SMELL OF LIQUOR, SAY WITNESSES

Constables and Others Testify in World Label Suit.

When the hearing of the label suit, for $5,000, of Detective George Young against The World Newspaper Company and Ida L. George (Ida Webster), was resumed yesterday afternoon, all six constables called by counsel for the defence, stated that they had at one time or another "smelled liquor on the breath of Young," although none of them remembered seeing plaintiff "drunk." These men were attached to No. 5 Police Station at the same time as Detective Young.

Patrol-Sergeant John Hutchinson stated that he had "smelled liquor on the breath of Detective Young on more than one occasion and had seen him under the influence of liquor." He was on duty at No. 5 Police Station on the night that Mrs. Isabella Forsythe, the woman referred to in the articles published in The World, made the charge against plaintiff.

P. C. William Logie remembered seeing Young "pretty well under the influence of liquor" on the night of the recovery of liquor from the Randan brothers. On that night, Young's "speech showed that he had been drinking heavily," said witness.

P. C. Elt Shuttlesworth saw Young "staggering under the influence of liquor" one night at the North Toronto C. P. R. Station prior to the enforcement of the O. T. A.

P. C. Robert Martin recalled an occasion two years ago when he had been on the same street car as Young. On that occasion, according to witness, Young "smelled of liquor."

P. C. Bert Harris and Andrew McDonald recalled "smelling liquor on the breath of Detective Young while the latter was on duty."

To rebut the article published by Mrs. George in The World, A. W. Roebuck called Mrs. Isabella Forsythe, who stated that her husband was overseas at the time of the alleged attack upon her person, but had returned about a month after the article appeared in The World. She stated that she had known George Young about six years. She had met him on the street and he had offered to make certain enquiries for her. About four or five days later he called at her house and gave her the information.

Mrs. Forsythe said that the next time plaintiff called at her home he stated that he had called several times, but she had always been out. She invited him into conversation he grabbed her by the arm and beat her. Her son, Donald, appeared and Young went away. Later he returned and made her bring her little boy Matthew out of bed, claiming that he had stolen a wagon and wished to question him.

Badly intoxicated.
"He was under the influence of liquor and very badly intoxicated," said Mrs. Forsythe, with reference to Young's call on the second occasion.

She reported the incident to No. 5 police station about four days later, and next morning to Inspector Kennedy at the city hall. She also related her story to Inspectors Archibald and Kennedy, and Detective Young, and said she had denied the drink.

Later she said Mrs. George had called at her home and told her the story. She frankly admitted that the police had made several visits to her home "on suspicion" and did not believe the police record of her son Donald.

Young had charged her in the juvenile court, was badly drunk and with keeping a disorderly house. This was before she had interviewed Mrs. George, the female defendant. She denied that she had ever been absolutely drunk. She thought Young had mixed her up with another soldier's wife. She denied offering a Mrs. Worthington money to testify against Young, nor a Mrs. Jackson money to testify against her.

Continuing her evidence, Mrs. Forsythe admitted that she did not report George Young to the police until he was arrested, but had written to her husband overseas telling him of the matter. She stated that none of the police officials had seemed to "sense" the seriousness of her charge against Young excepting that part which related to "drunk."

John Forsythe, fifteen-year-old son of the previous witness, stated that he had seen Young on two occasions when he had called. The last time he called he "looked kind of stupid." The lad said "drunk."

frauds, R. S. O., C. 102, as amended by 6 Geo. V., cap. 21, sec. 19 and 8 Geo. V., cap. 20, sec. 58; A. G. P. Lawrence for plaintiff. Judgment—This statute bars the legal remedy by which the contract might otherwise have been enforced, and so affords an answer to this action, not by any retrospective effect, but because it speaks from its date and prohibits the act even though the rights of the parties have been determined by a judgment. Care would then be necessary in framing the statute. The action must be dismissed with costs.

Oliver V. Frankford Canning Co., and Presqu'ile Canning Co.—H. J. Smith for defendants moved to set aside summary judgment in county court of Hastings, E. D. O'Flynn for plaintiff. Judgment—This case seems a comedy of errors. Under all the circumstances I can make no order and give no costs, leaving the defendants to make any motion they may see fit to the only tribunal that has jurisdiction. I express my views in the hope that the parties, having now raised several questions of practice and procedure, may settle the merits without further litigation.

First Divisional Court
Rex v. Lennox and Addington—E. G. Porter, K.C., for defendants, moved for an order to Judge Madden requiring him to state a case in connection with conviction on charge of neglect to keep Hamburg road in repair; W. S. Harrington, K.C., for private prosecutor. Judgment reserved.

McKeown v. Lambert—A. A. Macdonald for plaintiff appealed from acting master in ordinary, E. J. Roche, 24th December, 1919; G. J. Hodgson for defendants. Appeal allowed and judgment to go for plaintiff for $260 with costs. Judgment as to counter claim stands. No costs of appeal.

Morrow v. Morrow—H. S. White for plaintiff appealed from Lennox, J. 19th November, 1919; E. G. Porter for defendant. Action against executor of Mary Jane Morrow to recover $297.25 for board, lodging, etc. At trial action was dismissed. Appeal argued and judgment reserved.

