

very stones prated of them—the saintly and solidly Judas Maccabaeus.

"Christian men and women who the obsequies of this day assemble in this temple behold yourselves in the affliction which befell the Israelites of old. They had lost their cherished leader, devoted to the highest ideals of the people. We, too, have lost our. We have lost him whom we oft acclaimed our nation's best."

virtues of the Dead. "I would to the living God this morning that His Spirit might quicken my tongue that I might do justice to the virtues of this figure who for so many years benignly and yet effectively graced the government of this free country. I find comfort in the thought that none but God can justly judge any man. There is a danger, however, standing in the shadow of this national catastrophe—one might run to hyperbole. Am I not right in attributing to Sir Wilfrid Laurier a description he once used of that lover of Canadian freedom, Louis Joseph Papineau? 'Did I see him, any man ever the better fit to be the idol of a nation? A man of commanding presence, of majestic countenance, of impassioned eloquence, of unbiassed patriotism, for years he held over the hearts of his countrymen almost unbounded sway.'"

"His commanding figure was the chief out of place, most revered, that is out of this temple dedicated to the Most High, I should speak of one of God's outstanding gifts to this country. Is it not true, my brethren? Did not Mark Antony speak of Caesar's very mantle? Yes, a man of commanding figure was the chief of this temple. Who shall forget the noble brow, the chisled mouth, the classic features, and the erect kindly form? He was ever the embodiment of grace. To the endowment of God he added the polish of a Chesterfield."

Impassioned Eloquence. "His impassioned eloquence! When I speak of eloquence of Laurier my mind instinctively goes back three years to a speech delivered on the historical feud between the Hudson Bay Company and the North West Company. A speech delivered in the early part of the nineteenth century. Those who heard him that night, aged as he was with the frost of 70 winters upon his brow, will well recall the genius of Laurier as he made those vigorous and vigorous of the 'forest primeval' walk before us. He clothes them with flesh and blood. Under the spell of Laurier's words they were not spectres from a dead past—they lived and moved and had their being before our very eyes. The variety of the students' organ of Toronto University, asked the next morning, 'Why did our professor make history so interesting as Laurier?'"

"Or when I speak of eloquence some 20 years ago when he delivered what many consider the finest speech of his life, on the occasion of the debate, Edward Blake declared it to be the crowning proof of French domination and the finest speech delivered in Canada since Confederation. Among the distinguished people noticed among the thousands who composed the funeral cortege were: His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire, governor-general, attended by Col. Henderson, Lord Minto, Mr. A. F. Sladen and Lieut. Cortes; the Duke of Connaught; Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, lieutenant-governor of Quebec; Sir Richard Lake, lieutenant-governor of Saskatchewan, and Hon. William Fuglesy, lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick."

Duncan, of the Baptist churches. Then came the mayors of Canadian cities and towns and their representatives. Almost the entire city councils of Montreal and Ottawa were present, and after them a number of prominent members of the public bodies in Canada. Prominent in the cortege were: Hon. Bourassa, Warden Currie, of Middlesex, a brother of Sir Arthur Currie; Principal Bruce Taylor of Queen's University; the official delegate of the Salvation Army; Sir Donald Mann, Mayor Lewis of Brockville; W. H. Moore, Toronto; Peter McArthur, Cecil Douter, whose father was Sir Wilfrid Laurier's oldest and closest friend; A. C. Hardy; son of a former premier of Ontario; E. A. Larmouth, of Ottawa; Stewart Lyon, editor of The Toronto Globe; H. Bertheau, of La Presse, Montreal; Capt. Vessiere, a French officer from Paris; George S. Gibbons, London; R. A. Pringle, Col. Andrew Thompson, W. D. Bogg, Ottawa; M. J. Fincklestein, representing the Hebrews of western Canada; Louis Rubenstein, Montreal; Lyon Jacobs, Montreal; J. Freeman, Ottawa; H. M. Morsey, Pieton; Alexander Smith, Ottawa; E. J. Daly, Ottawa; H. B. McGivern, Adolphe Stark, Montreal, and Dr. Cheurier one of the physicians who attended Sir Wilfrid Laurier during his illness.

