BUY CANADIAN MADE GOODS

THINK IT OVER.
It will mean the employment of many additional thousands of men and women in the factories of Canada.
It will mean greater activity and more prosperity in the industrial life of the country.
It will mean new factories for the cities and towns of Canada.
It will mean a more profitable home market than the present one for the farmers of Canada.
It will result in further inspiring the confidence of British investors in the stability of the business of Canada.

BRITISH NAVAL POLICY.

The political cauldron in Europe is always seething and changes in conditions of might import are always on the carpet. The diplomats of each power scheme with ready will for their own country's advantage. Today the policy of national compact reigns supreme. Even Great Britain has abandoned an obsolete her old position of isolation. The Japanese alliance and the entente with France are the sign-port of a new diplomacy. With the present close understanding with France, it has been apparently decided by the British naval authorities to withdraw the preponderance of British sea power from the Mediterranean and concentrate the full force of the navy in the North Sea, where it will be ready to cope at an hour's notice with any effort which Germany may make to wrest from her the supremacy of the sea. Germany's allies of the Triple Alliance, Austria and Italy, will be attended to by France, who can be safely relied upon to act in concert with the Mother Country.

The naval strength of France in the Mediterranean is about equal at present to the combined force of Italy and Austria. By the year 1916 it is anticipated that the two latter powers will have ten new battleships in the Mediterranean, while France promises to have eleven. It is also announced as the policy of the French Government to maintain in future the two power standard as far as Austria and Italy are concerned.

The friendly alliance between Great Britain and France has now stood the strain of years of trial and seems to be the real thing. Without the support of Britain during the Morocco embargo, France could never have passed her claims in the face of German opposition in the manner in which she did, and her diplomats feel how much it is to the advantage of the Republic to have such a powerful friend in the constant intrigues that are brought to light. Great Britain can therefore reasonably leave the Mediterranean to her ally to look after, while she devotes her full power to squashing the ambitious projects of Germany to oust the British fleet in the North Sea. If war ever breaks out between Germany and Britain, it is in those waters that the strife must be decided, and the addition of the six battleships which have been recalled home from Malta will bring added strength to the home fleet, free the Kaiser to pause before he gives the word of attack.

The time has arrived when Canada can no longer remain in the background in the matter of the naval defence of the Empire. The burden is growing too great for the little fleet that have scattered potential branches to all parts of the globe. The Dominions from across the seas are well able to give substantial relief, and Canada as the most influential of the Daughter Nations must lead the way.
Premier Borden and Hon. Mr. Hagen, who are now consulting with the British Admiralty on the subject, will soon decide the manner in which the Canadian contribution is to be made. Whatever form is finally adopted, the majority of the Canadian people can be depended upon to ratify. When the day comes that the big guns boom forth their defiance, Canada wants to be represented in the battle's din, and not hide behind a false economy until it is too late to give effective aid to the Mother of Nations in her day of trial.

THE DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE.

The first balloting in the Democratic Convention, while it gives Champ Clark a considerable lead, does not really denote what the final decision will be. In fact, the man who will receive the great honor may not have figured in the proceedings at all. Champ Clark's 441 votes is a long way from the 723 which is necessary for a nomination. He was expected to go into the Convention with a decided advantage over the other candidates, and if there is any disappointment it is amongst his followers, who believed that his vote would have been larger than it turned out to be. It is realized by all that the two-thirds vote necessary to nominate in the convention can only be secured by a combination of some of the candidates, or by a stampede of some of the delegates. The various leaders are firm in the belief that there will be no stampede, and declare that they do not even fear Mr. Bryan in that respect. But the unexpected often happens in political conventions, and it would not be extraordinary if the Nebraskan were to lead the party for the fourth time. At all events he is the outstanding figure in the proceedings at Baltimore this week.

The Democrats have a splendid chance to form a real progressive party and sweep the country in November. The element of personality is not a fatal factor in its convention as it was at Chicago. Indeed, it rather lacks leaders. Champ Clark and Wilson have neither of them a strong hold upon the party at large.

