The report of Phil. Reeves, death was down on a charge of vagrancy. The poor wretch was unfit to travel, and died the following day in gaol. Coroner McLean held an inquest on the body on Saturday, and the jury brought in a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to his death from cerebral conges-tion, due to alcoholic stimulants and exposure. The jury also condemned the action of the magistrates who sent him to gaol in so weak a condition in such inclement weather, and without any medical assistance. The constable and the gaol authorities were kind in their treatment of the unfortunate man. A very pleasing entertainment wound up the examination of St. Andrew's ward school on Friday afternoon last. A number of regitations, readings, songs, choruses, etc., were given by the pupils in good style. Miss McKenzie, senior teacher, presided at the organ. A large number of ladies were present, notwithstanding the inclement weather. At the close of the examination, addresses were delivered by John Butler and T. McGil-licuddy. The speakers paid deserved compliments to Miss McKenzie and Miss Ralph for their splendid handling of the children during the year. Some exceedingly pretty gifts were given the teachers by their affectionate scholars. A number of the scholars assembled at the station on Saturday to bid a final fare well to Miss McKenzie.
