On this form and the past performances of the man he is named after, A. J. Small is a good "show" bet always.

Here's a little temperance sermon from the London Advertiser:

Temperance note: Give me wine, red wine, because it makes me run fast, and faster, and faster. Give me Chianti, and give me lots of it, for it's life itself, is wine. I love it because it makes me go long. I love it because it makes me forget that I am tired. I want wine because when I drink it no one can catch me. Ah, Chianti, it means life and victory.

GALT BEAT HESPELER.

Galt, Jan. 7.—The Galt intermediate team demonstrated that they will have to be reckoned with in the O. H. A. when last night they defeated the Hespeler seven in the first game in group 6 by a score of 13 to 2.

The game was fast from start to finish, and the small crowd in attendance saw an excellent game. Hespeler was outclassed at every stage of the game, Johnston in goal played the best game for the losers, while for Galt Morton and Gilliland did particularly good work. Allen Kinder, of Preston, gave good satisfaction as referee. The teams:

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—The Department of Agriculture, in view of advice from the United States Government that the outbreak of foot and mouth disease is being stamped out in the infected states, has amended the previous rigid quarantine regulations to allow the importation into Canada of horses originating outside of any quarantined county in any one of the prohibited States of New York, Maryland, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware. Formerly quarantine was enforced against all parts of these states. It is provided, however, that horses so brought into Canada must not pass through any of the counties still infected, and a certificate from a government inspector to this effect is compulsory. This action of the department allows the free entry of raceborses for the winter ice races, except from about a dozen counties still under the ban in the above-named States.
