and landing far out in the areaway. The top was blown from the kitchen range, and the room was badly wrecked by the flying pieces of metal.

The clergyman lit the fire without knowing that the water had frozen solid in the boiler during the night. When the heat reached the mass of ice, it expanded and the physical result followed. After setting the fire alight Rev. Mr. Lodge employed himself about the kitchen for a minute or two, and then left the room. He had just reached the door going to it from a position about two feet away from the boiler, when the explosion occurred, and pieces of the stove and boiler struct the walls a foot from him.

HOW TO DO IT

A "Man Doctor" unchivalrously declares that women do everything rather less perfect than men. They don't cook so well, they don't make dresses quite so well, they don't (so we have heard, though the medical accuser is dumb on this point), even trim han's self to millinery.

If you have a feeling that your wife doesn't cook so excellently as she ought, just you take home a bottle of

CAJOLING A GOD.

A story comes from the Gorakhpur district of India to the effect that two boys went to the riverside to invoke the water-god Mahadeo. They recited "manthras" 'at some length, but Mahadeo did not appear. Whereupon the lads contrived to hasten his coming by cutting at each others' throats with a sword, suggesting thereby to the recalcitrant that their lives were in danger. This method of invocation proying abortive as well, they both jumped into the river. One was drowned, but the other returned to his right mind and ran home to tell his story.

dumb on this point), even trim hars quits so well as a man who sets himself to millinery.

If you have a feeling that your wife doesn'f cook so excellently as she ought, just you take home a bottle of H. P. Sauce tonight. Suggest to her, in the mildest possible manner, that you like H. P. Sauce with cold meats, that it's good with eggs and bacon, deficious with crust of bread and cheese unparalleled as a flavoring to insipid gravies, ragouts or made-up dishes. In this, as in most other domestic matters, a grain of help is worth a bushel of fault-finding. But you should be quite sure that it is H. P. Sauce that you take home with you.

Mr. Borglum has also begun work on the small model for the memorial statue of Lincoln which is to be placed in Newark. It represents the statesman sitting on a bench which is on a low pedestal, and so disposed as to give the impression of the loneliness of one of the most remarkable personalities in American history.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 14.—"Mrs. Blank, Almada—Will see you sure temorrow night. Didn't like to take too many chances yesterday. We must be discreet. THE LIEUTENANT."

This is one sort of message which the navy department hopes may not in the future be picked out of the air by any amateur wireless operator that has a hankering for interfering with other people's business. It is contained in a letter sent by an official of the department to Representative Eriest W. Roberts of Massachusetts, in support of the bill to license all wireless stations and establish a beard of sevenmen, upon which the army, navy and private concerns will be represented, to regulate the use of the air for sending messages.
