Nfld. Fishermen's Star of the Sea Association

Resolutions of Condolence Touching Death of Queen Alexandra and Late President of B. I. S.

The regular monthly meeting of the Newfoundland Fishermen's Star of the Sea Association was held yesterday at the Association's Club Rooms. Nine members were admitted to the ranks and considerable business of the Association was transacted. The Committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements for the annual parade which will take place on January 1st, 1926, and as the ranks of the Society have been considerably increased since a year ago, this parade promises to be the largest of its kind ever held in the city.

The following Resolutions were unanimously adopted by the Society: WHEREAS since our last meeting there occurred the death of the Queen Mother Alexandra, the widow of our late King Edward VII, familiarly known as the "Peace-maker," and the mother of his present Most Gracious Majesty, George V.; and

WHEREAS the Queen Mother was a lady of exemplary qualities, whose charity and benevolence were an influence for good throughout the British Empire, especially in the matter of peace, and whose life was a model of the virtues of duty and devotion in family life, as well as the maintenance of those rights and principles which tended to make life peaceful and happy, and that at the same time always having in view the welfare of the people throughout her husband's reign;

BE IT RESOLVED that the Society extend their condolence to the bereaved Royal Family through His Excellency the Governor and that the same be placed on our records; and that the Society, as a mark of respect to the memory of the late Queen Mother, call to his eternal reward our esteemed fellow citizen and Vice Patron of our Sister Society the Benevolent Irish, Hon. J. D. Ryan;

AND WHEREAS the deceased gentleman was throughout his life an ardent patron and generous benefactor to the cause of education and charity and a loyal and devoted member of the Church, to which we all belong, and though not a member of our Society, was a consistent upholder of those principles for which our Society stands;

BE IT RESOLVED in general meeting assembled that a vote of sympathy and condolence of the Star of the Sea Society be tendered to his bereaved widow and daughter in their bereavement, and that the same be recorded on the Books of the Society and the Secretary be instructed to send copy of same to his widow and daughter, as well as to the Benevolent Irish Association.

"North of 36"

Much Spoken Of Super Special At The Majestic To-Day.

The public of St. John's will indeed feel grateful to the Majestic Theatre Management for having imported the stupendous super special "North of 36," which will be shown at that Theatre to-day. Everywhere where this picture was shown, newspapers and press comments were abundant. Those who have seen "North of 36," in Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and New York. Every motion picture corporation worthy of the name, has praised this extraordinary and spectacular masterpiece. The Indian onslaught is something that is different from anything else ever shown on the screen. Adding all these big scenes together, the whole story is one which very entrancing and commands the attention of patrons throughout. The stars in "North of 36" are Lois Wilson, Noah Beery, Jack Holt and Ernest Torrence.

Don't forget the Pony Contest. The admission fee to-night continues the same—30 cents.

See "The Man Without a Conscience"

TONIGHT'S GREAT PROTOPLAY AT THE NICKEL.

After being seen in a variety of pictures wherein he invariably was cast in a villainous role, William Louis appears in "The Man Without a Conscience," a Warner Bros. "Classic of the screen" playing at the Nickel Theatre to-night.

The title role calls for all the verities of the versatile Mr. Louis, and those who have admired the popular character comedian in such pictures as "Beau Brummel," "The Man Without a Conscience," and others, will be eager to watch him essay a different characterization.

Irene Rich and June Marlowe, "the belle of the beautiful eyes," play opposite him. Others in the cast are John Patrick, Helen Dunbar, Robert New and William Orlamond.

The picture in one single picture presents so many screen luminaries in such a variety of roles, that it is a most exceptional in other cities, this picture is exceptional in many respects. The plot centers around an unscrupulous man, bent on betraying and ruining his friends and intimates for his own ends, and around two women, who become part and parcel of his life, for better or worse.

The direction is by James Flood.

Income Tax Case

The hearing of the charge of not making his income tax returns for the year 1918 brought by the Minister of Finance & Customs against Sir Richard Squires concluded yesterday.

Judge Morris this morning. Judgment will be handed down on Wednesday. The hearing of the case began on Friday afternoon, and when adjourned the cross-examination of the Assessor, Mr. Joseph O'Reilly by Counsel for the defence, Mr. Howley, K.C., had not concluded. This morning the witness was again placed on the stand, and in reply to Mr. Howley stated that he did not contain sufficient information to enable him to make an assessment. Questioned on the matter of department routine, witness stated that there were cases where further information on the information given had to be sought, but if the returns were so that they were dealt with, they were entered on the books as a return. The form in question was received on August 18th, 1925, and was not entered on the records as a return. When the document was received, Sir Richard was not asked for further information, nor was he notified that it was not considered as a return. He had been trying to get information from Sir Richard for a number of years and had failed to get any. There was, he said, only one other similar case and that was reported as was Sir Richard's to the head of the department. At the conclusion of the cross-examination, Mr. Howley intimated that he was not calling any witnesses for the defence. He submitted that his client had given in a return containing information, and that the proper course for the department to pursue was that allowed under Section 8 of the Act, and wishing to go further, they were empowered to send Auditors to seek the information. Had Sir Richard not made any return whatever the present proceedings would then be in order. He further submitted that neither the spirit nor letter of the Act had been evaded, as a return had been made although it did not contain sufficient information to make the assessment, and therefore he asked that the case be dismissed.

