from page 3 dian in the group, he used Canada in a variety of ways as an example of modern-day nationalism. In closing, he said, "If nationalism were not with us tonight, the accent of the chairman (Roger B. Harley) would not be what it is tonight." Both sides presented convincing summations although Mr. Green was caught with his guard down and at first started muttering incoherently about pizza parlours in Dublin bringing about the downfall of England. He went on to say, "If you say that nationalism
