Saturday, Feb. 24 will be the most active day as all faculties

and some departments set up their numerous displays. Pro-minent among the displays will be the popular phys-math display and the medical under-graduate display. Also promin-ent will be the commerce faculty's IBM display. The Educa-tion Undergraduate Society will again promote a winter carnival and ice figurine contest open to all faculties and fraternities.

Also on Saturday there will be a gamut of coffee and tea parties in-cluding the Nurses' Tea, the Wau-neita Tea and the Pan Hellenic-Wauneita Coffee Party.

It is proposed, but not definite, that representative lectures be given by departmental professors to give

e visitor a better idea of the work the various fields. Varsity Varieties production "Recapture the Rapture" will be one of the Weekend's main sources of revenue. It will run from Feb. 22-24 and concurrently with the Studio Theatre pro-duction "The Visit."

The Weekend will be kicked off fursday, Feb. 22 with the presi-tent's reception and appreciation banquet, sponsored by students' council and hosting civic officials,

MLA's and members of the news

nedia.

Ken Young, Varsity Guest Weekend director, said Sunday hat his committees are progressing very well in organizing the Weekend which will run from Feb. 22-25. A burgeoning high school population is one of the factors which will contribute to an expected record attendance of 18,000 visitors.

Varsity Guest Weekend, one of the major campus activities s designed primarily to acquaint the taxpayers with their university and to encourage high school students to aim for a uniersity education.

MUSIC GALORE

Cultural activities include a Mixed Chorus concert Saturday and a Musical Club Concert Sunday in Convocation Hall.

Social activities will include the education moccasin dance Friday, Feb. 23 in the Ice Arena and the physical education Ivy League Ball" Saturday in the gym.

Saturday morning classes will be cancelled and the Varsity Guest Weekend committee hopes university students will take advantage of this opportunity to see what work their fellow students in other fac-ulties are doing. They also ask that students take advantage of the Thursday "bargain night" to see Varsity Varieties so that more high school students will be able to take in the production on the other, more crowded nights.

Varsity Varieties tickets go on sale daily at the SUB in-$2.00, $1.50 and $1.00 with all tickets on Thursday, Student Night being $1.00. The show, an original musical by varsity students, runs Feb. 22-24.

He said that one of the prime goals of NFCUS is to make a university education more feasible for all Canadians. To this end, after seven years of lobbying in Parliament, the exemption of student tuition fees from income tax has been gained. The organization is still lobbying to get such items as texts and lab materials—items which may be considered as "legitimate, special expenditures' exempted from income tax. The NFCUS life insurance plan and NFCUS travel service have also been set up to bring these benefits to students at lower prices.

Maclean challenged students to look beyond their own noses for ideas, suggesting that a university education is designed to provide a means of "learning to live, to provide a means of critically evaluating the problems one goes through." Thus an awareness of national and intertional affairs is as much a part of a university education as is learning from a textbook.

He the attitude towards the said Indian in Canada is unique, a "very subtle form of apartheid." He also decried legislation which welcomes foreign students to Canada but restricts them in obtaining summer employment here. Both of these issues he laid at the door of a certain "narrowness" in the Canadian public.

When questioned at a press conference about the sincerity of the French-Canadian separatist movement, he described those who openly ance won out. Petty internal dis-sentions are not the mark of a mature university." (Editorial comment on page 4)

Locke escapes block; axe stayed

Corbet Locke, incoming edtor of the UAC Gauntlet, esaped from the UAC disciplinry committee with only a rerimand following charges laid y Gauntlet editor, Alan Arhur

After an hour long debate over his status, the UAC Stu-dents' council decided to reconfirm Locke's appointment s editor-in-chief on a trial basis. The debate in council came as a result of the disciplinary committee's action ollowing the writing of the Betrayal editorial, of Jan. 19, nd the "where the hell is AC?" cartoon.

The charges were, 1. Conduct which would seriously jeopardize relations between UAC and the U of A Board of Governors, the Senate, and the administration. 2. Insubordination to Gauntlet editor Alan Arthur. It was on the first charge the disciplinary committee issued the reprimand.

Locke was called into the meeting be interrogated by council and tters written over the controversial ditorial were read. It was felt the letters of apology to Dr. Johns, Dr. Cragg, and Dr. Taylor were not apologetic enough.

Arthur had charged Locke with sending an unauthorized uncompli-mentary letter to President Johns informing him of the stand The Gauntlet planned to take on the proposed Garneau expansion. At the same time Locke maintains the letter was a result of an editorial con-ference at which time a stand was to be taken on the issue.

A modified version of the originally conceived editorial came out following information received by Locke from Dr. Cragg. All the members of the editorial board, including Arthur signed the article before it appeared in print.

As a result of the Betrayal

editorial, the editorial board ran what Locke deems "a grovelingly apologetic editorial," in place of one Locke had written entitled "Our Right to say it." Locke was admitted to the editorial meeting which de-cided the question only by the intervention of Dennis MacDonald, Student Union president. LOCKE SPEAKS OUT

In respect to the cartoon which received an angry protest from the Edmonton council Locke replied to president Hyndman, "the cartoon in question which you label extremely crude was slanted to parody the tendency (which is probably natural) of UAE to dismiss UAC as a branch of UAE or as a glorified high school! . . . . we feel that nothing can be gained by overt animosity be-tween organizations at UAC and UAE but that constructing criticism UAE but that constructive criticism and good natured banter is natural and mutually beneficial. Friendly competition and rivalry is hardly a 115 situation'.'

"UAE has often accused UAC of being high schoolish, and this situa-tion has led me to believe their charge is in large part justified," said Locke in commenting on the con-troversy which exploded on the Calgary campus. He went on to say, "This is the second time in two years that an editor's neck has been on the chopping block. Fortunately for me, this time, the axe was stayed just in time while reason and tolerance won out. Petty internal dis-