An interesting feature was the presence of every mayor in the county of L'Assomption, the native county of Sir Wilfrid. As soon as all the representatives within the building had passed out the G.W.V.A., who had marshaled in front of the main entrance, swept into line, headed by W. P. Grant, president of the Ottawa branch. Most of the veterans were in uniform, and it was noticeable that Shakti was very much in evidence throughout the long procession. Grandeur of Tributes. Through it was necessary to restrict admission strictly to ticket-holders, but the fulness and indeed the grandeur of the nation's tribute was seen more especially in the vast concourse of those who did not wait for ticket or invitation to show their admiration for "the grand old man." This was the dominant note of Sir Wilfrid's funeral. From the Victoria Museum up the broad residential maple-lined avenue of Metcalfe street into the heart of the city of Ottawa, the procession slowly wound its way. Every intersecting street was densely packed for yards away with those who had poured in to view the last rites. Across Sparks street, which is the capital's chief business thoroughfare, the cortege wound slowly and with magnificent dignity into Wellington street facing the now almost completed new parliament buildings on Parliament Hill, where for nearly 45 years the late Sir Wilfrid had been a familiar and honored figure.

From Mayor Hill Park onward the observant spectator would have seen something which is distinctly Canadian in the tenor and bearing of the assembled onlookers. This is the district of Ottawa in which the French-Canadian race predominates. The demonstrativeness of the French, strikingly revealed in their great great deal could easily be discerned standing out distinct in the tribute paid by those descendants of the first settlers in Canada. Every window seemed to bear the drapings of mourning, every store and every office showed a portrait of their great compatriot with, in some cases, extracts from his greatest speeches of past years. These were hastily shrouded in drapings of black and purple. It was this part of the funeral which was most picturesque.

She was three times married, her husband being Marquis de Caux, premier of Napoleon III, and Baron Rolf Cederstrom, 1893. C. P. R. SHIPS MAY MAKE TERMINUS AT PORTLAND

Montreal, Feb. 22.—It was announced in shipping circles today that the Canadian Pacific Ocean Steamship Lines' best vessels may make Portland, Me., their terminus on this side of the water in a short time. This step would not entail the dropping of St. John as a terminus entirely. The story in circulation here stated that the C.P.R. would contribute to the erection of a new state pier at Portland and would make connection with the transcontinental line at the Maine Central at Newport, Vermont, or Cookshire.

The Frontier and Booze.

United States Government Has Special Officers All Along the Niagara River. Buffalo, N.Y., Feb. 22.—It is understood that special agents of the secret service of the United States are assigned to duty on the frontier between Canada and the States, to watch all shipments of liquor from the American side to Canada. The inland revenue department that will have in hand the enforcement of the new prohibition law, has already put men on a study of the conditions that prevail or are likely to prevail along the frontier when bone dry prohibition is enforced in the States in a few weeks. The regular customs officials and checkers of exports from the States into Canada have all been reported to Washington and followed up by American experts across the line.

BARCELONA TAKES OVER CANADIAN CO'S PLANT

Madrid, Feb. 22.—The Barcelona authorities have taken over all the electric works of the Canadian company. The order in the act at present, but pointed out that the government at Ottawa was giving the idea very serious consideration because of the tremendous pressure upon our office. The fact is that story is simply "fabulous by the way."

DESTROY GERMAN SHIPS GREAT BRITAIN INSISTS

Paris, Feb. 22.—Out of the great number of contradictory statements being published concerning the disposition of German warships which have been seized, this much may be accepted as a definite official fact: Great Britain insists that these ships be destroyed. This proposition, it is understood, will be put before the supreme war council as a part of the British proposal for detailed peace terms. The published assertion that these ships will be destroyed would seem preposterous to the plan, especially on the part of France.

Laurier Will's Ottawa His Tokens of Honor

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier maintained his pride and interest in Ottawa to the last. It is understood that a clause in his will dedicates to the capital city all the tokens of honor bestowed upon him during his distinguished public career. Many of these are of almost priceless value. They include the testimonial covering the freedom of the cities in the United Kingdom. The casket containing the freedom of the city of Edinburgh, one of the most precious tokens of the British crown, encrusted with diamonds. The intention is that the souvenirs shall find a place in the war memorial building, which will doubtless be erected in Ottawa before long.

WAR GRATUITIES.

Rather remarkable is the situation which has arisen in connection with the order-in-council relative to war gratuities. Under this order-in-council many thousands of men, many of them far over age, who had been unable to get any "arter than Britain, while serving with the C. E. F. were debarred from that clause which made the gratuities retroactive to date of discharge. Word was recently given out in certain quarters that the order-in-council had been amended to include the thousands of "Britain" men. The World approached officials of the gratuity section of the paymaster's office at 40 Richmond street, and was informed no such amendment had come into effect, but that it might be moving into larger quarters because of the tremendous pressure upon our office. The fact is that story is simply "fabulous by the way."

