At a meeting of the local W.C.T.U., held recently, the following resolution was unanimously adopted: "Resolved That we, the members of the Athens W.C.T.U., exceedingly regret the attitude of the present government with regard to prohibitory legislation in respect to intoxicants, and earnestly request that the members of the W.C.T.U. in all parts of the Dominion of Canada, by the enactment of such legislation as will give the Dominion of Canada a prohibitory law against the importation, manufacture or sale of all alcoholic liquors."

This spring will long be remembered by those interested in vehicular traffic, as it has been characterized by the worst roads known in years. The light snow-fall of the past winter allowed the frost to penetrate to a great depth, and even the stone roads have broken up from this cause wherever the construction was in any way defective. The condition of the highways in this spring affords an object lesson in road building in village and country that should be carefully noted by those interested. In Athens, two sections of road deserve special mention, viz. Wellington (between Henry and Elgin) and Reid street. The former was graded recently and this spring dried quickly without heaving; the latter, owing to neglect of the first principle of road-building—drainage—has heaved and is now almost impassable. In fact, in very many cases, where a bad piece of road is encountered, it will be found to be due to faulty construction.

From Far Chenu-tu.

Dr. O. Kilborn, recently returned from Chenu-tu, China, delivered an interesting address in the Methodist church on the 14th inst. He was invited to his mission work in that country. The scene of his labors, where he is associated with Rev. George Hartwell, is situated in the heart of China, 2,000 miles from Hong Kong. The route involved is up the Yangtze to Kiang river, half the distance by steamer and half by Chinese horse-boats, the latter pulled up stream by coolies who run along the bank of the river. The house-boat trip occupies two months and a half, the many "snaky days" in China and the necessity of paying proper deference to the deities who lurk in the water unduly prolonging the time.

The Chinese, as well as very superstitious as well as idolatrous, ever being associated by them with many innocent acts and words. Certain gods are worshipped in common by all the natives, but there are innumerable churches of which each sect is made up of others of which each sect is made up of the worshippers. Among the former may be classed ancestral worship, which is universal throughout the kingdom and is the greatest bar to the spread of the Gospel. A Christian man may not treat his father very well in life, but once dead his ghost becomes all-powerful and to his memory a tablet must be erected in the best room of the house and before it incense is burned daily. One of these tablets was exhibited by the Doctor, as well as many other curious articles from the Flowery Kingdom, which were viewed with interest by the audience. In addition to opium, the curse of China, and whisky and tobacco of native production are very commonly used.

Rev. Thomas of Maitland will address the League on Wednesday night next in the interests of the literary department.

The Reporter office is prepared to all orders for a very good roof, at a very low price. The form you want at the price you like.

Miss Amelia Stone, who went to Montreal a few days ago to have her eye treated, has returned home with her sight restored. The operation performed by Dr. Buller occupied only five minutes time and was entirely successful.

Mr. S. S. Holmes, traveler for the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., returned to Athens on Saturday evening. For some nine weeks previously he had been very ill at Picton, N. S., and his home-coming was a glad surprise to his family and friends.

In the spring a young man's fancy used to turn to love, they say; but a change has come upon him and he has a newer way. Now when spring comes with the zephyrs that it makes one glad to feel, he that erst for love was longing goes to ciliping up his whiskers.

Messrs. Matheson & Glover, merchants, Lyndhurst, have this week issued hand-bills calling attention to their extensive line of goods and the low prices at which they are being sold. Prices are quoted for a variety of staple goods, but we can only mention a few. As was in keeping with the season, sugar was served; while amusing parlor games were indulged in to a creditable degree.

We think that too much credit should be given to the late Mr. Patterson for so kindly opening his home for such an occasion, especially when we note the fact that many of the guests were students of the high school and so were strangers to the hostesses. We have no hesitation in saying that the evening will be kindly remembered by all.

Death of Henry Carr.

At the home of Mr. Anson Brown, near Seelye's Bay, on the 12th inst., Mr. Henry Carr departed this life, after only four or five days' illness, aged 62 years.

Deceased was a son of the late Jas. Carr and was born in South Crosby in 1837, the third of seven children, only two of whom survive, John of Athens and Ogle of Smith's Falls. He was well known throughout a wide district, and was actively engaged in his christian character and business integrity. For several years he traveled in the interest of mercantile houses in Montreal, was for a time in partnership with Mr. Ormer Brown in Brockville, and also conducted business on his own account in Delta. In all his business relations he made many friends, who will join with the Reporter in expressing regret at the early demise of so good a man.

