Spring, each year, brings in the Golden Age to the Boy. It is his peculiar season. With the warm sunshine come marbles, baseball, adventurous trips up the Don or into the woods. It brings warm noon recesses, long evenings and the resumption of strenuous outdoor activities.

With it comes a yearning and a demand for new clothing. A suit to go to school in and one for church or parties. There must be style to these and there simply must be good hard-wearing qualities, for aren't there trees to be shinned up and bases to be slid to? Bearing all these things in view, Simpson's Boys' Clothing Department on the Second Floor presents today a striking Spring display of juvenile garments. There is clothing here for all boys, large and small.

Sailors with whistle cord for little brother and suits specially designed to gratify the desires of the big lad, who already counts the days until he will sport "longs." Simpson quality is stitched into the seams, it reinforces the chief "danger zones" and adds a finish and style that makes a fellow feel "jake." Mothers and Fathers will do well to bring the Boy in to see this array. It will educate him as to what a wonderful suit he can secure this Spring; it will educate them as to what fair and reasonable prices are asked at Simpson's for the wonderful suit.

"The Rival"

A suit for the wee lad, cunning and cute as can be, but withal dependably made throughout; blue all-wool serge, double-breasted, deep sailor collar, finished with white pearl buttons and all-around belt, knicker pants. Sizes 4 to 8 years... 14.00
