Now is the time to buy

It is all very well for aldermen to look wise to assume an air of mysteriousness and to beat about the bush in all directions as the right one; but there can be no doubt that, to say the least of it, there is something in connection with the acquisition of a site for the proposed electric lighting works that looks terribly suspicious. The public will only be satisfied that the city was not robbed and that there were not several attempts made to rob it, after the most searching investigation and the bringing to light of every fact and circumstance in connection with the negotiations. Boodle appears to stick out on every hand.

There are a good many points where theory and nature have a falling out. The steam utilizes but a small proportion of the thermal value of the fuel it consumes, and its improvement appears to be open only in the direction of higher initial and lower rejection temperatures. The maximum efficiencies are obtained with fiercely hot furnaces, low uptake temperature, high pressures, and high grades of vacuum, giving the great available range in both boiler and engine. In the animal organism combustion is carried on at a moderate rate and low temperature, and there is apparently little available difference of temperature in the body, yet as a machine the mule is more efficient than the engine, and will do more work per pound of fuel consumed. The man who finds out the principle upon which this is done, and teaches us to apply it, will be a greater scientist than Faraday, a greater inventor than Watt.