Wilson is the truer progressive, but it is doubtful if he has the power to carry the American electorate in the Presidential contest. In the background is the old war horse progressive, Bryan, who through weary years has carried the flag of principle to brave defeat. It may again be Bryan, and it might be very much worse.

The Bryan followers are hopeful that the nominating fight may go to the fourth or fifth ballot, and believe that if that situation comes many delegates would go to him. There is a large conservative attitude, however, which is adverse to nominating a three-time loser, and who do not think that Mr. Bryan is a man of fraternal political judgment. While they are willing to allow him to remain a great figure in the Democratic camp, they have no wish to see him its ruler.
At the headquarters of the various Presidential candidates no talk of compromise is heard. Optimism prevails everywhere, and each candidate is referred to by his adherents as "our next President." As the constitution of the United States makes no provision for more than one President at one time, some of them must be mistaken. It would not be wonderful if it turned out that all were wrong.

THE CASE OF ULSTER.

Almost nothing is being cabled to this country of the progress of the Irish Home Rule bill through parliament. The measure is still in committee in the Commons, where various amendments are offered. One of these proposed to exclude from the operation of the bill the counties of Antrim, Armagh, Down and Londonderry. Sir Edward Carson declared he would never leave off such an amendment the counties of Tyrone and Fermanagh. Several alternatives have been brought forward. One member suggested that the north of Ireland should be taken on to Scotland.
Another member proposed as a solution that the Irish Protestants should emigrate to England.

That the amendment did not include the whole of Ulster was seized on by Mr. John Redmond to point out that in the whole province the Protestants and Catholics are about evenly divided. In the four counties selected by the amendment there are 700,000 Protestants and 315,000 Catholics. Mr.
Redmond strongly asserted that among the former there is a large minority in favor of home rule. Mr. C. Craig, an Antrim member, said he would exclude the whole of Ulster from the bill.

Mr. Lloyd George informed the committee that if there was any demand on the part of Ulster for separate treatment the government would consider it. But it was for Ulster to make out a case. He described the amendment as gigantic and new, and the opposition not agreed on it. He further declared that where the Catholics predominate in Ireland, Protestants receive absolute fair play, and pointed to the practice in Quebec. In London where there is a Catholic population of 23,000 and the Protestant population 17,000, a Unionist member was returned.

The measure was attacked with great vigor by Mr. P. E. Smith and others, but the amendment was rejected by a majority of 69.

solve the dear meat question is to buy as little as possible of it and turn to cheaper, if not as appetizing foods.

A man named Jackson has been appointed to take charge of the Government shipyard at Sorel, and leading Liberal papers of the province are making of the fact an issue in the pa-liamentary bye-election which is soon to be held in the county of Richelieu.
Mr. Jackson, it appears, is English. It seems to be a new Liberal doctrine that an Englishman has no right to work for the Government of Canada in the province of Quebec.

A study of the votes cast throughout the Dominion in the last general election show that 669,587 ballots were marked for the Conservative candidates, while 625,096 were given to Liberal candidates. This gave the Government 133 seats to the Opposition's 84, a majority of 49 for the Government.

When the C. P. R. has orders for freight car equipment so vastly large that all the firms on the continent cannot promise to fill them this year, and with freight for every car growing or Canada begins to suffer from a sort of prosperity indigestion.

The cost of living advanced 25 per cent in the United Kingdom in the last fifteen years, foodstuffs showing a tremendous increase in price, bacon alone being 72 per cent. dearer than in 1896. And Great Britain is nominally a free trade country.

STOCK MARKET
QUOTATIONS TODAY

(By direct private wires to J. C.
Mackintosh & Co., 604 Queen St., Fredericton, N. B.)

New York, June 28.—The opening was dull, with fractional declines in nearly all active issues. Attendance in commission house was small and there was widespread expectation of continuing dullness during the remainder of week, barring some definite development at Baltimore Convention. U. S. Steel opened at 70 1/2, a loss of 1/2, but was steady at the lower level. Sentiment on stock was about as bullish as on anything, but even here it was not so pronounced.
Futile to attempt to get a bull movement at this time. General Electric was a popular subject, and was regarded as very bright.
