Man Commits Murder and Suicide Before His Little Ones.

Chicago, Oct. 11 .- The testimony of a vesterday for her living son. Casey, who killed his brother John at her home, 108 North Claremont

A jury in Judge Kersten's court last evening brought in a verdict of justifi-able homicide. The verdict was influenced largely by the story of Mrs. Margaret Brennan, the aged mother of the boys.

On the witness stand she threw back her mourning veil and exhibited a large sear inflicted, she said, by the boy for whom she was wearing black. She told also of being kicked into insensibility and left unconscious all night by that son. Then she told of the good qualities of Michael, the defendant.

"He was always a good boy," she said, "and never so much as lifted his hand against his mother."

The verdict was reached by the jury at 8 o'clock after it had been out since 4.30 o'clock in the afternon. Several ballots were taken before dinner, and all showed a disagreement. After dinner another vote was called for by the foreman, and all the jurors agreed upon an acquittal.

HAMILTON GIRL'S BABY CAUSED TROUBLE IN BUFFALO

Physician Sent to Penitentiary for a Year---The by at 9.30, and the defence was commen Adoption of the Baby.

To-day's B uffalo Courier reports a nameless Hamilton young woman figures rather conspicuously as the mother of a baby that was born in Buffalo. The report says: County Judge Harry L. Taylor yesterday sentenced Dr. Henry J. Ince to serve one year in the Eric County Penitentiary for performing a criminal operation. Dr. Ince withdrew a former plea of not guilty and yesterday pleaded guilty to one of two indictments found against him by the grand jury a few days ago. Although the case of Dr. Ince lacked spectacular incidents and sensational details, such as made the case of Dr. W. W. Turver notable, the plea of guilty and the punishment meted out to Dr. Ince is regarded by District Attorney Frank A. Abbott and life assistant, D. V. Murphy, as of great it variance. So strongly was put together the evidence gathered against Dr. Ince by the district attorney and his assistant, it is said, and so positive was it, that there seemed to be no possibility that Dr. Ince, if

It will be taken to Cleveland by her son, Emil Hoover. Mrs Chadwick embraced the Roman Catholic faith, and was baptized in it a few days before her death. Yesterday morning she received extreme unction. It was frequently reported that Mrs. Chadwick had made a statement regarding her financial transactions, and it was expected that if such a statement had been made it would be given to the public after her death.

The prison officials declared last night that she had never made such a statement to them, and T. E. Powell, her attorney here, also denied the rumor.

ed. Jake Tamillo, alias Sunfield, was the first witness called by Mr. J. L. Counsell, he taking the stand in his own behalf. Sunfield was on the stand for two hours and a half and spoke in very fair English, of the Chimmy Fadder brand. He did not make a very favor-able impression on the auditors, al-though he did not get twisted very much in his testimony. His mind was clear on trivial things up to the time of the shooting, and then it suddenly be-came blank.

Sunfield's Story

The prisoner stated he was 31 years of age, and was born in Chicago. He has a wife, she being in Chicago for the past 18 months. He said he had lived in Hamilton for about three years and had worked for the International Harvester worked for the International Harvester Company all that time. For about 14 months, up to the time of the shooting, he boarded at Radzyk's.

"On May 7th there was a wedding at the house. Steine got married, and there was a big time, starting at 8 in the morning. After we left the church we went to the photograph gallery and had a picture taken, then returning to the house. Then we drank all day. In the evening Radzyk ordered his wife to get up from the bed and I interfered and Radzyk ran at me. I put up my hands to protect myself, and another man ran at me and both went to the floor. I got kicked in the seuffle and some person shoved a finger in my eye."

Grand Jury's Finding in the Grocers'

Conspiracy Case.

