THE LORD'S DAY

It does not even need a man to be religious to be able to observe the unspeakable boon of a weekly day of rest. As a day of physical rest and refreshment and as a day of abstention, as far as may be possible, from week-day concerns, the Lord's Day brings blessings to millions of toilers with brain and hand. The simple halting of ordinary occupations brings recuperation of energies, which will be all the more effective in the following week.

Its beneficent effects are so great and extensive that it is well for Christian people to be reminded of the duty and privilege of doing all in their power to preserve intact one of the richest blessings ever given by God to the world.

But while the Christian cannot and does not wish to compel anyone to observe the Lord's Day on religious grounds there are ample reasons why as citizens we should do all that we can to preserve intact this inestimable privilege for as many as possible of the people.

Unnecessary labor can and should be eliminated, and heads of industries that are essential all the week should make provision for workmen to have some other rest-day without diminution of wages, and should also take care to reduce to the smallest possible limits what is regarded as necessary work on Sundays. Then too, law could easily and without infringing any proper liberty see that Sunday is not used for commercial gain. These are matters that affect us all, and on which all right-minded citizens should be united and determined.—The Lord's Day Advocate.

SUNDAY OFFICIALLY RECOGNIZED IN JAPAN

Tokyo newspapers announce imperial recognition of Sunday as a National day of rest throughout Japan, and as a result of the influence which Christianity is exercising today in a non-Christian nation. The Government has been for years officially committed to a partial recognition of the Sabbath. On that day imperial offices were closed, schools given a holiday, big banks did not open for business and many persons ceased their labors.—Missionary Review of the World, April, 1922.

USES OF EGG SHELLS

How seldom anyone thinks of saving the shells of eggs used for cooking, yet they should never be wasted. Wash and dry them, then store in clean, dry, covered bottles.

They are then ready for clearing soups and jellies, and are an excellent cleansing agent for glass bottles, cruets and flower vases.

When used for the latter purpose crush the shells into small pieces and put them into the glass ware; fill up with warm soapy water, shake well, rinse the glass in clean, cold water, and leave it neck downward to drain.

When we sigh about our trouble It grows double—every day. When we laugh about a trouble It's a bubble—blown away.

"Saved My Little Girl!"

Mother tells how her little Ethel's life was saved.

That is what one woman wrote us recently, and then she goes on to say:—
 "Ethel, who is just past eight, caught a bad cold last August. The child is of a highly strung, nervous temperament and could not be kept quiet in bed. We tried everything we could think of to cure her cough. But, the cough became worse and from a rosy, healthy, sturdy girl she became pale and thin. Nothing we did seemed to stop the cough and by this time regular spasms of coughing had developed. These coughing spells left the child weak and completely tired out. I believe that in a short time the cough would have reached the child's lungs. After trying everything I could think of, I saw an advertisement for Carnol, saying that this preparation would build one up. I got a bottle from the druggist and before it was half finished my little girl had almost completely shaken off her cough. Her cheeks began to get back their old colour. She started to put on flesh again and would run and play all day without being tired. Today, after having taken two bottles of Carnol, she is looking and feeling better than she has ever felt in her life."

Carnol is sold by your druggist and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle and he will refund your money.

CIVIC RESPONSIBILITY

The Ottawa Citizen says editorially:—Dr. J. H. Putnam's suggestions to teachers regarding the necessity of imbuing the children with a proper sense of civic responsibility might with profit be studied by all grown-ups in the city, and especially parents. In his circular of advice to the school teachers he says:
 "Will you plan some brief talks on the subject making them as specific and concrete as possible? Will you endeavour first to impress upon your pupils their individual responsibility for a clean and beautiful city through assisting in making beautiful their own home surroundings, and second their collective responsibility in constituting themselves guardians for the security of all public property, especially trees, shrubs and flowers. This, of course, can best be done through specific instruction which brings home to the child the value of these things."
 Here is sound advice, indeed, and it applies with more or less force to all members of the community. Children, of course, in their excess of high spirits are more likely to damage growing things in gardens, parks and along driveways, but not all adults are as conscious as they might be of the aesthetic and economic value of trees, shrubs, flowers and lawns and all things that go to make a beautiful city. Dr. Putnam's words are most timely, but they are too valuable to be merely directed at the school children at a time when a proper civic conscience in regard to these matters is so much the need of us all.

THE GOVERNMENT CONVERSION SCHEME

The attention of the holders of the five and a half per cent war loan bonds maturing December 1, 1922, is directed to the offer of the Minister of Finance to renew the loan on favourable terms. The last Canadian loan was placed in New York at a satisfactory price. The minister is making his present financial operation entirely a domestic one by offering to exchange the maturing bonds for new bonds bearing the same rate of interest running for either five years or ten years as the bondholder may prefer. A further inducement to the investor is that he receives a bonus of one month's interest. The terms offered are decidedly favourable to the investor and it is probable that a large part of the maturing loan will be renewed. Arrangements for the exchange of the bonds can be made at any branch of the chartered banks. Holders who do not wish to reinvest will be paid in cash on the 1st December.

Newspaper Advertising

is the cheapest and most effective method by which the local merchant can reach the buying public. No expense or trouble to get the message into the homes as there is in the case of circulars. Practically every family takes THE ACADIAN and everybody in the home reads it.

Better than a Catalogue

To issue a catalogue is beyond the power of the ordinary merchant but a weekly message in the columns of THE ACADIAN is much better, and the mail order houses acknowledge that their business is least in the district where merchants use the columns of the local paper.

START NOW—The present is the time to prepare for the fall campaign. In a few weeks many families will be preparing a list of fall and winter requirements, and the local merchant who is not in the family circle by means of advertising is forgotten.
