Fall Fair Hints.

Peter McArthur, writes to the Globe as follows:-

Fall fairs have been with us for the past couple of weeks, and members of the Liberal party have been appearing in public again and trying to look unconcerned. Right here is a place where doctrine of protection might be enforced with profit. As fall fairs are conducted at the present time, professional exhibitors who either produce or borrow good things, make a round of all the fairs and take all the prizes. As the purpose of the fall fairs is to encourage the production of good things by all the people, would it not be good idea to confine the exhibits at small fairs to stated localities? That would give the people of the surrounding country a chance, and the professionals could fight it out with one another at the big fairs. Another thing that provokes criticism is the custom of exhibiting certain articles, such as fancy work, year after year. Instead of encouraging production, one perfect piece may discourage competition in a community for generations. I remember one surpassing log-cabin quilt that stopped the building of log-cabin quilts for years. It was a wonderful piece of applied art. As a boy I used to stand before it at the fall fair and wonder if the Queen had anything so fine. As a young man I used to take the girls to see it and dare them to beat it. But it was no use. No girl would count a certain defeat by exhibiting against such a masterpiece. Year after year it appeared at the fall fair and took the prize. Of course it was never used, even on the spare bed. It became a sort of prize-winning heirloom in the family that owned it. No one was ever able to approach its excellence, and I have no doubt I would be going to admire it in a doddering senility had it not been for a sad, sad mishap. It was kept in a clothespress, from which it was never taken but once a year to get its prize-winning airing at the fall fair. But one winter an ambitious mouse gnawed a hole in the press and made a log-cabin nest for itself in the middle of the famous quilt. When next fair time came around it was taken from its hiding-place a mass of tattered rags. It was very sad. But since then girls have taken to making log-cabin again and are ravenous for the ends of neckties to use for patches. I doubt if there is a young man for miles around who has not had his neckties docked two or three times. Of course there are no quilts to equal the perfect one, but there are a great number, and that is a compensation. Now, why should one quilt be allowed to dominate over a whole community in this way? Could it not be arranged so that one article could take only one prize at the same fair? There is a moral to this story if the managers of fall fairs will observingly distill it out.

Her Opinion.

"You can't tell me anything about the foolishness of women, Josiah," says any Canadian woman, looking up from the evening paper. "No women at a bargain counter were ever half so ridiculous as you men at the election bets. When you see grown up men trundling each other in a wheel-barrow for blocks, just because a certain candidate got in, you wonder when the citizens of this country are going to grow up." Women," says Josiah seriously, "have absolutely no sense of humour.

Parisian Sage.

AN IDEAL HAIR TONIC. Parisian Sage is compounded on the most advanced scientific principles, and nothing on the market today can compare with it. It accomplishes so much more than ordinary tonics and does it so quickly that users are astonished.

Parisian Sage kills the dandruff germs and eradicates dandruff, stops falling hair, itching of the scalp and splitting hairs in two weeks or we will refund your money.

Parisian Sage gives a fascinating lustre to women's hair and makes it beautiful. It makes the hair grow luxuriantly; it is the daintiest and most refreshing hair dressing that science has produced, and has not a particle of grease or stickiness in it. Parisian Sage costs 50c at your druggist or postpaid from the proprietors, The Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. Sold and guaranteed by John Coates.

A Falling Market.

A cowboy was told by his boss to drive a German nobleman over the ranch to take in the sights. All went well until they came to a steep hill. When making the descent the horses got the best of the cowboy. They went at a tremendous rate, thereby causing the occupants to hang on for their lives.

At that point the German yelled out, "I would give a thousand dollars to be out of this."

For answer the cowboy, who had sighted a pile of rocks ahead, yelled back, "Keep your money for you will be out a dern sight cheaper in a minute."

WALKERTON.

An accident which occurred some months ago in Brant got an airing in the Division Court here on Wednesday when Peter McRitchie of that township sued Frank Rennie, liveryman of Walkerton, for $35.00 for damage to his rig which the plaintiff claims was caused by Mr. Rennie's young son driving into and colliding with his rig on the highway on July 11th last. McRitchie's rig, it seems, was upset by the mishap and considerably damaged as a result. After a lot of evidence had been taken on both sides, Judge Klein, who presided at the trial, allowed McRitchie $20.00 damages and costs.

Mr. Dan McCurdy, who formerly resided on a farm near Chesley, but who went West some ten years ago and cleared up a fortune variously estimated between $60,000 and $70,000, was in Walkerton on Thursday looking for a house with the object of purchasing and locating here.

Not since Brant produced the big Waechter steer or since Walkerton gave birth to the five legged one, has anything more curious come to light in the steer line than that now on exhibition at Mr. John Ruetz's farm near Dunkeld. The latter has two tails perfectly formed and capable of doing great service at fly-time. With two tails swishing its back, the steer is able to crop its grass fattening comfort, while the other members of the herd who are not so liberally supplied in this line, grow thin envying this two tailed wonder. The animal would certainly be an attractive feature for a zoological garden.

Bogus Bills.

Issues of the new Dominion $1 bills being ingeniously raised to represent $4 bills. The bills are "raised" in a very smooth manner. The person or persons who are guilty of the practice cut the figure four out of the Government cigar stamps and paste them over the figure one on the bill and pass them. American bills, too, are being raised, presumably by the same gang, and warnings have already been issued to be wary of suspicious American paper currency.

Prohibition In Maine.

