Field Notes.

THE Missionary Campaign goes bravely on. There has been some apprehension that hard times, low prices for produce, poor crops, and the special effort on behalf of Victoria College, would interfere with our missionary income; but thus far the reports indicate every hand, and the outlook for the coming year is most encouraging. This society, which some seemed to fear might become a rival, really supplements the parent society, and as they work harmoniously together, much more can be accomplished than by either separately.

advance instead of retreat. Many circuits are increasing their contributions, some are doubling up, and some are going even beyond that. We trust there will be no relaxing of effort till the last gun is fired.

THE Sixth Annual Report of the Woman's Missionary Society has reached this office. Prosperity seems to have crowned the efforts of our sister society on Grenville, brings sad tidings of the ravages of scarlet fever on the Naas River. Bro. Green has lost his youngest child, and it is estimated that about fifty young people and children have been carried off by the scourge. Mr. Green himself has also been ill, though not of scarlet fever, and was not able to follow the body of his little son to its last resting place. His sickness was all the more grievous to be borne, be-
