

TORREY MISSION LEADERS GIVE CAMPAIGN DETAILS

Asked if he knew of any minister refusing to lead in prayer at a meeting of ministers, because he claimed he could not find out enough about the inception of the movement, Mr. Appel replied that he did not. The only minister who had told him he could not take part in the movement, was Rev. F. Conyers. The reason he gave was that it did not conform to his views. No preacher had ever said definitely that he would not have anything to do with the work.

The Rink Arrangements.

Referring to the financial end of the campaign, Mr. Appel said every bill had to be signed by the chairman of the committee of that particular branch, by the secretary and by the chairman of the finance committee before being paid by the treasurer.

The Queens Rink had been rented under contract from R. J. Armstrong for $75 which included the use of the building during October for preparation as well as for the period of the campaign. The committee had put in a heating plant and arranged for additional lighting, but a platform and made other necessary changes and provided the seats.

The First Week's Results.

The collections during the first week of the campaign were as follows:

Sunday, Nov. 6	$56.03	38.98
Monday	3.43	30.26
Tuesday	3.77	41.89
Wednesday	4.54	46.49
Thursday	9.24	39.29
Friday	3.36	74.28

The total amount received so far is $242.47. The prospect of receiving sufficient to meet the expenses were not as favorable, Mr. Appel said. In the last campaign and a guarantee fund was now being arranged for to make good any deficiency. It was estimated that the expenses would amount to $250.

Asked his opinion of The Standard's action in suggesting that the committee should make a statement in view of the rumors which were in circulation, Mr. Appel replied he thought The Standard should have inquired from members of the committee first, but he was not sorry that it had occurred as it gave an excellent opportunity to lay the exact situation before the public.

What Mr. McKim Said.

Rev. Mr. McKim, rector of St. Luke's church, and chairman of the executive committee when asked by The Standard, who first approached Dr. Torrey with the object of bringing him to St. John, said he did not know.

When the circular dated Sept. 9, and signed by Mr. McLaughlin as secretary, was read, stating that at a meeting of laymen it had been decided to invite Dr. Torrey, was received, he was out of town. The officers of the church decided to attend the meeting and he went after his return. It was a great surprise to him when he was elected chairman. He had known Dr. Torrey previously and was very hearty in sympathy with his work.

Nothing to Conceal.

In reply to a further question Mr. McKim said some ministers were enthusiastic for the movement, and some were not. Everyone had their own opinions. There was nothing, he continued, to conceal in connection with the way the campaign was being conducted. The committee considered they were handling trust funds and every care was being taken.

It had been suggested to the committee last Friday that an independent auditor should be appointed and this course would be adopted. A full statement would be published, showing the receipts and expenses at the close of the campaign. With regard to the disposal of any surplus it had never been discussed to his knowledge, but it would certainly be devoted to some religious object.

Publicity Will Help Campaign.

Mr. McKim assessed the opinion that the wide publicity given to all details in connection with the conduct of the campaign in consequence of The Standard's action would help the movement, but he thought it would have been better if The Standard had interviewed members of the committee first.

Dr. Torrey Interviewed.

As there appeared to be some difficulty in obtaining information as to who first communicated with Dr. Torrey from a local source The Standard interviewed Dr. Torrey on this point.

Referring to his correspondence Dr. Torrey found that the first letter was from Mr. McLaughlin dated August 29th, asking if he would hold a campaign of the united Methodist churches in Centenary church. To this Dr. Torrey replied that he was not in the habit of holding his meetings in a church, as such a building was not large enough and his calls were so numerous. Other correspondence from Mr. McLaughlin followed. Dr. Torrey informed Mr. McLaughlin that he could come to St. John in the month of November.

Following a meeting of laymen held in the Y. M. C. A. a telegram was sent inviting Dr. Torrey to come to St. John. Those present at this meeting were: Messrs. R. S. Stevens, J. S. Flagg, R. Duncan Smith, W. M. Kingston, W. A. Stepler, George W. London, William McAvoy, W. M. P. McLaughlin, J. Hollie Wasson, C. T. Jones, Alfred Burley, R. S. Cowan, Joshua Stark, S. S. Cosman, William J. Parks, S. H. Davis, Charles Robinson, H. D. White, D. H. Nasse, A. H. Nasse, A. W. Robb, Rev. J. E. Purdie.

Referring to the publication of the rumors in circulation Dr. Torrey said the Times had attempted to interview him on Saturday morning with the object, he thought, of getting him to severely condemn the action of The Standard. He had declined to make any statement of that nature, as he was quite sure the matter would be cleared up.

