New York, May 2.—Liquidation continues There seems to be almost a panic among the holders of the Industrial stocks. The banks refuse to consider many of them in collateral loans.
Upon some of them, and not the lowest priced either, it is almost impossible to borrow a penny.
General electric and lead were the most effected in to-day's market. Lead is at the lowest price expected there was an inclination early to get covered and try the long side of wheat. On this sort of sentiment there was an advance of a cent. An unexpected increase in the visible, where a decrease of several millions had been expected, quickly lost the greater part of advance. The cables showed no great strength, but were a shade higher. Foreign news was rather bearish. The drought in Hungary and England was reported broken. An estimate of India crop put it at 240 million bushels. The weather in the winter wheat belt was bad. Some weather in the winter wheat belt was bad. Some St. Louis was inclined to the bull side. There was an increase of the stocks here of 438,000 bushels. Local receipts were 305 cars; the estimate for to-morrow, 450 cars. More favorable weather, both for spring and winter wheat, is predicted for to-morrow. Light deliveries of corn here, a better cash demand and a higher eipts were 127 cars; Wesdnesday's estimate ony 230. There was a decrease of over 900,000 oushels. The cables were without much change. Oats were strong, although affected at times by the break in wheat. The cables said the Hungarian oats crop had been ruined by grought. The Iowa weekly bulletin reported that all grains were rotting in the ground. Cold weather in the South-west helped the price. Provisions opened higher. Acceipts of hogs were small and there was some good buying and considerand there was some good buying and considerable bulling of ribs and lard by the leader in pork. Later the market quieted down and ruled dull, to the close, which was steady at medium figures. The packers continue reporting a good cash demand for meats. The posting of stocks in the morning will have some effect on the market, as each sall, if they should be able to the market, as each sall, if they should be able to the market.

General electric and lead were the most effected in to-day's market. Lead is at the lowest price it ever sold, and so is General Electric There are more or less vague hints that both companies are getting ready to follow the corday's example, and deluge the street with new scentries. The trusts are having trouble in borrowing money, just as commercial and industrial interests of other kinds have. They are not helped by the fact that they have immense capitals, mostly watered. Out-of-town holders of stocks have been pouring in selling orders. It looks as if the pinch were extending far beyond the professional trading community in the street. Strong boxes are being opened apparently all over the country. Merchants who can't borrow money on their paper are being obliged to peddle out investments. This accounts for much of the deeged downward course of prices. It is not impossible that the Government authorities will soon begin to carry out their promises about prosecuting trust combinations, and it is almost an open secret that certain provisions for reducing the sample at fair rates. Mr. Henry Graham, Wingham, writes us: - "For fifteen years I have suffered with Indiges tion, and during that time I could get nothing to give me reilef, although I tried a great many different kinds of medicine recommended for that complaint. I now feel like a new man, and this wonderfut change has been accomplished by the use of four bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. To me it has been a valuable medicine."

Don't wait for somebody else to show you how to do right. To give pills and purgatives for slug-gishness of the liver is like giving a weak itching, but this quickly subsides on the Little Sermons.

Nothing can make a man truly great but being truly good, and partaking of God's holiness .- [Matthew Henry. The use of literature is to afford us a elatform whence we may command a view of our present life, a nurchese by which we may move it. We fill ourselves with ancient learning, tostall ourselves the best we ein in Greek, ia Punic, in Roman houses, only that we may wiselier see French, English and American houses and modes of living.—[Emerson.

The laws on which depend the progress and decline of poetry, painting and sculp-ture operate with little less certainty than those which regulate the periodical returns of heat and cold, of fertility and barrenness. Those who seem to lead the public tes e are, in general, merely outrunning it in the direction which it is spontaneously oursuing .- [Lord Macaulay.

Imagination I understand to be the representation of an individual thought. Imagination is of three kinds: joined with belief of that which is to come; joined with memory of that which is past; and of things present, or as if they were present; for I comprehend in this imagination feigned and at pleasure—as if one shoud imagine such a man to be in the vest nents of a pope, or to have wings,-[Lord Bacon.

Let a man learn to look for the permanent in the mutable and fleeting; let him earn to bear the disappearance of things he was wont to reverence withou' losing his reverence; let him learn hat he is here, not to work, but to be worked upon; and that, though abyss open onder abyss, and opinion displace opinion, all are at last contained in the Eternal

If my bark sink, 'tis to another sea. We cannot look, however imperfectly, upon a great man without gaining some thing by him. He is the living light fountain which it is good and pleasant to be near; the light which exligh eas, which has eolightened, the darkness of the world; and this not as a kindled lamp only, but rather as a natural luminary, shining by the gift of Heaven; a flowing light-fountain, as I say, of native original insight, of manhood and heroic nobleness, in whose radiance al souls feel that it is well with them .- [Car-
