

- Laudamy and calomy,' 277.
 Lauderdale, Duke of, and Williamson the huntsman, 276.
 Lauderdale, Earl of, recipe of his daft son to make him sleep, 327.
 Laurencekirk, change in, 14.
 Laurencekirk described in style of Thomas the Rhymer, 150.
 Lawson, Rev. Dr. George, of Selkirk, and the student, 301.
 Leelin' Gibbie, 9.
 Leslie, Rev. Mr., and the smuggler, 300.
 'Let her down Donald, man, for she's drunk,' 177.
 'Let the little ane gang to pray, but first the big ane mann tak' an oar,' 21.
 Linties' and Scottish settler in Canada, 37.
 Linty offered as fee for baptism, 37.
 Liston, Sir Robert, and Scotchmen at Constantinople, 179.
 Loch, Davie, the carrier, at his mother's deathbed, 285.
 Lockhart, Dr., of Glasgow, and his son John, 85.
 Logan, Laird of, speech at meeting of heritors, 271.
 'Lord be thankit, a' the bunkers are fu'!' 296.
 'Lord pity the chiel that's chained to our Davie,' 186.
 Lord's prayer, John Skinner's reason for its repetition, 265.
 Lothian, Lord, in India, St. Andrew's day, 18.
 Lothian, Marquis of, and old countess at table, 329.
 Lothian, Marquis of, and workmen, 134.
 M'CUBBIN, Scotch minister, witty answer to Lord Brazfield, 156.
 M'Knight, Dr., 'dry eneuch in the pulpit,' 310.
 M'Knight, Dr., folk tired of his sermon, 312.
 M'Knight and Henry, twa toom kirks, 311.
 M'Knight, Dr., remark on his harmony of the four gospels, 311.
 Macleod, Rev. Dr. Norman, and Highland boatman, 21.
 Macleod, Rev. Dr. Norman, and revivals, 20.
 Macleod, Rev. Dr. Norman, anecdote of an Australian told by, 18.
 M'Lymont, John, the idiot, anecdotes of, 260, 281.
 Macnab, Laird of, his horse and whip, 258.
 MacNabb, Miss, and Campbell of Combie, 249.
 M'Pherson, Joe, and his wife, 76.
 Magistrates of Westar Anstruther, and evil-doers, 307.
 'Mair o' your siller and less o' your mainners, my Lady Betty,' 320.
 'Ma new breeks were mads oot o' the auld curtains,' 253.
 'Man, ye're skailing a' the water,' 197.
 'Marriage is a blessing to a few, a curse to many, and a great uncertainty to all,' 81.
 Marriage, old minister's addresson, 81.
 Mary of Gueldres, burying-place now a railway, 343.
 Mastiff, where turned into a greyhound, 263.
 Manl, Mr., and the Laird of Skene, 103.
 'May a puir body like me noo gie a hoast?' 292.
 'Me, and Pitt, and Pittfour,' 144.
 Mearns, Rev. W. of Kinneff, 30.
 'Mem, winna ye tak the clock wi' ye?' 205.
 'Mending the ways o' Bathgate,' 361.
 Mice consumed minister's sermon, 30.
 Middens, example of attachment to, 170.
 Military rank attached to ladies, 345.
 Miligan, Dr., answer to a tired clergyman, 272.
 Milton quoted, 29.
 Minister and rhenbarb tart, 251.
 Minister, anecdote of little boy at school, 212.
 Minister asking who was head of the house, 317.
 Minister called to a new living, 198.
 Minister, conversation with Janet his parishioner, 264.
 Minister in the north on long sermons, 312.
 Minister on a dog barking in church, 308.
 Minister preaching on the water-alds attacked by ants, 314.
 Minister publicly censuring his daughter, 79.
 Minister reading his sermon, 301.
 Minister returning thanks for good harvest, 319.
 Minister, Scottish, advice to young preachers, 302.
 Minister, Scottish, remark to a young man, who pulled cards out of his pocket in church, 313.