

TO LET

Wellington St., Private Office, No. 10 for insurance of...

West Side... plan, hot and cold... session at once.

OTT AGENCY, St. Arcade, No. 12.

IN TATE... 151 King West

ENT... Association... Street.

WOMAN'S WORLD

ASSISTANCE, WORLD'S PATTERN DEPARTMENT.

Lean on no mortal, Love and Service... But it was never God's intent... Your spirit from its path, howe'er...

Richest Girl Marries... Essen, Prussia, Oct. 15.—In the presence of Emperor William and 140 guests...

LADIES SIX-GORED SKIRT—No. 1058.—A plain skirt is always a desirable addition to a woman's wardrobe... The pattern is cut in two lengths...

World Pattern Department. Please send the above-named pattern, as per directions given below.

Name..... Street..... Town..... Province.....

Measurement—Waist..... Bust..... Age (if child or miss' pattern).....

CAUTION—Be careful to enclose above illustration and send size of pattern wanted. When the pattern is sent measure you need only mark 22, 24, or whatever it may be. When in bust measure, 22, 24, 26, or whatever it may be...

Special Note.—Always keep duplicate of all orders sent, and send duplicate in making enquiries about pattern. Do not receive promptly.

Address The World Pattern Department, 53 Yonge St., Toronto.

basar and sale of work on November 27th.

Graduation at St. Michael's. After three years of rigorous training, the Nurses' Graduating Class of St. Michael's Hospital yesterday received their diplomas...

Working Girls Scarc. Windsor, Oct. 15.—Windsor manufacturers are having serious difficulty in securing female help...

Y.W.C.A. Visitors. Two prominent workers of the Young Women's Christian Association from South Africa are in the city this week—Miss Bessie Porter, who is president of the South African national secretariat...

Velvet Days. It's a day of velvets, for the suits and costumes worn to receptions and teas—suits made with velvets that trail softly after you, or velvets plain or in color mixtures, which are as different from anything you've seen before in the velvet line as day is from night...

Personal Mention. The engagement is announced of Miss Margaret Barron, daughter of the late John Barron of this city, to Christopher McRae, manager of the Alberta Lumber Company of Vancouver, B. C. The marriage will take place the early part of November.

St. Luke's Church Bazaar. At the annual meeting of the St. Luke's Parish Women's Association, held Thursday evening, the 11th inst., it was decided to hold the annual batch of "independent" voters is expected from London, when the court resumes at 11 a.m. to-day.

BRIBERY INVESTIGATION

Continued From Page 1.

In the Morning. Daniel Holmes, whose testimony opened the morning's proceedings, told of having been bribed by one Walton to Tom Lewis, and being told by the latter that he would get $10 if he voted for Hyman. Collins held the cash and from this paid him $5.50 in Lewis' Hotel. He would have voted for Hyman, anyway.

Robert Forman swore to having been approached by Severyn, and received $10 for himself in Hodgins' flower and feed store, and also $10 for his son. Both would have voted Liberal in any election.

George B. Hodgins had been promised $10 by Collins, and had insisted on being paid before the election. He would not have voted at all but for the bribe.

George Harvey had an envelope containing $10 left for him at the place where he worked, for voting for Hyman. At the general election, Joseph Hardy had arranged so that witness received $5 for voting for Hyman.

Like most of the witnesses, he would have voted for Hyman, but Joseph Hardy had arranged so that witness received $5 for voting for Hyman.

Alfred J. Clark related how Lewis had come to him and promised him $10 to vote for Hyman. He had produced two five dollar bills, and in two halves, giving a section of each to the witness, who had presented them after the election, and received $10 less one dollar. Witness having no vote, had not gone to the polls at all.

Alfred Clark, father of the preceding witness, said he was sent by Hardy to Collins and promised $10. He received $5.50 in Lewis' hotel in presence of Lewis. Clark would have voted for Hyman without this inducement, as would also the Albert Bowman, who had got $50.

Murdoch McKay failed to identify Mulloy as having been with Collins when the act of independent voting in the latter hotel $10 for him. McKay got $5 for his vote in the Beck election.

John W. Graham had received $5 as a "favor" for his Hymaning, and also received $4.50 from the Beck election. John T. Storey and Wilson Brown told of getting respectively $3 and $10 for Hymaning, and Hymaning Ward was bribed to the extent of $10, and John Crockett's portion in the by-election was $10.

On the name of William Spence being called without effect, Mr. DuVernet said: "I heard that William Spence had left town, and then I again heard he would be here on London to-day. I guess he's gone."

"I expect so," assented the magistrate. "I think he has left the country."

