HEAVY HOOGE LOSS MEANS ADDITIONAL 200 MEN FOR A. M. C.

No. 1 Training Depot To Supply Reinforcements.

NEED MOTOR AMBULANCE
Demands of Patients' Comfort
Make One Absolutely Necessary.

Great battle about Hooze and the consequent casualties, are having an immediate effect on local units. Ambulance Training Depot, No. 1, A. M. C., has been notified to prepare for a draft at once for overseas service. The depot at present has a strength of 235 officers and men, but an additional 200 men will be required immediately to leave the unit up to strength when the draft is called for.

A great many men who have been rejected for overseas service by medical officers on account of hernia, varicose veins, hammer toes and poor eyesight, might be made use of for home service, thus releasing the men for overseas duties. All that is required, it is understood, in many cases, is a slight operation to render many men fit for home duties.

Great Work at Home.
While a great many men are required at the front for this, possibly the noblest branch of the service, there is a great work to be done at home, which it is felt could be handled by men not altogether suited for the strenuous life at the front.

Major D. Smith, A. M. C., who is in command of the Ambulance Training Depot and hospital at Carling Camp, has under his command a number of men suffering from various ailments, mostly of a minor nature, but many serious. The operating room at the barracks is busy a good part of the time. The men of the A. M. C. are busy all the time, and a large staff must be maintained to cope with the work.

The effort that is being made by local women's organizations to provide motor ambulances for the use of the A. M. C. is one that meets with the heartiest approval of Major Smith and Capt. Geo. Ramsay, his second in command. The roads connecting the widely spread camps with the camp hospital are in a deplorable condition, and when an accident occurs in the outlying parts or if a man becomes suddenly ill, the only means of transporting him to the hospital is the two small carts of the type that caused the wounded of the "First Hundred Thousand" such agonies in the retreat to the Marne in the early stages of the war.

An Apt Description.
The suffering that one of the boys at the camp has had, and the severe injury which he has sustained, is aptly described by A. A. Martin in his book, "A Surgeon in Khaki." Martin, a New Zealander, who served with the R. A. M. C. attached to the first army, and had ample opportunity of comparing the horse and motor-driven ambulances.

He says in part: "On the Marne, and for the first week on the Aisne, the transport of the wounded to the base was most important. The only means of transport previous to the arrival of the motor ambulances was by transport lorries belonging to the A. S. C. These lorries brought provisions and supplies to the front, and on returning empty had to call at the various ambulance stations. Straw was laid on the floor of the lorries, and the wounded were packed tightly on the straw. This method of transportation for a man suffering from pneumonia or compound fracture brought a wound or a wound in the abdomen, was a terrible ordeal, and undoubtedly added intense suffering, misery and discomfort to our badly-stricken soldiers. Things improved directly on the advent of the comfortable, well-sprung motor ambulances."

Not Even Padded.
The ambulances at present in use at the camp differ from those mentioned by Martin, in that they are not padded with straw.

ALL ARE SAFE

Welcome News Received by Mrs. Lewis of Six Brothers in Navy.

Mrs. Fred Lewis of 274 Rattle street has just received a cable from her mother from Eastbourne, England, stating that her brothers, of whom there are six in the royal navy, are all safe, and that the British field ambulance attached to a cavalry brigade, is now stationed at Saloniki, Greece.

Nervous and Almost Crazy With Pains in the Head

Clergyman Certifies to This Cure of Nervous Prostration by Use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

No ailment is more discouraging than Nervous Prostration. You may feel better for a day or two, only to find the next day that you have lost ground and are worse than ever. The headaches are worse, languid feelings are terribly depressing. As you lose strength you lose hope and courage and look to the future with fear and trembling.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest blessing that has ever come to the sufferer from nervous exhaustion. It is not narcotic in its influence. It does not deaden the trembling, irritated nerves, but through the medium of the blood nourishes them back to health as nothing else can.

Mrs. Alonzo B. Eisner, Billtown, King's County, N. S., writes: "I was very low with nervous prostration and was about discouraged, as I could not sleep nights, and was almost crazy with the pain in my head. I had tried many doctors, but seemed to get little benefit from their treatments. A friend handed me Dr. Chase's

GUNNER HAGUE WOUNDED

Son of Former London Rector Appears in Casualty List From Front.

Gunner George Warren Hague, son of Rev. Dyon Hague of the Church of the Epiphany, Toronto, and formerly rector of the Bishop Cronyn Memorial Church, this city, has been reported wounded. His brother, Lieut. Robert ("Bobby") Hague of local football fame and now at the front, cabled home the intelligence.

Gunner Hague had been at the front for almost a year, having gone overseas with a draft from a Kingston battery. He had been nine months at the front.

The young soldier was 19 years of age and a student at Toronto University when he enlisted. His brother went overseas as a private of the first contingent, and won his commission for conspicuous bravery.

SIGNALERS HAVE "ACTIVE SERVICE" MANOEUVRES HERE

"Wig-Wag" From Hyde Park to Reservoir.

GOOD DAY'S WORK PUT IN Part of Special Class Now
Training in City Has Practical Experience.

