FALL CAUSED DEATH.

It appears that the death of the late Thomas E. Copeland, which occurred at Winnipeg, was caused by a fall. About a year ago Mr. Copeland, who was a tinsmith by trade, fell from the roof of a building in Winnipeg, upon which he was engaged, and received injuries from which he never rallied. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon from the residence of his brother-in-law, William Paxman, 523 Hill street, to Woodland Cemetery. Services will be held at 11 o'clock.

MAILS CLOSE EARLIER.

The change in the M. C. R. timetable which has just gone into effect, will require the earlier closing of some of the mails at the postoffice. The afternoon train now leaves at 2:30, instead of 2:45, which necessitates the closing at 1:45 of the mails for all points between St. Thomas and Windsor, St. Thomas and Courtright, as well as St. Thomas itself. The train that formerly left London at 7:15 p.m., will leave ten minutes earlier.

DEATH OF ROBERT DODDS

Former Middlesex Man Who Was Prominent in New Zealand.

Intelligence has just been received of the death at East Gore, on Sept. 30 last, of Mr. Robert Dodds, of Ottawa, New Zealand, at the age of 63 years. The deceased was a son of the late Anthony Dodds, of North Dorchester, one of the pioneers of Middlesex, Ont. He was born near Denholm, in Scotland, and came to Canada with his father and two uncles, who were school teachers, at a very early age. His forefathers were farmers in Roxburghshire, in the south of Scotland. When still a comparatively young man in 1868, he returned to Scotland for the benefit of his health, and from there went to New Zealand, where he took up a large area of new land, greatly prospering as a farmer and sheep raiser. He was married, and the widow, five sons and two daughters survive him. He was a brother of Mr. Andrew Dodds, of North Dorchester (Deerfoot), Mrs. Ellen Joyce, of Verschoyle, Ont.; Rev. James Dodds, of the Presbyterian Church, Kanama, N. Y.; and Mrs. Isabella Hutchison, of Winnipeg.

Seven years ago he paid his relatives and friends in Canada and the United States a visit. His last illness was sudden and of short duration. His ancestors having suffered from the evils of landlordism, and in early years catching the spirit of the crofters from the north of Scotland, Mr. Dodds became a great student of public affairs and the land question, becoming a disciple of Henry George and the single tax system. Only a short time before his death he organized an annual social function to commemorate the birth of Henry George, as a writer for the press, and speaker, he was inimitable, and the Southern Standard, of Glasgow, one of the leading papers of New Zealand, credits Mr. Dodds with being chiefly instrumental in bringing about tax reform, or the taking of "unimproved value" there. Second only to his zeal in spreading the Gospel of Christ, says that paper, "for he was a devoted Presbyterian—were his efforts on behalf of social and tax reform, and the temperance cause, to the promotion of all of which he ungrudgingly devoted time, strength and money."

"The world would be better," continues the Standard, "were there more men of his stamp in it."

As a young man in Canada he is remembered as an intelligent student of public questions and an ardent Liberal. Personally he was a sympathetic and unfailing friend and a man of unimpeachable character.

PATRICK UPTON'S RECOVERY
NOW CONSIDERED PROBABLE

The Old Man Shows a Decided Improvement During the Past Two Days.

Dr. Berdan, of Strathroy, stated this morning that he was now of the opinion that Patrick Upton, the Adelaide township farmer, would recover from the injuries he received a week ago Sunday at the hands of Fanny McGarvey, of Strathroy.

Upton, Berdan has all along been of the belief that Upton would die from the wounds, but having so long survived the injuries and still remaining conscious, he (Dr. Berdan) cannot but think that the old man stands a good chance of recovering. When he visited Upton on Sunday, he was surprised to find that he had improved considerably over the preceding day, and that not only was the patient improved again over Sunday, Upton is conscious, his pulse and temperature are about normal, and he is able to talk, though but very little. His right side is completely paralyzed yet.

One of the wounds on the top of the head, healed nicely, and Dr. Berdan says the other two are gradually getting better. Upton, he says, lost enough blood to cause the death of a man of ordinary constitution in a day or two. However, he is possessed of a remarkable vitality, and this alone will bring him through.

THE FORTY-HOURS' DEVOTION

INAUGURATED AT ST. MARY'S

Large Congregations Attend—Rev. W. G. Howson On "Reversion of Type—Notes."

St. Mary's Church was crowded to the doors Sunday morning at the 10:30 o'clock mass, when the Forty Hours' Devotions were inaugurated. The altar was especially beautiful, being tastefully decorated with the choicest flowers, and the sanctuary was well-filled with acolytes, some of whom were crimson surtans, under white surplices, but the majority of whom were attired in surplices of white over black surtans.

Mass was celebrated by the rector, Rev. Father McKee, with Rev. Fathers Egan and Dunn, of the cathedral, as deacon and subdeacon, respectively.

Rev. Father McKee was also the preacher, and in a few words explained to the congregation what was expected of them in order to obtain the plenary indulgence which the forty hours' devotion affords. He declared himself implicitly and reverently in the real presence; they believed that God himself was really present in the Holy Sacrament, and that the priest, by consecrating the bread and wine, made himself humbly and penitently before him during the devotion, their souls would be healed, even as the wounds of the faithful unit with Christ in the long ago.

At the conclusion of the mass a procession was formed, and the sacrament was carried to the altar, where it was placed on a table, and the altar was decorated with flowers and candles.

The rector, Father McKee, then gave the benediction, and the devotion was continued.
