On the War Path.

On the War Path. The wave of temperance reform which subsided a few years ago in this city was again set flowing at to-day's meeting of the license commissioners. A deputation stiended the meeting and the term by The Times when the fire occurred, the barn belonging to Hon. James Sutherland, which was partially burned a month ago, contained a pool table. The pool table is there yet, and it is the graft. Every night a beyr of young men gather in the barn and by the dim light of sev-eral lanterns hung about they play pool.

Is next to im possible to find in dental offices. It is a self-evident. It is the duty of every patient to be most particu-lar in this respect. In just the matter of cleanliness in the dentist's office or operating room is evidenced his care or his carelessness in your reception and in his work. Our instruments are thoroughly sterilized after each operation. The room, chair and spittoons are carefully cleansed. A fresh, clean linen cover protects the clothes of each patient.

Little courtesies, to be sure, but they express cleanliness -- which certainly isn't a little matter.

The only drawback is that the barn has no roof now, and when it rains pool play-ing has to be suspended for the night. Nearly every night young men may be seen with cues or an armful of balls, wending their way in the direction of the