That section of the Maine constitution adopted in 1884, which forbids the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, was resubmitted to the voters at a special election, September 11th. Unofficial returns indicate that it was approved by a majority of 100, in a total vote of about 120,000. This result may be changed by the official count. In 1884 it received a majority of 46,000, in a total poll of 93,333. The first prohibitory law was passed in 1846. It was soon repealed, but was reenacted in 1857, and has been continuously in force since that time. The resubmission of the constitutional amendment to the voters was one of the issues in the election last year. The Democrats, who elected their candidate for governor, and a majority of the legislature, favored resubmission. The legislature, by a combination of Democratic and Republican votes, made the necessary arrangements for testing the sentiment of the state on the question. When it was put to a vote, the cities, by a majority of 15,000, favored repeal. The vote in Bangor was 3,000 for repeal, to 900 against it; in Portland the vote was 6,600 for repeal, to 4,500 against it.

Stole Woman's Clothes.

While the law permits a man to steal a woman's heart yet it does not allow him to swipe her apparel, clothes being such an expensive luxury nowadays that it is a serious offence to take anything so valuable. Therefore when John Gregg of Port Elgin entered the home of a lady in that village and stole a suit-case full of her clothes, together with her umbrella, there was trouble in the village and a noise like the policeman getting busy and the magistrate opening court. The result of the proceedings was the sending of Gregg to the Walkerton jail on Monday to await his trial before the judge. The following day the prisoner was ushered into the Justice Hall and pleaded guilty to Judge Barrett of stealing the clothes. After some wholesome advice from the judge and a promise of future good behavior from the prisoner, the latter was allowed to go on suspended sentence.—Bruce Times.

About 100 Contests.

The election campaign just closed has so overshadowed and interfered with the work of the local Option organization in Ontario that the number of contests in the province in January will probably not reach 100. The municipalities in which the by-law is to be voted on include, however, four cities—Chatham, Belleville, Port Arthur and Fort William. The 9 towns in which contests are so far announced include Berlin, Goderich, Aylmer, Listowel and Forest. It will also be voted on in the village of Hepworth.

Punctuality can be cultivated. Slow coaches can be cured. Someone has said that the only way to catch a train is to start in time and in this pithy sentence lies the gist of the only cure of the habit of punctuality. Two rules grow out of it. One is "always begin in time to get ready" and the other is "When there are several things to be done, decide which is the most important and do that first." Punctuality is a comfortable virtue in the family and in business and is entirely dependent upon your will.

The outbreak of rabies which was spread through the Rockwood district several weeks ago when a rabid dog ran amuck, biting everything in its path, has not yet subsided. Several animals have since developed the disease, and have been destroyed. Chas. McNab, a farmer living near Rockwood, is one of the residents of the locality who lost heavily as a result of the outbreak. This week he was obliged to shoot more of his hogs which had developed symptoms of rabies.

There will be 53 Sundays in 1911. This will not happen again in 109 years. It has been suggested that all religious denominations celebrate the 53rd Sunday, which falls on December 31st, as a universal day of Thanksgiving.

There are now about 75 public library buildings in Ontario and over 400 libraries. There were 12 public library institutes held in Ontario last year and 280 libraries were represented.

Monday, October 30, has been chosen as Thanksgiving day for the bountiful harvest and other blessings enjoyed thus far during 1911. Let us be thankful for peace and plenty.

What The Census Shows.

Canada's fifth census begun in June has been completed and the official figures will be made public in a few days as soon as the returns are in from the far-off Yukon and North West districts. Canada's total population is stated to be well under the eight million mark which enthusiastic prophets had foretold. The returns show that Toronto and Montreal have made the largest gains in population. The former has the greatest percentage of gain and the latter the largest gain in numbers. In Ontario the population of the rural districts has fallen off notably in Western Ontario from which there has been a large migration to the West since last census. This has been partly offset by a great increase of population in Northern Ontario in four districts of Nipissing, East and West Algoma, and Rainy River and Thunder Bay, where the population has more than doubled. All the west provinces show great gains, the largest percentage of gain being credited to Alberta. The cities of Winnipeg and Calgary show the largest gains of any of the western cities.

What Is Beer?

Doc Wiley's called on to decide the pregnant question: "What is beer?" He'll split the subject open wide and hand a verdict down this year. He might consult some dreary bum, who has a dark and mournful tale of how from affluence he's come to occupy a cell in jail. Beer is a good and harmless drink if you but leave the stuff alone; while bottled up, like purple ink, it never caused a sigh or groan. But if you pour it down your throat, one bottle clamors for its mate; it starts right in to get your goat, and it will get it, soon or late. This drink in which such virtue lies, will fill your head with aches and pains, and give you puffed and crimson eyes, and scatter cobwebs through your brains. On energy it puts the crape; in useful work you hate to launch; it puts new outline on your shape until it leaves you mostly paunch. It spoils your appetite for food—beer, beer alone is all you beg—the good old brew, from glass of wood—until you are a human keg. And when your love for beer you lose, because it fails to hit the spot, you fondly turn to stronger booze, and drink it till your insides rot. Walt Mason.

Special Demonstration of the Chancellor and others of the splendid line of durable, economical, reliable and attractive

Gurney-Oxford Stoves and Ranges

now on display at our store—a demonstration that marks the 20th Century achievement in stove-making. Come and examine the special points of excellence—a marvellous device for the control of the heat. It gives a saving of 20% in fuel, besides economy of time and labor. A patent authorized only on this line.

The Divided Oven Flue Strip is a great economy of food. All danger of failure in baking is minimized with this clever arrangement for even distribution of heat. There is no better test of practical stove-work than this perfect oven control.

Another advantage lies in the Reversible Grate equipped with strong interlocking teeth that save waste, maximum heat with less fuel.

The Broiler Top—the strong oven door, an excellent feature—and these all combine with attractive designs in wide variety of size and price.

You are earnestly invited to come and inspect the Gurney-Oxford line—for the good of your purse, your health, and "all the comforts of home."