Independent Voters. John Dwyer, the first witness of the afternoon, announced that he belonged to the type of independent voter the court remarked that a good many such voters had appeared in court.

Witness had received $5 in Lewis' hotel from Jerry Collins, the Hymaning man at the previous general election. Services had promised him $5 if he voted for Hyman, but witness had not done so, and he had not received payment because he had not voted for Hyman.

William Cochrane testified that he had acted as polling clerk in sub-division West London, under Rev. J. P. Sullivan. Questioned closely, Cochrane admitted that he had received $5.50 from Collins, and he had given $5.50 in payment. This payment was in addition to $2 that he got as polling clerk. He had also received an envelope containing $10, which he had given to William Flannery, Collins' hand to one of the graduates, who had previously been asked to canvass Flannery and had found him an independent voter. He had told Collins that Flannery was a "hard man" to take, and witness denied he had reported to Sifton or Lewis. He had not mentioned money to Flannery till he gave him the envelope, when he told him that he must return 50 cents to Collins.

Albert Burgess told of having received $5.50 for his vote. He had been approached by Joseph Hardy, and the money was paid by Collins at Lewis' hotel. He did not see Lewis there. Services had held an envelope for witness in the morning, and he had told him Services would have the money for him. Burgess had also received $5 for voting for Hyman in the general election.

Mr. Robinette tried to bring out that Burgess was naturally a Liberal voter, but witness admitted that he had sometimes voted one way and sometimes another.

Got Only $50. Joseph Fortner was next called. He had been promised $10, but only got $5; why, he didn't know. Nothing was said by Collins about knowing how witness would vote. He also went to a room in Lewis' hotel under instructions from Collins. Fortner didn't know what he would have voted for Hyman anyway.

Frederick Ellis was asked how much he had received from Mr. Jones. Ellis thought it was about $5. He also got $5.50 from Collins. He understood that "some gentleman from Toronto" was with Collins when witness got his envelope. Witness said he had received $5 in the Beck election, and had signed a receipt.

Contradicted Collins. Frank Kallenbach proved the exception to the general rule in daily contradicting the evidence of Collins as to having received any money for his vote at any time. He was shown his signature in a memo book and explained that Collins had come to him after the election was over and had represented that it would aid him (Collins) in getting something from the government. If witness would append his signature, Collins had told him that the elections cost him a lot of money, and he wanted to get something in return. Witness had never received any money from the elections save for working. He had once been paid $3 for driving a cab.

Asked if he had told anybody he had received $5 for a vote, Kallenbach replied he had not. He added, "Even if I did I don't think I would say so. You don't suppose I would be sucker enough for that, do you?"

Mr. DuVernet had a colloquy with Mr. Collins, and the latter testified if he didn't remember getting $5 from Collins in the Queen's Hotel, Kallenbach stoutly denied this, and turning to Collins said: "Never mind, Jerry; you needn't shake your head."

Mr. DuVernet demanded if witness hadn't received $5 after his vote in the general election, and $10 in the by-election and another $5 in the Beck election. "It is untrue. I never received a cent from Jerry Collins."

Mr. Kallenbach created some feeling of a flutter by declaring that Collins had tried to coerce him on Saturday night last, by telling him that if he didn't go to Toronto and swear he got $10 for voting in the by-election he would perjure himself.

Collins, thru Mr. DuVernet, denied the accusation, but Kallenbach persisted.

To Mr. Robinette, witness said that Collins had told him that at the last election he had drawn $800 out of the bank, and had told the manager he was going to use it in the elections.

Henry Taylor, David Armstrong and Edward Elliott failed to answer to their names.

White Just Took a Notion. James White, contractor of Ottawa, said he was president of the Liberal Association of Ottawa City at the time of the by-election. He went to London on the Thursday preceding the Tuesday when the by-election was held. He had taken a notion to go to London.

"What caused you to take this notion of going to London?" "I was interested in the election and thought I would go to London. I wanted to see how elections were run in London."

"Was it from an educational standpoint?" "I don't know from what standpoint."

"Did you go up there to assist?" "I simply went up on a visit."

Mr. White explained further that he had always taken an interest in politics. Mr. Hyman was a personal friend.

It appeared that Mr. Long, a broker, secretary of the Ottawa Liberal Association, had gone with him to London.

Mr. White exhibited some asperity when pressed further as to his reasons for going to London.

"I don't know that I have any right to tell you what I went there for."

Mr. DuVernet asked how witness had helped in the elections, and "I didn't say that," he replied.

"You didn't help?" "No, I did not."

