If she had been sage in time she would have taken Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. An offensive breath is most distressing, not only to the person afflicted, if the person has any pride, but to those with whom he or she comes in contact. It is a delicate matter to speak of, but it has parted not only friends but lovers. Bad breath and coatarrh are inseparable. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases, as thousands can testify. THE SYNOD OF HURON

Commencement of the Annual Meeting in This City.

Business Done by the Executive Committee and the College Association

The Latter Elects Officers. The Execu-tive's Recommendations. The tive's Recommendations.—The New Synod Hall Used.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

When the Bishop of Huron stepped forward to deliver his charge at the first business session of the Synod of the Diocese of Huron this afternoon, the beneficial effects of his recent trip were visible in his demeanor. The flash of renewed vigor was in his cheek, and he spoke with the reanimation of health, and his voice was exceedingly impressive. As he stood before the large audience in the new Synod Hell, the remarks offered were in his usual forceful and elequent vein.

The bishop prefaced the first portion of his observations, which dealt mainly with his experience in Expet and Rome, by expressing his deep sense of thankluness for the many benefactions which he had received from God's hand, and for the many benefactions which he had received from God's hand, and for the many benefactions which he had received from God's hand, and for the many benefactions which he had received from God's hand, and for the many benefactions which had been vouchsaled his family during his long journey.

His first remarks, he continued, would be in regard to what he had seen. His faith in the word of God had, by this means, been strongly corroborated, and his helief in the ultimate triumph of divine revelation was greatly assured. When he had viewed the wonders of ancient Expyt and the flown glories of Rome, he could not help ruminating on the supendous efforts which had once been made by mankind to perpetuate certain religious beliefs. They had sought to give a tangible form to these by erecting colossal monuments—they had called their beliefs eternal when they were only transient, they had called them divine when they were only human—but these monuments, like the religions they typified, had crumbled into dust. Such a fact proved to him the utter inability of man's attempting to perpetuate that which was unreal.

If there was anything in the world, continued the bishop, which was in a critical was unreal.

If there was anything in the world, continued the bishop, which was in a critical position, it was the standing of the Bible as position, it was the standing of the Bible as the word of God.

It was almost impossible to calculate the forces which were working for a dethronement of the Scriptures. There was, for instance, a certain school of thinkers in Germany, whose learning could not be impeached, but whose teaching was so utterly antagonistic to the truth that it threatened to undermine the faith of multitudes. Every minister, asserted the bishop, should combat this tendency; every minister should vindicate the integrity, authenticity and power of the word of God. Proceeding, the speaker asked those present to contrast the awful dignity with which Christ had imbued the Scriptures—the sublime and all-pervading reverence—with the impudent and blasphemous writings of the so-called higher critics. This subject was one not merely of deep interest but of absolutely vital importance.

The Synod then adjourned to meet at 10 o'clock this morning.

TUESDAY EVENING.

When the Synod resumed last evening the executive committee's annual report came up for consideration.

The first clause showed the total collections and free-will offerings to have been $21,488 83, a slight increase over last year. The offerings for objects outside the diocese had increased, but those for diocesan purposes had decreased considerably. The paro ial association collections totalled $5,1 90, a decrease of $166 21 since last year. The clergy maintenance and mission fund collections amounted to $3,021 87, as compared with $3,639 84 collected last year. Other credits were: $9,766 77 from the interest account, and $258 45 from the W. A. M. A. The donations amounted to $80 25. The present difficulty should be met and the fund placed on such a basis as to prevent such a recurrence in the future.

This clause caused considerable discussion, during which it was charged that in some cases ministers had not made the collections.

Rev. Mr. Williams, city, moved that the some cases ministers had not made the collections.

Rev. Mr. Williams, city, moved that the following four points be given as instructions to the committee: The adoption of a system of allotment or assessment for raising the necessary funds, the division of the clergy maintenance and mission fund into two distinct funds, the grants to parishes to be made with the understanding that they be diminished annually, or otherwise, and the desirability of urging upon the congregations to increase their contributions.

That He Killed Bertha Manchester at Fall River, Mass.

Boston, June 20.—Joseph Carriero has made a confession to the Portuguese consul of this city of the murder of Bertha Manchester at Fall River. He claims that he struck her with the axe in self-defense. He had gone to the house, he claims, to get some money which Farmer Manchester owed him for work. He intended to steal it, as he tried in vain to collect the money. Bertha ordered him off the place and was about to attack him with the axe. In the scuffle which followed he wrested the weapon from her and struck the fatal blow.

The theory is if the State accepts his confession they must also accept his ground of self-defense, and that he entered the house with no motive to commit murder.

Terrible Accident at Windsor—John Baxior Has Both Legs Cut Off.

WINDSOR, June 20.—John Baxter, a stone mason, living on Cameron avenue, was run over in the Michigan Cantral vards early this morning, and had both legs taken off above the knees. Baxter had been drinking during the past week. He came across the river from Detroit on the Michigan Central car ferry and was not seen again until after the accident. The west-bound express was pulling down to the lower slip dock when some of the yard men heard Baxter groan. He was taken to Hotel Dieu and is not expected to recover. Mrs. Baxter said this morning that her husband had spent all his earnings, and that she did not have a cent in the house. Baxter was a good workman, but when he had earned a sum of money he would go on a spree. a spree.
