Newfoundland Would Favor Any Scheme of Compensation for Families of Men.

Newfoundland, in the course of an interview in London with a representative of the Salvation Army, referred the two battalions Newfoun has sent to the allies, with a third in training. One of the objects of his visit to England was, he said, to inspect these fine fellows at their training depot; also to cheer the Newfoundland men who are in hospital. The province also, Sir Edward explained, has some 2000 men in training for the navy. For half a century naval training has been one of its special cares, the British Government having presented the province with a ship, in which the men make their home, under the supervision of British officers tish officers.

One result of the North Sea flight One result of the North Sea flight, said Sir Edward, was to give naval recruiting in the province a stimulus. That is a typical British characteristic.

Asked whether Newfoundland will offer any facilities for the settlement of families who have suffered by the war, and for whose benefit the Salvation Army has a carefully-laid scheme of emigration, regulated in regard to its finances by the public trustee, Fremier Morris said he was sure the province would make a sympathetic contribution towards the execution of any emigration scheme for widows, orphans, or disabled soldiers. "Any Newfoundland Government would be friendly towards any scheme proposed by the responsible British bodies that deal with this matter and reasonable concession would be granted in respect to settlement."

LONDON, Aug. 7.—The foreign office tomorrow will send a memorandum to Waiter H. The memorandum will suggest that the U. S. Government can reopen the question if it considers such a step advisable or useful. Germany's reply, rejecting the British offer, which has already been published in the U. S., and Great Britain's reply thereto, will be made public here within a few days. The British reply will deny the contentions of Germany that the British proposals were too long delayed and that owing to favorable crop prospects relief action could apparently be dispensed with after Oct. I, and also that the next harvest would provide for the meeds of the people, with the exception of certain periods, when their conditions would be straightened. The reply will say that the first contention is so false that it is unworthy of discussion and that report in possession of the British Government refute the latter.

Our Men Fight Well.
Of the British troops, the Scottish and Warwickshire territorials and Warwick and Gloucester yeomanry fought splendidly. At midnight on Thursday, the Turks in strength of one division, held a north and south line thru Katia-Umaisha, about seven miles long, with the flanks thrown westward. From a point south of Romani to the Mediterranean coast was the Scottish infantry, while the Anzacs in front of them, from an hour before daylight, fought with great steadiness and determination against the well handled enemy in superior numbers, yielding ground gradually until Major-Gen. Lawrence could reinforce the line with more cavalry and infantry. At midday we held a line force the line with more cavalry and infantry. At midday we held a line thru Mahamadiya, Romani, Katia and

The Turks had chosen what appeared to be the best path toward the canalabroad, undulating, sandy plair, flanked by sand dunes. At 3 o'clock the enemy attacked fiercely Romani and Gannit, but were driven back westwards to Abahumra with considerable losses.

tickets at commuted rates to people who prefer to live ten to twenty miles out of arrangement and go into the city every arrangement and go into the city every morning and out again in the evening are the commuters. It is a company of such people living somewhere outside New York who are introduced to the audience in the first act. Jerry Rennex is Larry Brice, the young husband who has been out late, four times in two years, and has just offended once more by remaining later than ever before at the flat of his bachelor friend Sammy Fletcher (E. H. Robins). Other husbands have been there also, including Mr. Ralliston (Jack Amory), Mr. Cotton (Thomas Jackson), and Mr. Applebee (Eugene Frazier). Reina Carruthors has a star part in Hetty Brice and she delivers her smart dialog with a saucy petulance which is remarkably telling. Hetty's mother, Mrs. Graliam, is taken by Vivian Laidlaw, who makes a great success of the part, especially in the second and third acts. The servant or lady help is a startling type of all suburban help, and Frances Nellson fills the part with characteristic thoroness and broad and effective humor. Mer scene at the telephone in the first act was commendably excellent.

The mystery of how Sammy Fletches got into the Brice home and was only discovered when the commuters, deceived by a usually punctual citizen who, being ill, sat on his verandah till the train whistled, and caused all the belated ones to scurry off, must be left to the audience to discover and enjoy. At any rate he was in the house and had to be disposed of. During the afternoon a woman's rights gathering is held at the Brices', when Helen Travers, as Miss Crane, harangues the guests. Mrs. Rolliston, by Deborah Falconer, were cleverly done, the latter suspiciously in the manner of a local amateur.

The story is not very important, and the dialog dilates on the woes of young married life in the suburbs, with the difficulties of servants and cooking. Miss Nellson's delineation of suburban domes ing and out again in the evening the dialog dilates on the woes of young married life in the suburbs, with the difficulties of servants and cooking. Miss Nellson's delineation of suburban domestic service is laughably vivid. Mr. Robins has a semi-rowdy part, which fits him perfectly, and he brings down the house in the last act with Mrs. Graham, who remarks: "It's not the coat that makes the man." And he replies: "No; the vest and trousers help some." Jack Amory's story of the boy and the minister, in the first act, must be heard to be appreciated. The audiences, both at matinee and evening, were enthusiastic.

