BRITAIN NOW READY TO CONQUER THE BOERS, And

Nor was the slowly aroused enthusiasm confined to the officers. At Weilington Barracks, where a battailon of Grenadiers, which forms a portion of the First Army Corps, had just returned from 16 months service in Gibraitar, the enthusiasm knew no bounds. Seldom does Tommy Atkins permit to himself the luxury of enthusiasm, but the regiment had had a long spell of dreary garrison duty, and hailed the cali to active service with school-boy delight.

Underneath all, however, officers, subalterns and civilians recognize the fact that the Transvaal campaign will not be a pienic, and the sober reality of this gives a sterner note to London life than anything that has occurred since the days of Gordon and Khartoum.

Lord James' Straight Talk,
The first Minister to speak publicly regarding the ultimatum was Lord James of Hereford, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancashire, who, at Aberdeen, said: "The Government have done everything in their power to preserve peace. Apparently, however, diplomacy is ended, and the hopes of peace are virtually destroyed, and that not by the action of the Queen's Government, but by the Transvaal Government.

"Are great stir Has Begun."

"A great stir of military preparation has already begun. An enormous fleet of transports is in readiness to sail, and the departure of Sir Redver's Buller with an army among military officers is that Sir Redver's advance will be through the capital of the Orange Free State, that the Boer army will be ultimately drawn into that quarter, and that the Natal forces will cut off its retreat. The ultimate plan of campaign is now less important than the earlier stage of hostile operations, when the Brit. No Party in It Now.

"In the face of this attack upon the nation, the people will undoubtedly close their ranks and relegate party controversies to a more convenient season.

"There is one more word to be said. Without attempting to judge the policy which concluded a peace after the reverse at Majuba Hill, I am bound to state my profound conviction that there is no conceivable Government in this country which could repeat it."

Peace Only in Defeat.

A curious story is in circulation regarding Lord Rosebery's silence, unbroken util to-day. It is said that the real object of his silence was to lead President Kruger to believe that Lord Rosebery and his followers might come to the assistance of the Transvaal, thus stiffening President Kruger's back to resist British demands. According to this explanation, Lord Rosebery's fear had been that President Kruger would yield, which from His Lordship's point of view would have been fatal, as he is fully convinced that the only road to permanent peace is the defeat of the Boers.

"I used the old-fashioned coffee from my babyhood, and, like many others, thought I could not live without it. Was in the army four years during the rebellion and came out very much broken in health. I was compelled to quit the active work of the ministry for more than a year at a time, suffering terribly from stomach and intestinal troubles and torpid liver, with the consequent nervous headache and prostration, lumbago and rheumatism.

"Four years ago, being confined to bed with these troubles and ulceration of the liver, my physician positively forbade the use of coffee and brought me some Postum Cereal Food Coffee. Since that time, myself and family have used no other coffee. All my intestinal trouble has been greatly relieved, and I no longer suffer from rheumatism and very little from torpid liver or billiousness.

matism and very little from torpid liver or billiousness.

"I am fully convinced that coffee is very largely responsible for the greater part of all stomach, intestinal and liver troubles from which people suffer. I am now 58 years old, and my health has been so much improved that I do as much comfort. I can conscientiously attribute it chiefly to the use of Postum Cereal Food Coffee. There are several friends who have had valuable experience with the leaving off of coffee and the use of Postum Food Coffee. It gives me pleasure to add my testimony to help humanity to understand that the very general cause of sickness is, I consider, largely attributable to mistakes in the use of food and drink." Rev. J. IT WAS AN AMAZING DOCUMENT.

South Africa Is Terrible,

New York, Oct. 11,-Referring editorially to the Transvaal's ultimatum, The Tribune to-day says: "A hackneyed proverb springs to mind at reading the amazing document sent from Pretoria to London: "Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad." We would not say that destruction of the Transvaal is the divine will. But assuredly there could be no greater act of madness than the despatch of such a defiance and virtual declaration of war. The ultimatum—assuming the cabled reports of it to be correct—comes as all the more unwelcome shock to the peaceful and moral sensibilities of the world because it has within the last few days been growing more and more evident that an amicable settlement of all matters in dispute between Great Britain and the Transvaal was easily within reach. The utterances of such men as Mr. Morley on the one side in England and the Duke of Devonshire on the other have indicated the presence and prevailing force of a spirit of justice and conciliation worthy of triumph. Nor have similar manifestations of good-will in South Africa been lacking. Yesterday morning there was cause to reckon peace decidedly in the ascendant. This morning the creaking of the gates of the Temple of Janus may be heard.

"The world will look upon the catastrophe of war in South Africa with inexpressible regret, and will regard it as a needless and wanton wrong upon humanity. But it will not charge responsibility therefor against the great power, which has wrought justice to Boer and Briton alike in its own domain, and has demanded nothing more than justice for Briton and Boer alike in the domain of its dependent." to-day says : "A hackneyed proverb springs mal declaration of war by the British dovernment.

"This news is received here with cynical amusement by the Imperial officials, who perceive that Kruger has delivered himself into their hands, since the responsibility for war must rest with the Government which sends out so peremptory a summons to evacuate South Africa and then sets its own soldiers in motion.

"This despatch is well calculated by its contemptuous terms and its lack of reason to unite the British nation. There can be no more peace talk in any quarter, and the Liberals will join forces with the Unionists in supporting active war measures.

"A Great Stir Has Begun."

"Rear-Admiral Schley informed acting Secretary Allen to-day of his willingness to assume command of the South Atlautic squadron whenever the department desired, and was informed that the cruiser Chicago would be ready for sea on Oct. 25. She will proceed immediately to Delagoa Bay, and Commander Merrill, commanding the Montgomery, will make his report to the squadron commander."
