Our Political Problems

And How to Solve Them.

By ANALYST.

"Were half the power that fills the earth with terror. Were half the wealth bestowed on camp and court. Give to the human mind from error. There were no need of arsenals and forts."

Patriotism is innate in all men; the absence of it betokens a perversion of human nature; but it grows its full growth only where thoughts are elevated and heart-beatings are generous. "Of all human duties," writes Cicero, "none is more honorable and more estimable than to merit well of the commonwealth." Countries are the sons of Adam, and appointed the bounds of peoples. No nation is born into life, or vanishes back into nothingness without the bidding of Providence. More than a century ago a trans-Atlantic poet and philosopher wrote:

"Westward the course of empire takes its way. The first four acts already past. A fifth shall close the drama with the day: Time's noblest offering is the last."

Berkley's prophetic eye had discerned America. He had seen right in the mouth of the St. Lawrence the richly-endowed island of Newfoundland, and saw in her a fitting stepping-stone to the "vast Dominion of Canada" on the one hand and the "Great Republic of the United States" on the other; in each of which the people find

"The glory of a gracious land, Fit home for many a hardy race; Where liberty has broadest base, And labor honors every hand."

Some of us can still remember when the profession of arms was the only one to which high-spirited young men, even in the colonies, aspired. The church, the bar, medicine, literature, the arts, commerce were below them. Now, however, it is to the middle class we must look for our safety; the working educated man, the good clergy not corrupted into parasites by hopes of advancement, the tradesman rising in to many opulence; the men of letters in their quiet studies; these are the men we like to see and read about at the present moment. Proclaim this, and what light breaks through our leaden sky! The war-wave rolls then with only the impetus and weight of an idea.

"The sword—a name of dread!—yet when the freeman's thigh 'tis bound— While for his altar and his hearth, While for the land that gave him birth, The war-drum's roll, the trumpet's sound— How sacred is it them!

Whenever for the truth and right It flashes in the van of fight. Whether in some wild mountain pass that where fell Leonidas; Or, on some sterile plain and stern— A Marathon or a Bonnockburn; Or mid fierce crags and bursting rills— The Swiss Alps, gray Tyrol's hills; Or, as when sunk the Armada's pride, It gleams above the stormy tide.— Still, still, when'er the battle's word is Liberty—when men do stand For Justice and their native land— Then Heaven bless the sword!"

CONDITIONS NOT EASILY REMOVED.

Evil conditions, unjust laws, immoral and unhealthy surroundings, are not easily removed; nor are questions such as the Employment of the Unemployed, the Liquor Question, the Social Evil, to be dealt with, without united and persistent effort. It will be the endeavor of the present administration to adopt the most successful methods of moral and social reform. To quote the words of one of Premier Monroe's principal advisers: "We shall resort to all right and lawful means to remove graft and other existing evils, to improve the condition of society, and to elevate our fellow-countrymen. With the hearty co-operation of all the churches, of various denominations, all the charitable and labor organizations, and all other societies existing for the purpose of social and moral reform, we believe that much can be accomplished which is now left undone because efforts are desultory and sometimes conflicting."

WHAT THE GREED OF GAIN DOES.

It is the greed of gain that separates political parties more than anything else. The exaggerations of political organs do only too much to excite the passions of either side, and this lends gusto to the fighting during an election campaign. Shylock suggested that the Christians should stop in their Jew-baiting to consider how much they had in common with their victims. There is a curious sort of way, to the conclusion of the whole matter. If parties help parties in legislating for the good of the whole community, friendship ensues; if parties oppose parties on all questions, enmity is inevitable. But, when parties, like individuals, come to know and understand one another, it becomes increasingly difficult to embroil them with one another.

THE CHALLENGE OF DIFFERENT IDEAS.

To-day parties are urged into a greater activity by the challenge of different ideas, or conflict with new suggestions, and so they pass all such barriers in their pursuit of perfection. Is not that what is always inspiring the engineer and the writer, the inventor and the movie star, though perhaps they do not fully realize it? Something is working all the time under the clouds of present discontent in the political arena. The trend of it all is difficult to disentangle, for the same phenomena have different significance to the minds inspecting. Thus it is that those behind us often cry "Forward!" while those before cry "Back!" And it is by no means always those in front who have the clearest vision. In such circumstances you cannot jam the brakes on progress!