Dr. Torrey went on to speak of the terms under which he was conducting the campaign. He received no guarantee, he said, but there was usually a free-will offering at the close. He gave his helpers a regular salary for each mission. The committee always paid this charge. A full statement was published at the close of a campaign.

Dr. Torrey said that he had made no engagements for the month of November, and that such invitations were usually extended jointly by the city clergyman, not necessarily all the clergymen.

"I suggested the possibility of an invitation from the Methodist ministers for a mission in Centenary church, the largest auditorium in the city. To this Dr. Torrey replied that in his past experience the best results had been obtained by services in a church, and that he could not accept the invitation unless the services could be held in a rink or other public building."

"I then suggested the Queens Rink, and with his definite promise to come provided a formal invitation was extended. I with the assistance of J. Hollie Wasson, called a meeting of laymen of the different denominations and after they had endorsed what I had done, wired an invitation."

Committee Men Work Voluntarily.

In connection with the campaign all committee men are working voluntarily. Large expenditures which would ordinarily be charged to the expense account of the party from Paducah, Ky., amounted to $285. The total receipts as first mentioned at the close of the first week were $342.47. It is estimated that the total expenses will reach $23,000.

The Queens Rink is owned by the McLaughlin estate, and is under lease to R. J. Armstrong. The committee considers the terms made by Mr. Armstrong very generous indeed. He contributed the use of the rink during the first month, when preparations were going on, free of cost, and charged $75 for the second month, which gave the use of the rink for two months for less than he pays for it.

Mr. Armstrong also contributed the use of a large number of chairs, which would have cost ten cents each if hired elsewhere, and also made no charge for the use of the billboards which he controls.

Officers and Chairman.

The following is the list of officers and chairman of the committee in charge of the campaign: Chairman, Rev. R. P. McKim; vice-chairman, A. A. Wilson, C. and Wm. Kingston; secretary, Rev. J. Chas. B. Appel; assistant secretary, J. M. P. McLaughlin; treasurer, Andrew Malcolm. Aid. W. H. White is chairman of the finance committee, which has complete charge of the receipts and expenditures. On the committee with him, in addition to the treasurer, are J. Hunter White, A. H. Chipman and D. H. Nasse. The chairman of the other committees are as follows:—Devolitional, Rev. W. Camp; personal workers, Rev. W. M. Brewer; advertising, A. W. Robb; entertainment, R. D. Smith; music, John F. Bullock; building, W. M. Kingston; heating, A. W. Robb; lighting, W. A. Stepler; decorating, Alex. Thompson, and seating, R. H. Cother.

How It Grows.

At the end of the year there would be 4,000 at the end of two years there would be 5,000, at the end of three years 10,000, at the end of four years 20,000, at the end of five years 40,000. There would have the whole population of St. John.

He told one little story at the close of this that touched the hearts of his hearers more than anything he has related during his meetings.

It was the story of how a woman with a heart of pure gold, filled with love for Christ and for sinners' souls, had reclaimed a wretched, content woman in one of the jails of the North, and through her reclamation had made it possible for others to be saved by securing the employment of a madman in the city prison.

This story will live with those who heard it many days, and always it will serve to prove that there is nothing that cannot be accomplished.

Personal work in the winning of souls—there is always a place and a time for it, and it is always effective, and a large number at the close of the meeting responded to the call to lead a better life.

The Evening Meeting.

At last evening's meeting the doors had to be closed long before the hour set for opening, so great was the press of people to get in.

Dr. Torrey preached from the text, "I thought on my ways, and turned my feet unto Thy testimonies."

Psalm 119:105.

A good many years ago, he said, I was talking to a young society woman in the city of New Haven, Conn., and suddenly she stopped me and said, "Don't let me think it makes me think, and I hate to think."

The world is full of people who hate to think, and because they hate to think they go into things blindfolded, and

QUEEN'S RINK CROWDED AT TWO TORREY MEETINGS

Doors Were Closed Last Evening Before Hour of Opening--Evangelist Calls Upon His Hearers to Think--Music Proved to be Big Feature of Gatherings.

Over 3000 people attended the meeting in the Queens rink yesterday afternoon. The large choir has become a tradition in the singing of many beautiful hymns, and the musical service at each meeting is proving a powerful attraction. Dr. Torrey preached a striking sermon upon the advantage of personal work for Christ. Illustrating his points by interesting stories drawn from his large and varied experience as a missionary of the Gospel.