CITY'S HARBOR BONDS SOLD FOR GOOD PRICE

Harbor Development Work Can Now Be Rushed During Reconstruction Period. Wood, Gundy & Company have purchased three million dollars worth of the city's harbor bonds. They are 35-year four and one-half per cent. bonds and the price is $4.71. Mayor Church stated yesterday morning that in this deal the city is borrowing at the rate of 5.45, which is lower than the Victory loan. The three millions were sold at the same figure as a million disposed of about a month ago, which the mayor considers highly creditable to Finance Commissioner Bradshaw, who put the deal thru. This four million will finance the harbor improvements thru the reconstruction period, and active development can now be resumed. "Within a year" said the mayor, "the harbor board should be able to carry its own fixed charges for sinking fund, etc. out of the revenue. We are now within $150,000 of our fixed charges at present, but with the acquisition of many new industries this deficiency will be obtained from the new leases and the harbor board, like the Hydro, will carry its own fixed charges."

WELSH MINERS VOTING STRONGLY FOR STRIKE

London, Feb. 22.—An official vote on a national strike of miners polled today in Wales showed a total of 117,802 ballots for a strike and 88,261 against one. Representatives of the miners, railway and transport workers will meet Tuesday to settle the question of whether a general strike is advisable to enforce the men's demands upon the government. Lloyd George, according to Robert Smilla, president of the mine workers' convention, is co-opted regarding the payment of wages to jobless and demobilized miners.

HOMER LIQUOR CASE NOT CLEARED UP

(Continued From Page 1). tion of the shimmy shiver, the new dance that has shocked the New York tenderloin as a sitting position would allow him to execute. Q: Will either of you boys tell me who cashed that cheque or what bank it went thru or into whose account? Smith: You have all that we are going to say. The cheque was certified and was cashed. The part of the Canadian Press story about the confiscation of the auto is as it may be. When the customs officer at Queenston bridge was on the witness stand at St. Catharines the sworn in his direct evidence that the car had been confiscated. In reply to Mr. McCarron he admitted that the car was only held subject to investigation. Mr. McCarron remarked with studied significance, "That is very different." It was admitted that the car belonged to Lavell, who was exonerated upon the charge that he was bringing liquor into Canada with it, so that the government claim to the car does not yet appear to be either legal or valid. So much for the Canadian Press despatch and the clever business methods of the Ontario license department. Yesterday The World received certain information over the telephone, and as a result called at the office of the Employers' Detective Agency in the Sun Life building. Mr. White, the urbane head of the agency, had no objection to being interviewed. He called in his manager to assist in the conversation. Following is the vital part of the interview: Do you know a man named Charles Clyde? A: No. Did such a man or any man of that name ever work for you? Do you know a man named W. G. McPhail? A: No. Such a man never worked for you? The interview with the Employers' Detective Agency eliminates another White from the list of possibilities that could have knowledge of the Homer liquor seizure. The World a lot of trouble if he would tell what it is his duty to tell now and what must come out sooner or later. The information The World got over the phone seemed to point to the importance of showing that the liquor could be traced to Montreal. All the admitted facts point to Buffalo. But the government officials are only to blame as they are. It is inadvisable for the truck mystery. McPhail swore he saw it. Clyde swore he helped to unload it. It must have been under his eyes (and he has sharp eyes) for half an hour. Yet neither of these detectives took the number of it, or the name of the owner. It must have been on it or bothered their heads about it one way or the other. Nor were they asked one solitary question concerning it. On the other hand, the government and all their supporters, as well as The Globe and Star, were insistent upon tracing the liquor not to Buffalo, but to Montreal. At the same time, Mr. McGarry was in the riding trying to inject the anti-Montreal appeal into the popular mind in an effort to save the constituency for the government. And it is fully admitted that the government or their officers endeavored to add to the safety of the situation by shipping two tons of "Goderham's Special" into a vacant hotel that they had no claim or title to, and that it was burgled to break into the chief license commissioner tells The Star that the old hotel was chosen because the government had nowhere else between Montreal and Lincoln to store it.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION Thought Act of Revenge

London, Feb. 22.—The attempted assassination of Herr Auer, the Bavarian minister of the interior, is interpreted as an act of revenge for the killing of Premier Eisner, according to advices from various German sources. The men were bitter opponents. Herr Auer is a majority Socialist minister. The World interrogated a prominent prohibitionist on the Homer episode. "We will keep on in our work, a matter what comes, and we will sweep the province when it comes to a vote."

WILL SWEEP THE COUNTRY

Where did the truck come from and go back to? Where is that $3200 cheque? Mr. White, solicitor of the treasury, was seen Saturday by The World. He said he had no knowledge whatever of this liquor matter till he saw it in the papers and has no other knowledge of it now.
