Manufacturers' Body Is Working Quietly-Interesting Developments Expected.

Dennis Company May Remain in London—The Latest Move To Be Made by It.

Though the manufacturers' commitee of the city council is keeping very  quiet these days, citizens should not and G. J. Chantler. allow themselves to be led into the deusion that the committee is doing nothing. There are big things under way, but for business reasons they are being kept quiet. London has learned by experience that it is poor business to tell all one knows in the matter of securing industries. In Ontario the different municipalities, as far as the law will allow them to do so, bid up was stricken with paralysis on Mon-las at an auction the inducements for new factories, and it is felt aroun -Miss Meta Macbeth, the Alexandra, city hall that a little investigation inco the manner in which certain citte Toronto, has returned from a visit to have secured certain industries would leave these cities in a position where they would be amenable to the law.

Just now London is looking after its own interests and "is saying nothing but is sawing wood." For the first time in several years the manufacturers committee is one worthy the name. It now embraces some of the largest manufacturers and most influential bustness men of London and as one and all are thoroughly alive to the interests of the city, if something of more than ordinary interest to the citizens

One is in regard to ing to draw from Milton, and the other with reference to an industry Grimsby is endeavoring to take from Windsor. Now the Government is very firm in this, and says the bills must be withdrawn. The law is very clear and says no bonus can be given by a town to induce an industry to leave another town. This industry was bonusd by Milton some years ago, and now Perth is offering $20,000 if it will tocate there. Grimsby is doing exact-ly the same thing in regard to Wind-The Government has taken a very firm stand, and I am very glad

P. R. and G. T. R. tracks, has been murchased by the Fairbanks & Morse Com. pany, of Chicago, who will shortly build a factory there, and employ about 200 men in the manufacture of gas engines, pumps, etc.

> Two interesting features in the eighth annual report of the municipal auditor. Mr. J. B. Laing, are his reference to the bonus evil and his re marks on the present prosperity. In regard to the latter he says that to anyone brought into close connection with the municipalities, the great prosperity of the counties and townships cannot but be evident."

undertakings so fostered are not al-ways attended with success." "If the city will allow us to close w the dead-end of Carling street, which runs to the river, it is altogether likely we will remain in London, now that local capitalists appear anxious to subscribe for stock in the company," Mr M. Miss Priddis Accounts for All But Fifteen-Some Interesting Information.

A comprehensive and very interesting paper on the origin of the names of London's streets was delivered beevening by Miss Harriett Priddis. The paper was the result of many years of inquiry and research, and the names of all the city's streets were accounted eleven. Miss Priddis and the society would be pleased if anyone can give any clue to the origin of any of the names of the following streets: Ann Ann (now Empress avenue), Paul, Francis, Albion, West-moreland avenue, Chesley avenue, Park, Van, Layard, Philip, Smith, Chester, Bridport and Sherwood. Of course, explanations can be easily suggested for some of these names, but the aim is to get an authenticated explanation. The reading of Miss Priddis' paper occupied two hours.
The origin of some of the street names should be known by every patriotic citizen. Almost everyone knows that Wolfe street is named after the hero of the Heights of Abraham, but few are aware that Picton street derives its name from that of Sir Thomas Picton, a favorite general of One of the city's newest streets is

The invitation of the London society for the provincial body to hold its next annual meeting in this city will probably not be accepted, it being expected that the meeting will be held at Niagara Falls. To make preparations for the society's annual picnic, the following or mmittee were appointed: Miss Prid-ois, C. B. Edwards, Dr. Woolverton, Dr. Finglish. A committee, consisting of the following was instructed to report upon the sites where memorial tablets should be erected: H. Macklin. F. Leonard, Dr. English, Miss Priddis. It is proposed, for instance, to place a tablet near Springbank on the spot where Col. Peter Carroll was shot during the rebellion of 1837.