IS BILL OF UNUSUAL EXCELLENCE AT STRAND

Thrilling Drama of Silent North and Charles Chaplin Features.

A bill of unusual excellence and variety was presented to capacity audiences at the Strand Theatre yesterday. "The Destroyer," a thrilling photo drama of the great silent north, was the leading feature, with Lucile Lee Stewart playing the principal role. This play has a fine plot, plenty of action, with gorgeous settings and scenic effects. Charlie Chaplin is presented in his latest success. "One A.M." and the antics of this popular funmaker keep the audience in a continual roar of laughter. Another episode of the Pathe serial, "Who's Guitty?" and the Strand Topical Review complete the bill.

Whether the Turks will try to hold the trenches dug by them remains to be seen, but whatever happens, Egypt is safer from an invasion than at any time during the war. No finer vindication of Gen. Murray's policy of making the Turks fight far from the canal could be given than that traffic on the waterway has not stopped for a single minute.

The Turks fought hard. The prisoners in British hands are receiving good food and abundant water. At the present writing the enemy is scattered far and wide in the desert, not in ordrly column, but in small parties, and many of them doubtless will be taken prisoner. The victory is absolute.

ALL STAR PRODUCTION AT THE HIPPODROME

Rollicking Douglas Fairbanks is seen at the Hippodrome this week in "Reggie Mixes In." a Triangle-Star production, and the manner in which this popular young artist takes his part in this new release makes him more beloved by his admirers. It is a thrilling story, well told by photo-play, and has a fight that almost equals the one in the famous "Spoilers." Fairbanks is becoming a favorite with the "movies" and his ous "Spoilers." Fairbanks is becoming a favorite with the "movies" and his play this week is by far the best seen at the Hippodrome for some weeks.

The vaudeville is vanied and well selected. The Thomas players in a heart-touching skit entitled "Dad and Mother" appeal to both old and young. Josephine Leonhart has a dainty act. She sings well and her impersonations of well-known stage characters are really good. The Lawrence Trio do many lively turns and somersaults, while Edwin Latell, a musical comedian, has lots of fun that amuses the audience. Brown and Taylor have a number of new songs and dances, as also have Howard and Scott, who work together exceptionally well. Taking it all around it is a good hot-weather program that is sure to please.

at the Star. "The Tipperary Girls" is the attraction at the Star Theotre for this week and large audiences yesterday enjoyed one of the best burlesque comedies presented in Toronto in some time. The program was varied, the chorus comely and pleasingly gowned and the principals sang well. Billy Gilbert, as the leading fun maker, has an inimitable style and his comedy is real and wholesome.

In addition to the regular acts the olio contained several pleasing features. "The Fall of Babylon," a gorgeous reproduction of Rochegosse's fa tures. "The Fall of Babylon," a gorgeous reproduction of Rochegosse's famous painting, was presented with unusual realism and was the recipient of much appleuse. Miss Ann Montgomery, "The Song Bird from the Pacific Coast," has a voice of rare sweetness and her rendition of several of the latest songs won her much popularity with the audience. Another strong feature of the bill was a sensational one-act moral play, "Blanche," the artists, Eugene West and Inez Villere, playing their roles with unusual merit. "A Night in a Harem," the last act, contains many amusing situations and closes a splendid performance.

LAUGHED AND FORGOT HOT WEATHER AT LOEW'S

lendid Vaudeville Bill Pleased Large Audiences on the Holiday.

Loew's Theatre has a bill this week that is much above the average, and the large crowds that attended yesterday were so well pleased that they laughed and forgot the hot weather. The headline attraction is Jas. Grady, the veteran actor, with a small company, in a playlet of pathos and mirth, entitled, "At the Toll Bridge." Several of the numbers, however, compete keenly with this one for premier place in the approval of the audience. Sherman, Van and Hyman have a musical act that is quite original and their clever pantomime as well as their songs won them much applause. Belle Jackson and Jim Brown are a big pair and their suffragret skit won many a laugh with its witty dialog. The McDonald Trio bring a cycle act that is splendidly dressed and of unusual merit in its class. The two Vespos pleased with their ability to draw touching melodies from guitar and concertina and one sang with finish. Smith and McGarry are exceptional clog dancers and their costume dances were graceful and pretty. Another instalment of "The Iron Claw" and the latest release of Charlie Chaplin make up a bill that is out of the ordinary.