FEBRUARY IN ALGONQUIN PARK
Many guests are enjoying the pleasures of winter sports at that charming territory, Algonquin Park. The region provides a holiday ground that is in accord with the ideal of medical science. Two thousand feet above the sea, it was invigorating climatic conditions. The daily progress of the mercury for three months of the year from 10 to 15 above to 20 below is as regular as the swing of a pendulum, and no matter how cold it is, the man with a sweeter never suffers discomfort. Days spent in snowshoes, through primitive forests, where every leaf and bough bears its weight of glistening crystals, in the breathless flight of the toboggan or skis, and in the ring of steel against the icy covering of some lake, together with evenings spent in social converse in the cosy warmth of an old-fashioned log fire—these slip away unnoted; and the guest who has experienced them return to their avocations with renewed energies, with hardened muscles, and a grateful memory of the park. February is one of the best months of the year in this delightful spot, and the "Highland Inn," owned and operated by the Grand Trunk, offers first-class accommodations in order of foreclosures.

ONLY CHRISTIANITY CAN SAVE WORLD

Dr. J. R. Mott Tells Y.M.C.A. Great Opportunity Lies at Their Door.

"We are now in the midst of the most perilous age that English-speaking nations ever knew," declared Dr. John R. Mott in addressing the Y.M.C.A. banquet, held last evening in the King Edward Hotel. The large hall was jammed to overflowing with ardent Y.M.C.A. workers from every province in the Dominion.

"There are several causes for this peril," continued Dr. Mott. "We lean on the past—may it never cease to move us with pride—but we must press on. We have come down from the mountains of idealism. Two years ago we were up in those mountains; it was dark at times, but we could see far, but now we are down in the misty valleys of pessimism. We must make a new effort and will not make an effort. We fail to recognize that the period of reconstruction will at least make as great demands on us as did the period of war—we must make ourselves secure that which we fought for. Our councils are divided. Those councils which timely union won the war are again divided. Those who make Christ secure I do not see those men coming forward who are to be our future leaders. Then, too, there is a spiritual starvation. We have physical and mental education, but instruction in things spiritual is lacking."

Speaking on the wave of pessimism which he said has spread over the whole world, Dr. Mott stated: "The cause of this pessimism is exhaustion. The nations have used up all their latent store of energy and are now on the verge of collapse. These nerves are worn threadbare."

"The position of the Y.M.C.A. is the most advantageous in its history," continued Dr. Mott. "The door is open. The world is in a plastic state ready for the mold and it is for the Young Men's Christian Association to furnish this mold for the world. The old inertia now be moved as never before, but it will move quickly and if it is to move in the right direction the church and the Y must work together and, above all, work quickly and efficiently. We must make democracy safe for the world for this democracy as Russia is not safe for the world. The forces of pure Christianity have that which this world needs now that it has come to its extremity and is again saying: Christianity alone can save it."

Question of Religion.
"The solving of our industrial problem is not so much an economic or political matter as it is a question of religion. The Y.M.C.A., as well as supplying this religion, promotes the contentment of the working man, helps him when he is off duty, promotes a better relationship with the employer and is of inestimable value to industry."

Dealing with the conditions in Russia, Dr. Mott said that no nation more than Russia governs the fate of the world. "We have 200 Y secretaries there now and yet our work there is only beginning. Let us stand by this groping effort and not hand them over to Bolshevik propaganda. Every nation in the world is asking for the Y.M.C.A. Siberia, China, India, Africa, the Turkish areas, the Balkans, Austria-Hungary, all send out the call for more Y.M.C.A. secretaries and the necessary buildings. The post-bellum world of the Y is unlimited now, but do not wait or others will be there before you."

In concluding, Dr. Mott made an appeal that gripped and enthused every Y.M.C.A. worker in the gathering. He said, "In the closing hours of this memorable convention let every one of us make up his mind to go back to work with a spirit of enthusiasm that will win not only our Dominion but the whole world to a knowledge of Christ and do it before the forces of this generation close the door."

"All this discontent, trouble and unrest so prevalent throughout the world is a movement toward the kingdom of God," declared Chas. W. Bishop, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. "We must realize the true possibilities of the manhood of the country and harness what is now latent for the advancement of our Y.M.C.A. work in this labor unrest we see our great possibilities."

Abner Kingman, who was recently elected president of the Canadian Y.M.C.A., presided at the banquet and read several messages of regret from invited guests who were unable to attend.

Do We Believe Jesus?
ELDER JENSEN SAYS: I once asked a devout Presbyterian if he believed the second coming of Christ was near at hand. "I certainly do," he responded with fervor. "Then I suppose you believe that the Prophet Elijah has already come?" I asked. "No," said he, "I don't believe angels come to the earth in our time." "That is strange," I continued, "the Prophet Malachi prophetically declared: 'Behold, I will send you Elijah, the prophet, before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord.'" (Mal. 4: 5).

This man is not peculiar. Hosts of other Christian doubters believe that angels came to the earth nineteen hundred years ago and that angels might come in the remote future. But they will not believe the great things that must come to pass right now.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints solemnly declares that the Prophet Elijah came to this earth on the third day of April, 1836, and instituted the gospel for the dead and thereby "turned the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the hearts of the children to the fathers." (Mal. 4: 6).
