The Weekly Monitor,

—Co-operative dairying in Bridgetown has not proved a popular undertaking though there has been ample evidence that had farmers taken a more general and lively interest in the creamery it would have proved a most valuable agent in tife uplifting of their farms and a source of a considerable ready cash income. The failure of the concern was due almost entirely to the short supply of milk, for a creamery is a manufactory that can make a hundred pounds of butter or cheese practically as cheaply as one, if the cost of milk is not taken into consideration. A certain supply must be had before the expenses of the establishment can be paid, but after this limit is past profits continue to increase till the fullest capacity of the creamery is taxed. If the Bridgetown creamery were supplied with all the milk it could handle under skilful and economical operations it would pay good prices for milk and very substantial dividends to the operative method to the pressure of the concern of the concern of the readers of the creamery is taxed. If the Bridgetown creamery were supplied with all the milk it could handle under the paid of the Middleton school for next year.

The J. C. R. authorities are extending their sciling at Shubenacadic on account of the increase of business there. When finished it will be 3,000 feet long.

Messrs. Woodman and Erlain have proved to take part in a series of races to be held in Shelburne.

The Dominion Coal Company on account of the enormous expansion of their business recently acquired 400 ft. of additional space on which they are recting one of the more manual proved to take part in a series of races to be held in Shelburnes.

The Dominion I coal Steel company on account of with all the milk it could handle under skilful and economical operations it would pay good prices for milk and very substantial dividends to the cooperative stock holders. The butter and cheese market is always strong for a choice product and it was only because of the insufficient quantity that the local institution failed of satisfaction to its stockholders. Since it could not be run as a co-operative creamery it is well that the interest of an individual has been attracted to its possibilities, for the town can ill afford to have any of its industries remain idle. It has passed to the control of an enterprising man whose business methods and life here have earned him a strong popularity, and we predict that he will do what the co-operative system failed to domake the creamery a paying institution. With a fixed price for milk the make the creamery a paying institu-tion. With a fixed price for milk the tion. With a fixed price for milk the farmers know exactly what they may expect from their dairies and it may be they will take to the new plan better than the old one of accepting the price they could earn. Co-operation has never proved much of a success in Nova Scotia farming communities though it is the sign by which capital is conquering the competitions of a great business world and earning millions of dollars of profits where thousands marked the limit before the principle was practised and undermillions of dollars of profits where thousands marked the limit before the principle was practised and understood. As it has been with the creamery so it has been with agricultural societies, farmers' co-operative stores and many other institutions that have awakened a monetary interest and then been thrown away like a toy that a child has tired of. These concerns are all founded on the soundest business principle of the day and under intelligent co-operation of the interests concerned are sure money winners. The co-operative creamery ought not to have been dropped but it will someday be taken up again when a better understanding of the objects and possibilities of such an industry prevails.

The arrangement to extend the town water service to Carleton's Corner is one which will meet with general approval from the townspeople and ought to work out satisfactorily for the other parties to the contract. It certainly would have reflected on some person's good judgment had two systems been established in so small a community. Carleton's Corner ought to be able to secure a water supply from Bridgetown pipes at a cheaper rate than would obtain under the installation of an independent system, and Bridgetown ought to be able to make a good profit out of the supply contract at the rates quoted. The pipe extension will be made in the most profitable direction that now remains informated with the system and the immediate revenue will pay adequate returns upon the cost of constructing the extension. There are also many chances of further development of the system in that direction. The town water service is a branch of the corporate business established on an paying basis and, as long as exten-

ment of the system in that direction. The town water service is a branch of the corporate business established on a paying basis and, as long as extensions of the pipe lines do not overbuden the source of water supply, increases in that business will at this time produce larger profits than were realized from earlier operations. After the improvements made in the reservoir last year there ought not to be any danger of a short water supply, even if the number of service taps were doubled. With Bridgetown water at the corner we may look forward with a brighter hope to the time when the people of the last named community will see so many advantages in a

New York, April 19—A special cable to the 'Tribune' from London says:—Germany's efforts to extend and open up colonies are not very successful from a financial point of view. The total annual revenue of the eight protectorates which are under the rule of the Emperor William is only $2,000,000, and the Reichstag has to vote $7,500,000 to support them. Kiaochau revenue is $90,000 and a subsidy of $3,000,000 is required to make both ends meet. Again, the revenue of the protectorate in South-west Africa amounts to $450,000 while the total sum required for government is $2,000,000. But even these yearly subsidies do not always represent the full amounts that have to be provided out of the imperial funds. The estimates for the present year include the sum of $800,000 to cover deficits that occurred in 1898 and 1899 in the budgets of the protectorates of East Africa.

Middleton is agitating for a consolidation of the rural schools thereabouts, and a number of sections have voted on the question and decided to take advantage of the provisions made for the purpose. If carried out, adequate school buildings and equipment and a suitable staff of teachers will be provided at Middleton and the children of outside sections will be conveyed free of charge, to and from school. There is talk in western Kings of making the same experiment.
