most of them are thousands of years old, and in our Bibles we read of them—the carbuncles of Job and Hezekiah, the palpitation of the heart spoken of in Deuteronomy, the sunstroke of a child carried from the fields of Shunem, crying, "My head, my head!" King Asa's disease of the feet, which was nothing but gout; defection of teeth, that called for dental surgery, the skill of which, almost equal to anything modern, is still seen in the filled molars of the dental surgery, the skill of which, almost equal to anything modern, is still seen in the filled molars of the unrolled Egyptian minimies; the ophthalmia caused by the juice of the newly ripe fig. leaving the people blind by the roadside; epilepsy, as in the case of the young man often falling into the fire and oft into the water; hypochondria, as of Nebuchadnezzar, who imagined himself an ox and going out to the fields to pasture; the withered hand, which in Bible times, as now, came from the destruction of the main artery or from paralysis of the chief nerve; the wounds of the man whom the thieves left for dead on the road to Jericho and whom the good Samaritan nursed, pouring in oil and wine—wine to cleanse the wound and oil to soothe it. Thank God for what surgery has done for the alleviation and cure of human suffering!

But the world wanted a surgery without pain. Drs. Parre and Hickman and Simpson and Warner and Jackson, with their amazing genius, came forward and with their anaesthetics benumbed the patient with midnight becomes midnoon, and we understand something of the joy of the young man of the Bible who, though he had never been able to see his hand before his face, now by the touch of Christ had two headlights kindled under his brow, cried out in language that confounded the jeering crowd who were deriding the Christ that had effected the cure and wanted to make his out a had man christ that had effected the cure and wanted to make him out a bad man. "Whether he be a sinner or no I know not. One thing I know, that whereas I was blind, now I see."

But this surgeon was just as wonderful as an aurist. Very few people have two good ears. Nine out of ten people are particular to get on this or that side of you when they sit or walk or ride with you, because they have one disabled ear. Many have both ears damaged, and what with the constant racket of our great cities and the catarrhal troubles that sweep through the land, it is remarkable that there are any good ears at all. Most wonderful instrument is the human ear. It is harp and drum and telegraph and telephone and whispering gallery all in one. So delicate and wondrous is its construction that the most diffusions.

accident or malformation or hereditary ills on earth become the athletes in Elysian fields. Who is that around whom the crowds are gathering with admiring looks and thanksgiving and cries of "Oh, what he did for me! Oh, what he did for the world!" That is the surgeon of all the centuries, the oculist, the aurist, the emancipator, the Sayiall the centuries, the oculist, the aurist, the mancipator, the Saviour. No pay he took on earth. Come, now, and let all heaven pay him with worship that shall never die. On his head be all the crowns, in his hands be all the scepters and at his feet be all the worlds!

Cutting Glass With Shears.

Unless you have tried the experiment you will be inclined to question the statement that a pane of ordinary window glass can be cut with a pair of shears if the glass is put under water during the process. It is a fact that the glass may be cut as easily as you would cut a piece of heavy cardboard. To do this successfully you must have the glass and the shears entirely under water, then clip in a curved or straight line as you prefer. So long as no portion of the glass or shears is out of the water the cutting will proceed without a break. This is because the water takes up the vibrations of the glass and the shears. Try the experiment and convince yourself. Cutting Glass With Shears

London, July 24.—The Viceroy of India, Baron Curzon of Kedlecton, tele-graphs to Lord Geo. Hamilton, Secretary of State for India, that the monsoon continues favorable this week except in Baroda and Rajputana West, where cultivation is at a standstill and rain is badily needed for fodder. The number on the famine relief list now reaches 6,281,000.