"When Dwight L. Moody," he said, "came to the big city of Chicago and asked to be taken into the church, he accepted the proposition without sufficient thought regarding it, he just put his money into that project and left it there, and that man's life ever since has been a stretched drag for a bare existence. Simply because he hated to think! It is the same way in social life."

People Hate to Think.

The world is full of people who hate to think, and because they hate to think they go into things blindfolded, and come out with blinded hearts and broken hearts and blinded lives.

Continuing he said the advantages of personal work were many. A preacher or some other person, once an hour or two a day, or usually he only gave a chance to preach one day in the week. The personal worker could be carried on in the home, the office, on the street corner, in the shopping districts—everywhere in fact. The earnest worker would inquire into the spiritual state of the milkman, the butcher boy, the fireman, the policeman, the girl coming to the counter, and try to bring them to Christ.

Dwight L. Moody made it a rule to try to win one soul to Christ every day. In the press of work he forgot about this rule till after he got in bed, and would get up and go out in the streets looking for a person to preach to. Some of his friends sometimes told him that he had zeal without knowledge.

The speaker declared that zeal without knowledge, was better than knowledge without zeal. He said that speaking with the spirit of God upon them, could move the lukewarm, when the loftiest eloquence of the most gifted preacher would fail.

This world would never be saved by preaching; but this world could soon be evangelized by personal work. Let us see, let us suppose there are two hundred people in this audience this afternoon, though there are more, suppose every one of you became a personal worker, and suppose generally the right hand, and you only succeeded in leading one to Christ the next year, and so on, what would be the result?

How It Grows.

At the end of the year there would be 4,000 at the end of two years there would be 5,000, at the end of three years 10,000, at the end of four years 20,000, at the end of five years 40,000. There would have the whole population of St. John.

FIRST REPORT OF MR. KING

Minister of Labor Gives Number of Disputes As 69, Of Which 19 Were Adjusted By Department.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—The first report of the department of labor since it has been under the undivided attention of a minister, has just been issued. The number of disputes dealt with under the Lennox act was 30 and total references since its enactment, 82. The report states that applications have been received by the minister for the extension of the act to industries other than those to which it now relates.

Inquiries continue to reach the department almost daily from different parts of the world, for the fullest information as to the operation of the act, showing how ineffective existing legislation on the subject in most countries is conceived to be.

The chief disputes arbitrated under the act last year were: Railways, 12; coal mining, 9, and freight handlers, 2.

Only in four cases was there a failure to end the dispute. The total number of disputes in 1908 and 1909 were 69 each, as compared with 104 in 1901; 123 in 1902; 150 in 1903; 103 in 1904; 87 in 1905; 139 in 1906 and 151 in 1907.

During the year 1909 there were reported to the department 1279 fatal and 9718 serious non-fatal industrial accidents. This is an increase of 7 fatal and 441 non-fatal accidents over the previous year. Two hundred and eighty-three fatalities occurred in the railway service, 256 in agriculture, 160 in mining and 130 in lumbering. One thing without which it was a schedule for insertion in public contracts were furnished by the department.

The total number of fair wage schedules prepared since the inception of the policy is 1750 of which almost one-half have been for the department of railways and canals and over one-third for the department of public works.

COUNT TOLSTOI AMONG MISSING

St. Petersburg, Nov. 13.—The whereabouts of Count Leo Tolstoi, who disappeared a few days ago from his home, are not yet certain, although inquiries have been made in various quarters and divers reports have reached here regarding his personal abiding place. A late dispatch from Moscow to the Russkoe slovo says that Count Tolstoi is now at the Schmarinsky women's monastery in Kaluga province.

Confirmation of this however, is lacking and queries sent to that district are as yet unanswered.

KILLED AT LAST.

Middletown, N. Y., Nov. 13.—The fear of assassins which tortured Domingo Corena, a Middletown merchant, for years, ended with his death today in the form he had dreaded. Two men who had apparently lain in waiting near his home for some time, shot him when he left the house and fled, leaving him dead on the sidewalk. Both men escaped.

PRINCE HENRY FLIES.

Darmstadt, Germany, Nov. 13.—Prince Henry of Prussia, made several flights alone in a military aeroplane today. Prince Henry has been devoting considerable time to learning the operation of the machine and his flights today indicate that he had made rapid progress in acquiring the art of control.

The Spaulding silver watch fobs for the baseball champions arrived in the city last week, and on Saturday were presented by the Spaulding agent in W. H. Thorne & Co. to the winners. The St. Peters' players who are champions of the Inter-society league each received a fob, as did the St. M. A. team who were champions of the Junior Inter-society league.