Classes 1 and 2 of the district school of signaling, which includes the signaling officers and sections of all overseas battalions in the first military district, put in a full day Tuesday with practical field manoeuvres. The signallers were established communications from Hyde Park to London with the local centre at the top of the Springsbank reservoir hill.

Communications and field messages were "wig-wagged" and photographed from station to station until received by the officers and men, who established their base at Springsbank.

The work was an active service test, and was carried out most successfully under the direction of Lieut. Stone, assistant district signaling officer. It was started at 10 a. m. and was continued until after 5 o'clock in the afternoon, the squads coming into the city again shortly before 6 p. m.

With Lieut. Stone were four signaling officers of overseas units, who aided in carrying out the test and at the same time gained valuable experience in the relating and transmitting of field messages and communications. The signaling officers were Capt. Rundle, 160th; Lieut. Rowley of the 133rd; C. McL. Kennedy of the 91st and Lieut. Gilbert of the 118th.

The three latter officers were mounted, and in carrying out their work spent the day practically in the saddle. It is expected that a number of other similar "field day" manoeuvres will be carried out during the summer months as part of the training of the signal sections.

WAR RELICS OF ANCIENT EGYPT SENT TO CITY

Battle Axes of Old Picked Up by Dr. Taylor, Displayed Here.

Displayed in The Advertiser windows are two very antique Egyptian battle-axes, which were recently received by Dr. George Taylor, 215 Telemush avenue, from her son, Dr. J. M. Taylor, who is serving with the forces.

After service on a hospital ship and in land hospitals at the Dardanelles, Dr. Taylor went to Alexandria, where he "picked up" to use his own expression, these two interesting relics of ancient times, grim reminders that this is not the first time the people of Egypt have witnessed armed debates.

Both of the axes are of steel, inlaid and embellished with brass, and both have spear-like heads on each end. On one end there are two curved cutting blades on the one, and one such end, with a pointed blade for striking on the other. In hand-to-hand fighting, it is easy to believe that these weapons would do deadly work in experienced hands.

Dr. Taylor joined the overseas forces at Calgary a year ago last April, leaving with medical reinforcements for the British field ambulance attached to a cavalry brigade. He is now stationed at Saloniki, Greece.

MAJOR MACVICAR MAY BUILD NEW UNIT.

SARNIA, June 13.—At present Sarnia is quiet in a military sense there being little recruiting going on except for the American legion which has a station at the ferry dock.

Since the 149th Battalion left for London there has been practically little doing in a military way except for the guards on the tunnel and the Point Edward wireless.

Nothing is being heard here in regard to another unit for overseas except the report that Major MacViccar may be sent back here from the 149th Battalion to recruit another unit. Major MacViccar is a popular officer.

PROVOST MARSHAL OF DISTRICT HAS A LONG WAR RECORD

Major Osborne An Old Soldier of Imperial Service.

HANDLES SITUATION WELL
The Men Accept His Judgment
Without Question in Dealing With Military Crimes.

Major Baron Osborne, provost marshal of No. 1 military district, is the man chiefly responsible for the good behavior of soldiers on London streets. That he is quite capable of maintaining discipline appears to be the consensus of opinion among Londoners who have observed his work.

Major Osborne is a soldier of many years' experience, and like all good soldiers he is more than modest as to his personal achievements in battle, while being justifiably proud of his long period of service.

Enlisted in 1883.
He enlisted with the 23rd Hussars in 1883. In 1887 he went to India with his regiment and during his nine years' stay in the east his duties took him to many parts of the great empire. Of his war service there he says little.

In 1896 he was returned to England for duty at the cavalry depot at Canterbury. There he exchanged from his old regiment to the 1st King's Dragoon Guards.

Wounded in South Africa.
When the Boer war broke out in 1899 he was attached for service to headquarters' signaling staff, and during the advance on Ladysmith he was wounded, being at that time attached to Gen. Buller's Natal army.

After a period in hospital he rejoined the 1st Hussars, and formed one of the army of occupation remaining in South Africa until 1904.

In 1906 he took his discharge, his time being up, and came to Canada. He settled in Berlin, Ont., and immediately became connected with the Canadian militia.

Went With "Fighting First."
At the outbreak of the present war he again signed on for service, and at Valenciennes was attached to the 1st Battalion. He was given command of No. 3 company in that unit, and served with it until wounded in the great fight at Givency in June last year.

In November, 1915, he was invalided home and attached for instructional purposes to No. 1 military district. Last month he was made provost marshal of the district.

Major Osborne's method of handling men is based on his experience. While inclined to leniency where his judgment tells him a man may possibly be not altogether at fault, he is stern with the persistent offender. The men have confidence in an old soldier, because while they know they will be severely dealt with should their conduct merit it, their punishment will be just.

91ST BATTALION SOON DUE TO LEAVE; GETS AN INSPECTION

Col. Shannon and Staff in St. Thomas—Major MacViccar May Head New Unit—160th Not Coming for a While.