You didn't suggest anything that you did connect with the election, you neither spoke, canvassed, voted nor did anything to assist Mr. Hyman."

Might Have Suggested Ideas. John W. White said later that he might have offered some suggestions as to checking lists. He had been in the committee rooms four or five times. He didn't know what Mr. Long was doing.

Mr. White testified that he had met Reid and O'Gorman, but denied that these gentlemen were expecting him. He had met O'Gorman in Ottawa before.

"Was this admirable system explained to you?" questioned Mr. DuVernet. The witness smiled and replied that the investigation was the first he knew of it.

"Yes, I know it," assented the magistrate. "I think he has left the country."

Not exactly, I knew he was taking an active part and directing organization.

Mr. White had met Mr. Cory of Ottawa at London.

"Did you have any conversation with him as to how much money he paid out?" "No."

"Didn't he tell you how much he brought?" "No, he didn't."

The witness denied that there had been any such conversation, and said he understood that Mr. Cory was in London on private business. He termed Mr. Cory an "old-time Conservative."

Mr. DuVernet pressed, however, that the absent Mr. Cory had a personal interest in the election of Mr. Hyman, and this the witness did not refute.

"How much money did you take with you to London?" pursued the examiner.

"I couldn't say—not very much," was answered. "Under questioning he owned that he might have been as much as $500. He explained, however, that he was in the habit of carrying that much money around in his pocket."

Source of the Money. The money of Mr. White failed him as to the exact source whence had come this inflated roll, but was very positive that it was his own money. He supposed he had drawn it from the bank.

"How much did you contribute to the election expenses, legitimate expenses?" "Not a dollar," said Mr. White, who stated that while in London he had drawn no draft nor received money from anyone.

"Did you pay any money in London to anybody?" "I won't say I didn't."

"Directly or indirectly did you give anybody any money?" "Directly or indirectly I didn't give any contribution," said Mr. White, who was closing with some care the form of reply.

He had previously declined to make a positive denial, and he replied: "I guess, perhaps, I spoke a little too quick."

Evident Concealment. Magistrate Denison interposed that Mr. White in his carefulness of the term "contribution" was palpably trying to conceal something. Mr. DuVernet asked Mr. White if he had given any money to anybody outside of London, and witness appealed to the magistrate as to whether he had to answer.

The court: "There is something working in your mind. I would like to know what it is."

Mr. White unhesitatingly himself as follows: "The only money that I paid in the thing was to three or four young men from Ottawa, who were there, I paid their hotel expenses."

Mr. DuVernet taxed the witness with having withheld this information, and elicited from Mr. White that the names of the three of the young men were Higgerty, Stewart and McGraw. The name of the fourth he had forgotten. He had arranged about ten days before the election that they should go to London. They were members of the Liberal Association of Ottawa, and nothing was to be paid for their services. Mr. White admitted, however, that he had advanced the money for their railway fare.

"What were they to do?" "They were to go there as clerks and to look after the lists."

Mr. White denied that the going of the quartet to London was prompted by anyone outside of the association. Queried by Mr. White if the hotel bills, witness agreed that he might have given $75 to each of the four.

"Would you be surprised to learn

ETHEREAL LEATHER.

ST. CRISPIN is said to have got his leather from the Angels.

It surely was more merciful to the feet, than the air tight mineral tannages of today.

"Normal Calfskin" is made in Germany—a long distance from Heaven—but its mission to sweating, stifling feet, is merciful enough to be almost angelic.

Pores left open so that foot moisture can evaporate through them.

Cool, clean, light, sanitary, and brilliant, when shined, as patent leather.

To be had only in that Goodyear Welted, fixed-priced, foot-wear.

"The Slater Shoe"

SLATER SHOE STORES IN TORONTO

117 Yonge Street. 810 Queen St. East, 528 Queen St. West, 27 Dundas Street, Toronto Junction.

BASTEDO'S

77 King Street East ESTABLISHED 1878

Manufacturers Importers

AND Exporters

OF FURS ONLY

It stands for Reason

That houses give their entire energies to producing one article, can give better results than houses that try to sell everything. Our furs are superior in style, fit and value to any others in the city.

Liberal terms to the trade. Send for catalog. Raw Furs and Ginseng. Send for price list.

SIR MACKENZIE ACCEPTS.

Becomes President of the Northumberland & Durham Power Co.

Belleville, Oct. 15.—(Special.)—In response to the request of a deputation to-day, Sir Mackenzie Bowell accepted the presidency of the Northumberland-Durham Power Company. The deputation was composed of Mr. Culverwell, E. S. Huxley, K.C., Charles Munson, D. B. Sinclair and H. C. Hunt. Letters were received from H. A. Ward, M.P., and R. A. Mutholland. The hydro-electric power commission has asked the company to supply power for Belleville.