For about forty years he had been a consistent member of the Methodist church. The remains were brought to Athens on Friday last, and a large number of the old friends of deceased listened to an interesting discourse delivered by Rev. E. W. Crane in the Methodist church. After the service, the body was deposited in the vault and will be interred this week.

Exceptional Case.

"Now, sir," said the lawyer, looking sharply at the witness, "did you ever have a conversation with the deceased on the 14th inst.?"

"And so," rejoined the attorney, "because you couldn't tell well enough to be a lawyer and had a memory more to learn any other occupation, he let you grow up to be just a common, everyday ass."

Inasmuch as this appears to be the first time in all history that a lawyer ever got the better of a witness, the case deserves to go on record.

The Trainee's View of Cismen-tu.

The traditional trainee who has been wont to offer chewing gum to fair passengers and newspapers to men evidently of an enigma. Not many moons ago a lively party of disbelievers were en route to Cismen-tu when an interested spectator as a little station stopped up to the train and curiously asked about the crew.

"Don't know," gloomily grumbled the trainee. "They say they're literary, but I don't believe 'em. Not one has bought a book. They just talk and talk."—Bertha Danvers Knobe in Women's Home Companion.

"Yes, indeed," said the man who was the father of your daughter.

"For Isabel's hand?"

"No, indeed. It was a mere formality, I know, but we thought it would be pleasing to you to have me go through with it."

"That is why I said—a mere formality."

"And may I inquire who suggested that asking my consent to my daughter's marriage was only a mere formality?"

"Isabel's mother? Then I have nothing further to say."

Miss Emma Wilson is visiting friends in Brockville this week.

If you have had the grip take Hood's Sarsaparilla. It will loosen you up, purify your blood, and overcome all bad effects of the disease.

Rev. Mr. Robertson occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church on Sunday last and preached very acceptably morning and evening.

Now is the time of year when the winter's accumulations of rubbish should be got rid of. The cellars should be cleaned out and the walls given a coat or two of whitewash to destroy any germs of disease that may be lurking there. Remnants of decaying vegetation, while harmless in cold weather, begin to ferment and fester when the spring sun warms them up, producing death-dealing microbes and spreading disease. Clean up your back yards, make your premises attractive and the improved appearance of things alone will more than repay you for the trouble.

We commence this week the publication of a new serial story of thrilling interest entitled "The Lawless." The story will run for several weeks, and as it has proved very popular wherever published, readers of the Reporter will no doubt enjoy its perusal. For this and the next few weeks, extra copies of the Reporter will be published so that new subscribers will be able to obtain back numbers containing the early chapters of the story.

A Polish Trick.

Zurich, Apr. 17.—Daniel Henofar, a farmer living near this place tried a trick which will likely teach him a lesson. It appears that his cat had for some time been both with and without him. Last night he tried how coal oil would work on them. After thoroughly saturating a beifer with the fluid, he applied a match to the animal, and the oil-ignited immediately, burning several other beifers in the barn, with its contents. The loss is heavy; no insurance. Mr. Henofar was badly burned, but will recover.

League Officers.

The annual meeting of the E. L. of C. E. was held on Tuesday night last and the following officers were elected: President—Mrs. T. S. Kendrick. First Vice Pres.—Miss M. Stone. Second Vice Pres.—Miss M. Stone. Third Vice Pres.—Mr. Bishop. Fourth Vice Pres.—Miss Heacock. Recording Sec.—Miss J. Kilborn. Cor. Sec.—Miss F. Moore. Treasurer—Mr. Norton Crane. Mrs. Lamb was appointed as organist and Mr. H. McLaughlin, Mr. A. Parish, and Mr. Claude Knoult were appointed ushers.

A Pleasant Evening.

The monotony of existence characteristic of the young people of Athens was pleasantly broken on Wednesday, April 12th, when, so as a party of young people, who have at various times throughout this term taken part in Epworth League work, under the leadership of Miss I. Heacock, were invited to spend the evening at the home of Mrs. Norton Crane, Reid street. As was in keeping with the season, sugar was served; while amusing parlor games were indulged in to a creditable degree.

We think that too much credit should be given to the late Mr. Patterson for so kindly opening his home for such an occasion, especially when we note the fact that many of the guests were students of the high school and so were strangers to the hostesses.