WHAT THE PRIME MINISTER REALLY REPRESENTS.

The Prime Minister undoubtedly represents a very large element in the thought of the country, because, as Gilbert wrote in "Iolanthe,"

"Every boy and every girl That's born into the world alive Is either a Little Liberal Or else a Little Conservative."

Many people like a safe, silent leader, who will listen to their views patiently, instead of interrupting them to express his own. It is curious how the news from Forest Road, in the last few weeks, has not been mainly of what the Premier has definitely said he would do or not do, but of what Representative Saunders or Mr. Stuchand has advised the Premier, or is thought to have told the Premier, to do. The Premier is still the composite figure that he started out to be, in much the same way as an average citizen who reads the papers is, in his thinking a composite of the views presented to his attention there.

DINNERS AND OTHER ENTERTAINMENTS.

The visit of Field Marshal Lord Haig reminds me that we are to have, during the current week, a number of dinners and other entertainments of an unusually interesting nature. It occurs to me, however, that the pleasantest dinners are those composed of average people, for although a brilliant galaxy of guests gives a dinner a certain distinction, it is just as likely as not to be a dull one. I have a very vivid recollection of a dinner composed of people each of whom was distinguished in our local sense of the word. It was given by the late Governor Boyle on a very important occasion. The Prime Minister, four or five cabinet ministers, two judges of the Supreme Court, one distinguished churchman, two or three outstanding journalists, a very able lawyer and several highly successful merchants made up a dinner which at first sight seemed to promise a rare feast of intellectual delight, but which one of the guests declared was the dullest dinner he had ever sat down to. The story of how a certain Prime Minister, not very long ago, with rare tact, decided to waive all regulations about evening dress, and invite the advanced party in the House of Assembly, who abjured general society, to dine with him at his private residence is so well known that there is no indiscretion in alluding to it. One has heard over and over again how they met, and under the soothing influence of a good dinner, wine and general hospitality, the conflicting elements were brought together, and they passed an evening as unique as it was hilarious. Dinner is the great levelling institution of society. As James Russell Lowell says:

"It is the thing that tests and tries men's souls. And shows what leading principle controls."

Crisco is economical, for you use one fifth less than you would cooking butter or lard. Then Crisco is smokeless and odorless and helps keep your kitchen clean.—adv.

Our Dumb Animals

REPORT OF CHIEF AGENT S.P.A.
WEEK ENDING July 4.

Called Sunday morning to look at a horse in a field off Warberry Street which had its leg broken in some unaccountable way, and under the advice of Veterinary Bishop I humanely put the animal to death. Attended to the landing of four carloads cattle and five horses, also two sales of cattle and pigs. Everything was very satisfactory. I also put to death at the request of the owners two dogs. One of these gentlemen contributed to the funds of the Society his subscription. There are a lot of complaints of dogs which are left out all night, one particularly at the corner of Springdale and New Gower Streets. People can't sleep at night in this neighbourhood. Owners must see that they are housed. I also received a report from a gentleman in the East End about people going to the country and leaving cats barred up in the house. It is a shame for people to go on their holidays and leave dumb animals shut in without food or water. I want householders that I will summon some offenders after this warning. Sent four horses in for temporary lameness. The Society also imported a Humane Killer for Mr. Wm. Campbell, the well-known butcher on Water Street this week. I paid particular attention to all horses at the Regatta and around town during the week, and find owners more interested than before in their animals. I do hope the boys and girls will continue picking up nails and everything that is injurious to animals feet off the street and place them out of harm's way. Phoned to shoot a dog which had been run over by a motor car on Water Street West. It had its hip broken. One on Hamilton Street was also hurt and died before I got there. I am very thankful for all messages received and for the great interest which is taken in the Society by the public. I might state I am at the call of all lovers of Dumb Animals every day and at any hour to relieve the suffering and distress of these creatures. Phone all complaints to 653.