At noon to-day the grand jury at the Fall Assizes presented a true bill in the case of H. C. Beckett, Geo. E. Bristol, John I. Davidson, Thomas E. Escott, W. G. Craig, J. F. Eby and Thos. Kinnear, officers of the Dominion Grocers' Guild, charged with conspiring with themselves and manufacturers and others to restrain trade and to unduly enhance the price of certain commodities.

The Crown Prosecutor stated that the counsel for the defendants desired the case to be tried by a Judge without a jury, and in view of the importance of the case, said it should be tried at the earliest time possible. Chief Justice Falconbridge said he and the other

"What I tell you, gentlemen of the jury,
I would tell it before their faces and before God," declared Sunfield.

Intimate for Years.

Sunfield declared that he became intimate with Mrs. Radryk a week after he went to the house, and the illicit relationship continued right up to the time of the shooting. A year ago last July she proposed to him that they elope, and he said he would as soon as he sared some money. He did not save any money, and later she said to him that he evidently did not want to go away with her, as he did not save. Witness said he did not want to go with-ker, because she was old, and he was young, but he continued to fool because she was old, and he was young, but he continued to fool because she was old, and he was young, but he continued to fool because to the house and told him to tell all the Poles to come to church to conversion. Sunfield said he told Mrs. Radryk, but she said that she would not go till she and Sunfield were married.

Started for Chicago—Got Drunk.

The prisoner then told of his doings on the week of the shooting. He got drunk on Monday and did not go back to work. On Thursday morning he went to the works and got his pay, telling the foreman that he was going to Chicago. He went to the station that day, but while waiting for the train he got drunk. He explained that Mr. and Mrs. Radzyk asked him to go to the hospital to act as interpreter, and he went, but Mrs. Radzyk would not remain there. They got two bottles of whiskey and went to the residence of young Radzyk, where they got drunk and remained all night. The next morning—Friday, the day of the shooting—Radzyk and Sunfid and the sho where they got drunk and remained all night. The next morning—Friday, the day of the shooting—Radzyk and Sunfield went to a hotel and got two more bottles of whiskey. On the way home they were joined by Mrs. Radzyk, who took a drink in the park. The two drank all morning. About noon Radzyk went in to have a sleep. He and Mrs. Radzyk drank together for some time, and Radzyk called his wife into the bedroom and began "chewing." He then went out, as he did not want to hear them. Some time after he went to the steps and asked Mrs. Radzyk what the matter was. Mrs. Radzyk told him not to mind. They then went out in the yard, and Mrs. Radzyk hold him not to mind. They then went out in the yard, and Mrs. Radzyk hold him not to go to Chicago and asked the weeds in the garden. She begged him not to go to Chicago and assid if he did she would drawn assid for he did she would drawn as if the did she would drawn as the first the day and the same as the did she would drawn as the first the day and the same as the did she would drawn as the first the day and the same as the day and the same as th Very Low Morals.

breast.

"I called, 'Hey, there, missus,'" he said, "but she ran away to the gate. I called after her, again, but she did not stop. I went into the house and saw andy lying on the bed. wose up that night in the station house."

Sunfield said at the time he heard the shot he wondered where she got the revolver, as his was in his valise, where he kept whiskey. She often went to his value to get whiskey, however. Previously Sunfield said that he had taken his valise to the house of his sister-inlaw, Mrs. Bienker, in preparation going to Chicago.

The Cross-Examination

The Cross-Examination.

To the Crown Prosecutor, Sunfield said he kept up illicit relations with Mrs. Radzyk while pretending to be a friend of Radzyk. He also deceived Mrs. Radzyk, entradicting the witnesses who told of him scratching Radzyk or trying to choke him. He said the other boarders were jealous of him, because he was the leader there.

"Did you have a lustful attachment for Mrs. Radzyk?" asked Mr. Blackstock.

"Do you mean, did I love her?" replied Sunfield.
"No, I don't like to use the word

Pressed a little further, Sunfield said he was the innocent who was beguiled by the woman and he blamed Mrs. Radzyh for their illicit relationship.