Cold Storage in Irish Bogs. "For long it puzzled me," writes Sir Douglas Brooke in "Country Life," "to know what the poachers did with the birds they shot in July. There is no cold storage in the North of Ireland, but they have discovered an excellent substitute. The birds are buried four feet or five feet deep in dry peat, and, I am told, come out perfectly fresh at the end of two or three weeks. When one remembers the 'bog butter' of the past, it is a comparatively fresh state, after being buried for probably two hundred or three hundred years, it is not difficult to believe that groups might keep under the same circumstances, for two or three weeks."

Earl Grey Donates Trophy. Ottawa, Oct. 15.—Earl Grey is donating a musical and theatrical trophy for competition by amateurs at Ottawa, during the week commencing Jan. 23, 1907. The competition will be open to British North American cities.

Induction at St. Luke's. The induction of the Rev. Ashton George Hamilton Dicker of London, Eng., who lately received the call to the rectorship of St. Luke's Church, took place last night in the presence of a large attendance of visiting clergy. Among others present were the Lord Bishop of Toronto, Canon Welch, Rev. W. A. Cooper, Canon Cayley, Canon Ingles, Rev. F. G. Plummer, Rev. F. H. Bartley, Canon F. Farncomb, Rev. Archdeacon Sweeney, Rev. W. L. Baynes-Read, Rev. H. McCausland, Rev. T. W. Paterson, Rev. J. Davenport, Rev. A. W. Bryant, Rev. E. G. Wood, Rev. W. H. Vance, Rev. J. S. Broughall, Rev. Wm. Farncomb and Rev. C. J. James.

Following the beautiful induction service of the Anglican Church Canon Welch gave an impressive address basing his sermon on 2nd Cor. iv. 5. "We preach not ourselves, but Christ Jesus the Lord, and ourselves, your servants, for Jesus sake."

What did the words imply? Through his teaching Paul was greatly misrepresented. Christ was the promised Messiah of the Jewish race.

"We may not," said the speaker, "atone for entire forgetfulness, and disregard of His claims for the greater part of the first day of the week, and the whole of the six days by just one act of outward homage on the morning of the Lord's Day. If Christ is Lord He must enter into the social, political and commercial life of his followers. Criticism is so easy and so cheap, but no one has earned the right to criticize his clergyman who has not first prayed for him."

The right hand of fellowship was extended to the rector, and luncheon was served at the close of the induction.

Women's Institutes. At Darrien, Dryden and Oxdrift, in Rainy River District, the women's institutes founded last summer have been holding very successful meetings.

Good Blood. Good blood, good health; bad blood, bad health; there you have it. Why not help nature just a little and change the bad to the good? Bad blood to good blood; poor blood to rich blood! Ask your doctor how this applies to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and how it applies to you! Could anything be more fair?

Good Blood

Good blood, good health; bad blood, bad health; there you have it. Why not help nature just a little and change the bad to the good? Bad blood to good blood; poor blood to rich blood! Ask your doctor how this applies to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and how it applies to you! Could anything be more fair?

Good blood, good health; bad blood, bad health; there you have it. Why not help nature just a little and change the bad to the good? Bad blood to good blood; poor blood to rich blood! Ask your doctor how this applies to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and how it applies to you! Could anything be more fair?

Good blood, good health; bad blood, bad health; there you have it. Why not help nature just a little and change the bad to the good? Bad blood to good blood; poor blood to rich blood! Ask your doctor how this applies to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and how it applies to you! Could anything be more fair?

Good blood, good health; bad blood, bad health; there you have it. Why not help nature just a little and change the bad to the good? Bad blood to good blood; poor blood to rich blood! Ask your doctor how this applies to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and how it applies to you! Could anything be more fair?

Good blood, good health; bad blood, bad health; there you have it. Why not help nature just a little and change the bad to the good? Bad blood to good blood; poor blood to rich blood! Ask your doctor how this applies to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and how it applies to you! Could anything be more fair?

Good blood, good health; bad blood, bad health; there you have it. Why not help nature just a little and change the bad to the good? Bad blood to good blood; poor blood to rich blood! Ask your doctor how this applies to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and how it applies to you! Could anything be more fair?

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought. Bears the Signature of J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought. Bears the Signature of J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought. Bears the Signature of J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought. Bears the Signature of J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought. Bears the Signature of J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought. Bears the Signature of J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.