[Special to The Advertiser.] ST. THOMAS, June 13.—Col. Shannon, accompanied by Lieut.-Col. Chahoe, Lieut.-Col. Smith and Major Taylor, were in the city today inspecting the 91st Battalion's stores and equipment.

This is the last inspection, it is thought, prior to the battalion's going overseas.

The sergeants of the 25th Regiment will entertain the sergeants of the 91st Battalion at the Grand Central Hotel Friday evening.

The men of the 91st will be given a farewell banquet at the barracks on Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The banquet will be given by the members of the local chapters of the Daughters of the Empire. A splendid program is being arranged. Mrs. R. J. Dunnore has been selected as head cheerleader of the committee.

TIME FOR PULLING.
Orders have been issued that all overseas commanders are to allow their men the time off required for any attention to their teeth. "Appointment cards" have been issued by the C. A. B. C., and the officers are instructed to take cognizance of these cards in relieving men of duty to attend to dental clinics.

MUST HAVE PERMISSION.
Strict orders have been issued that no ashes are to be brought into the camp for repairing any of the camp roads unless the sanction of Major R. W. Bishop, acting C. E., camp engineer, has been secured.

OFFICERS OF THE DAY.
Orders at the day are: Carling Camp—Field officer, Major W. W. MacVicar, 149th Battalion; medical officer, Capt. J. J. Walters, 118th Battalion. North Camp—Field officer, Major H. Martin, 118th; medical officer, Capt. J. F. James, 149th. East Camp—Field officer, Major A. Johnson, 118th; medical officer, Capt. F. L. Nelly, 142nd.

ANOTHER RESERVIST DISCHARGED.
Another Italian reservist of the 142nd Battalion has been discharged in order to serve with the forces of his own land. He is Pte. T. Steele.

Pte. C. J. Dunphy from the 99th Battalion, has been transferred to the 142nd.

LIEUT. MARSHALL MARRIED.
Lieut. Athol Marshall, late of the 135th Battalion and now with the Engineer Training Depot at Ottawa, was last week married in Toronto to Miss Olive Beatrice Ashfield, daughter of Mr. F. Ashfield of that city. The ceremony was performed by Capt. W. A. Wallace, chaplain of the Engineers' Depot.

Lieut. Marshall, who is the son of the county registrar, Joseph Marshall, of this city, was one of the most popular officers of the 135th before he was transferred to the engineer service.

READY FOR OPENING.
Soccer enthusiasts among the men in khaki are eagerly waiting for tomorrow afternoon when the senior W. F. A. khaki division games are started. The Western Football Association made the military camp one district, and the first two games of the district are scheduled for Thursday. The 110th stacks up against the 111th, and the 118th will try conclusions with the 135th.

The intermediate start their schedule on Friday, when the same four battalions will be represented. The 111th plays off with the 110th and the 135th with the 118th.

So far only five teams are presented in the groups, the A. M. C. being the fifth in both divisions.

215TH OF BRANT SIGNS 814 IN THREE MONTHS.

[Special to The Advertiser.] BRANTFORD, June 13.—In the three months the 215th Battalion, under the command of Lieut.-Col. Harry Cock, has been recruiting, 814 offered their services, but of that number 42 per cent were rejected. These figures show that the battalion has maintained a vigorous, although quiet, campaign. While results have been satisfactory, they were in one sense discouraging.

Last evening, working among the crowd that welcomed Lieut.-Col. Mac Colquhoun home, two recruits were secured.

ALLENFORD SOLDIER WINS LIEUTENANCY.

OWEN SOUND, June 13.—Sergeant Milon Allenford, a well-known Allenford boy, has been promoted to a lieutenant. He was a member of the first contingent, going with the Bruce Battalion, and came through the serious fighting at St. Julien. He enlisted as a private and has earned every promotion.

The Only Way to Stop Food Fermentation.

Neutralize Stomach Acidity, Prevent Indigestion by Taking a Little Magnesia.

It is the gas generated by sour fermentation that distends your stomach and causes you to have a flushed face after eating, with headaches, heartburn, flatulence, souring, etc., and the reason why drugs and peptic pills and various digestive aids do not give you relief is that they have no effect on the acidity that has formed in your stomach, and which physicians have proved to be the chief cause of practically all forms of stomach trouble. An absolutely pure antacid or neutralizing agent must be used to neutralize the harmful stomach acid.

There is nothing better for this purpose than ordinary bismarated magnesia. You can obtain bismarated magnesia at practically any drug store in either powder or tablet form. It cannot injure the stomach, is inexpensive, and is the majority of cases a teaspoonful of the powder, or two tablets, taken with a little water after meals, will be quite sufficient to instantly neutralize excessive acidity of the stomach and thus prevent all possibility of indigestion.—Advt.

RAIDED VENICE.

[Canadian Press.] Rome, via Paris, June 14.—It was officially announced today that Austrian seaplanes raided Venice on Monday night. The statement says that one woman was killed and four civilians injured, and that the property damage was slight.

An official report from Vienna yesterday said that an Austrian air squadron had successfully bombed the Venetian arsenal and the railroads approaching the city.
