

needy friends, lead sinners from the error of their ways to Him, reclaim the vicious, and advance the interests of His kingdom; and if we do so He will surely recompense us. He will not let us serve Him for naught; for is it not written, "God is not unrighteous to forget your work and labor of love? and whosoever shall give to drink unto one of these little ones a cup of cold water only in the name of a disciple, verily I say unto you, he shall in no way lose his reward." Yes, and we may be sure that if He employs us, if we are faithful workers together with Him, He will liberally remunerate us. He will give us the pleasure of an approving conscience, will make His service delightful to us, will give us a good name, make us esteemed by the wise and worthy, will cause the blessing of them that were ready to perish, to come upon us, and give us at last the plaudit, "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter into the joy of thy Lord." "Wherefore, be ye steadfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know your labour is not in vain in the Lord."