Mr. L. E. Emerson for the Minister of Finance stated that the charge is that Sir Richard did not make a return of his income for the year 1918. It was six and a half years overdue. Returns had been demanded from the defendant from time to time without result, and not until the matter was placed in the Solicitors hands was a so called return made. The document submitted, he said, is so amended that it was not worth the paper it was written on. The oath had been altered so as to make it read "estimated approximate" of total income. The form in other parts was also amended by the insertion of the above words. Mr. Emerson held that the document was not a return and asked that judgment be entered accordingly. At the conclusion, His Honor intimated that he would deliver judgment on Wednesday forenoon when the other pending cases against Sir Richard would be proceeded with.

This morning an Ordination Service was held at the Anglican Cathedral, when His Lordship the Bishop raised Rev. N. S. Noel to the Priesthood. The city clergy and several from the nearby parishes took part in the service.

Molasses added to the baked beans provides an interesting flavor. Add an egg to the hot biscuit dough. This makes the biscuits light.

Items From Bonavista South

Things are moving along as usual here. On Sunday, Nov. 22nd, we had the first wedding of the season when Mr. John Keough of Plate Cove and Miss Margaret Driscoll were married at Open Hall by Rev. Fr. Fitzgerald.

The bride wore a blue costume and was attended by Miss Katie Walsh, while Mr. Daniel Keough was best man.

Mr. John Dawe, Chairman of the Tickle Cove Road Board, and Mr. Samuel Murphy, merchant of Open Hall, are on a visit to St. John's.

A dance was held at Tickle Cove on Thursday night in the R.C. School, which I understand was a very successful affair.

The Vets M., Capt. Brown, is now at Catalina discharging fish.

Treasure Hunt at Tickle Cove. Probably no place in North America was brought so quickly into the public eye as Tickle Cove, B.B., when on Monday morning some men going into the woods to procure firewood were astonished to hear pick axes and crow bars ringing in a nearby cove, and on going to the bank of the Cove beheld two men engaged in digging for buried treasure. It appears that one of the men came from St. John's in the early summer for the purpose of unearthing the hidden money, but for some reason best known to himself returned home to return again with a companion. When they found that their movements were known they retired to a settlement close at hand, having secreted their tools intending to resume operations at midnight.

Some men from Tickle Cove in the meantime took up the search and unearthed several mound like spots of ground which attracted their attention. Vigorous digging resulted in nothing being found beyond the remains of a large iron pot which in its better days would probably contain ten gallons, the piece of pot being imbedded about six feet under ground. A large hatchet minus a handle, a six inch nail, about four gallons of finely preserved fire coal or charcoal together with some pieces of red painted board contained the treasure that rewarded the diggers after reaching the ground in the particular section had never been broken. As I write this the search has been discontinued, but I think it is the intention of some men to resume operations in a day or two. As to the city men I understand that when they returned in the morning their digging implements were missing, and up to the moment of writing have not been located. Various stories are being circulated to-day of men seen scaling the cliffs at midnight, of a ghostly figure with a red skull cap, and large crows, etc. My opinion is that these "ghosts" are as mythical as the gold itself, which is supposed to lie in Otter Gulch Cove—COR.

Harder Work Recommended

Mr. J. R. Clynes, M.P., speaking at Hull, said the question whether British workmen were doing their best or were as willing to work as were their fathers had to be answered with reserve and qualifications.

On the whole the British workman was as good at his job as any workman throughout the world. There might be some who harboured the thought that the less they did to-day the more they would have for to-morrow, but no workman ever harboured a more mistaken notion. Restrictions of that sort could only lessen the buying power of their wages.

High wages could not be paid on low production, and the best course for British workmen was to accept the doctrine of high efficiency and high production. The workmen's greatest enemy was scarcity, and it was the greatest opportunity for the profiteer.

Epstein Panel

STUDENTS' EXPLOIT.

Mr. Jacob Epstein's monument in Hyde Park to W. H. Hudson, the naturalist and novelist, which has been the cause of considerable controversy, was painted green by a party of seven or eight law students.

After attending the Grand Night Dinner at Gray's Inn, the students obtained three tins of green enamel and went to Chancery Lane Station to discuss the details of their plot.

Shortly before 11 p.m. they took a taxicab to Hyde Park-corner and walked to the monument.

Two or three remained on guard while the others crept up to the monument and daubed the enamel quickly over the figure.

A police whistle was then heard and a policeman's lamp suddenly shone upon the monument.

Acting on a prearranged signal the students ran in different directions, and although more whistles were blown and a policeman gave chase, they all escaped.

EVACUATION BEGUN.

COLOGNE, Nov. 30. British troops began the evacuation of the occupied Cologne zone this morning a day earlier than arranged and therefore before the signature of the Locarno security agreement which takes place to-morrow in London. The occupation of the bridgehead was undertaken by the British seven years ago under the stipulations of the Treaty of Versailles. The Treaty provided for the evacuation after five years, on the condition that Germany fulfilled the stipulations of the Treaty. The period was extended when the Allies found she had not carried out the disarmament provisions of the Treaty. The Berlin Government having satisfied the Allied Council of Ambassadors in this respect, evacuation was ordered for this week.
