. After about fifty guests had partaken of a sumptuous supper they retired to the drawing-room where an appropriate programme was got ready for the evening. The bride being an accomplished pianist and singer, everyone fully enjoyed her different renditions of marches, waltzes and solos. Many useful and valuable presents were received, showing the esteem in which both were held, among them being several pieces of gold, silverware, an upholstered kid rocker and many other lovely articles. The groom's present to the bride was a gold wristlet watch, to the maid of honor a gold cameo pendant and chain, and to the bridesmaids five dollar gold pieces. After a week's stay with the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Pollock left by Saturday's train for Lewisporte where they will make their future home.—Com.

The Flights of Kings.

New York, Nov. 15.—There is one New York man whose experience could tell Wilhelm that "sad stories of the death of kings" are less sad than tales of their dreary exile. Past ninety, but able to take a woman's part in the war with gifts and prayers for the vengeance of justice, ex-Empress Eugenie recalls how forty-eight years ago she too boasted of "my war." With her will go that last personal link with the Napoleon of Chislehurst and the Napoleon of St. Helena. They are to have, it seems, a successor.

The late Kaiser also has chosen exile. Aware that history will sift and treasure every scrap of evidence of his flight, he posed for posterity, as all his life he has done, in the little frontier of Eysden. Legend is provided with materials. Since a day brings dispute even as to the number and style of his attendants, what controversies may not future students wage over the manner of his disappearance from "his" country? The seven Kings who share his downfall will bulk less large in the recital. Already too begin the problems of exile. Wilhelm's Dutch hosts are uneasy in their responsibility. He was a king; but he is indicted for murder, and in theory extraditable for trial, though no one may ask for him. He was an emperor; but if he crossed the boundary as one of an armed body he must by law be interned until the end of the war and then—

Eysden is more than a hundred miles from Yverness, where the flight of Louis XVII, friend of America, less fortunately ended—Varennes, which Americans, friends of France, lately restored to her. Louis lost his life with his throne; automobiles are an improvement on carriages when revolutionaries are behind the wheel. Time will tell whether Wilhelm is more fortunate than past kings deposed, or will live to curse the resources of modern travel that saved him for long days and bitter memories.

Punish the Criminals.

(From the Ottawa Journal-Press.)
Sir George Cave's announcement that German military criminals will be brought to trial and punished, is welcome news for the democratic world. The French Government in a recent declaration told the German nation that "conduct which is equally contrary to international law and the fundamental principles of all human civilization will not go unpunished." Britain's Home Secretary shows that the British Government is in accord on this point with its great ally, and it may now be expected that in addition to the full repatriation and restoration (specified by President Wilson in his latest note to the German Government) Germany will be called upon by the peace conference to surrender for trial her great criminals of the war. Among these the following may be mentioned as typical of this class:

William II, author of the war and directly responsible for all its crimes.
General Von Kluck, for the outrages committed by his First Prussian Army.

Admiral Von Tirpitz, instigator of unrestricted submarine warfare.

General Von Bulow, for his general order of August 22nd, 1914:—"With my authorisation the town of Andenne has been laid in ashes and 110 inhabitants have been shot."

General Stenger, for his order of August 26th, 1914, to shoot British wounded and prisoners.

General Von Boehn, for the Termonde murders.

Major Manteuffel, for the murder of the Falaba passengers.

These are but a few out of some 500 or more Germans who have vilely violated the laws of war and the Hague Convention. To them should be added the German commanders of the prison camps in which British prisoners have been done to death; submarine commanders still alive who have been guilty of murdering men, women and children in open boats upon the seas; officers who ordered Armenian massacres, and scores of others as vile. Last of all, Lenin, Trotsky and other Anarchist criminals turned loose upon Russia and supplied with money and arms, should not be forgotten where justice has to be done.

Presentation of Ciborium.

TO CAPT. (REV.) THOS. NANGLE, C.F., BY MOTHERS OF OUR CATHOLIC SOLDIERS.

The mothers of the Catholic soldiers in The Royal Newfoundland Regiment desiring to give Capt. (Rev.) T. Nangle, C. F., some tangible appreciation of his devotion to their boys "over there," formed a committee early in the Summer with this purpose in view. It was decided that each mother should be asked to subscribe not more than 20 cents towards the purchase of a Ciborium for use by the beloved Chaplain, when ministering to the spiritual wants of the lads in the Regiment.

The Committee consisted of Mesdames Hiscok and Buckley and Miss Jessie Bulley.

In July an order was placed with the celebrated firm of silversmiths, Wm. Egan & Sons, of Cork, whose fame as designers and makers of ornamental Church vessels is world-wide.

By the recent English mail the following letter was received from Father Nangle acknowledging the receipt of the gift, and expressing his gratitude to the brave mothers of those gallant boys of "over there" for their kind remembrance of him:—

87th Field Ambulance,
B. E. F.,
Sept. 10th, 1918.

"To the Catholic Women of Newfoundland:—
"I do not know to whom I should address this particularly, but I should like to convey to all you brave mothers who were so thoughtful and generous, my sincere thanks and heartfelt appreciation for the magnificent Ciborium you have sent me. It reached me here on August 30th.

"It is made of gold, beautifully erected and inscribed, and just the proper size. I used it the first time after it arrived to give Holy Communion to some two hundred Welsh and Scotch troops about to go in to battle, and it has been in use every Sunday since.

"Our own 'Boys' are expected back to the line daily—when I shall immediately return to them. Every body in the Division, from the General down, is looking forward to having them with us again, but there will be none more pleased to see them and to minister to them than I.

Yours most sincerely,

T. NANGLE, C.F."

A Ciborium is the receptacle used by the priest in which to carry the sacred wafers for administering Holy Communion. The one sent to "Padre" Nangle is made of solid silver with a gold cup, of a size and shape suitable for a Chaplain at the Front. It is surmounted by a Celtic cross, which, with the handle, is collapsible so as to make it compact for travelling purposes. The Ciborium is a masterpiece of the silversmith's art and is of pure Celtic design, being a replica of similar vessels made in Ireland in the 18th century. It is chased and embossed throughout by hand. Artistic work such as this has not been produced in Cork for upwards of 800 years. The following inscription is engraved on the base:—
To The Rev. Thomas Nangle, C. F., From the Mothers of the Catholic Soldiers of The Royal Newfoundland Regiment, 1918.

Fads & Fashions.

Umbrellas have very long, slender handles.

Little fur balls make attractive trimmings for any frock.

The sheer wide sleeve is many times bordered with colored wool.

Oxford shoes worn with spats are perfectly good form.

Brown shoes are much liked with costumes of heaver and brown.

Beaver and mink furs appear on the richest fabrics as trimmings.
