MONTREAL, June 28.—Now that it appears that Greene and Gaylor will be compelled to return to the United States and stand trial, they will attempt to bribe the jail keepers in the Montreal jail where they are confined and attempt to make their escape. The only explanation of the orders received by Jailer Vallee from the attorney general this morning, in which he is cautioned to see that his prisoners do not escape, is that even if they do escape, he is not to be troubled by the extra assistance required. It is not thought that there is any danger of Greene and Gaylor making their escape, but he is not to ignore any precautions and notices have been posted throughout the jail ordering guards to report any suspicious signs that they might see.

Here the Freshmen crew will be in readiness and it will be their turn to start. The two-mile race to the drawbridge. Then at 4:30, from the drawbridge, the Varsity eight will be sent away for their four-mile pull to the finish line at the drawbridge. ODESSA, June 28.—The red flag of revolution is hoisted on the mastsheads of the Kniaz Potemkine, Russia's most powerful battleship in the Black Sea, which now lies in the harbor in the hands of mutineers. The captain and most of the officers were murdered and thrown overboard. The ship is completely in the possession of the crew and a few officers who have thrown in their lot with the mutineers.

The guns of the Kniaz Potemkine command the city and the streets. Masses of striking workmen who yesterday fled before the volleys of the troops are now inflamed by the spectacle of open revolution on board an imperial warship, and are making a bold front against the military.

All day long firing has been heard in many quarters of the city. A number of barricades have been erected, and tumult and disorder reign.

The main squadron of the Black Sea fleet, consisting of the battleships George I, Pobiedonosetz, Tri Sviatitelia, Rostislav and Ekaterina II, with two cruisers, are expected to arrive here tonight, and a naval battle is in prospect. The rioters are in a defiant mood.

The mutiny arose from the shooting of a sailor who was presenting, in behalf of the crew, a complaint against bad food. According to one version this sailor, whose name was Omil Tchuk, objected to the quality of the soup, and was immediately cut down by the mess officers. The crew then rose and seized the ship and officers, eight of whom were spared on condition that they would join the mutineers. The others were killed.

The Kniaz Potemkine arrived here last night, accompanied by two torpedo boats. Early this morning the body of Omil Tchuk was brought ashore to the coast by thousands of persons, many of whom placed coins in a basket at the head of the body toward a fund to defray the cost of the funeral, which the sailors propose to hold tomorrow, and which the strikers will make the occasion of a great demonstration.

The authorities have made no attempt to remove the body, the sailors having served notice that the ship would fire on anyone seeking to interfere with it. A police agent visiting the spot was killed by strikers.

ST. PETERSBURG AUTHORITIES ARE AGHAST AT THE NEWS FROM ODESSA

The news of the mutiny coming from Odessa is a state of ferment, which is being spread by the telegraphs and the newspapers. The authorities are aghast at the news from Odessa. The news which reached St. Petersburg last evening that the standard of open rebellion was hoisted on board the Kniaz Potemkine in the harbor of Odessa and that with gross mutinous crew headed by the name of Omil Tchuk, the ship against all odds.

The authorities are panic-stricken and at the admiralty's suggestion Admiral Wierinsk, chief of the naval general staff, frankly confessed that the situation was grave.

The Black Sea squadron which left Sebastopol Tuesday under command of Vice-Admiral Kruger was due to arrive at Odessa last night and in that condition the mutineers may occur at any moment.

The Kniaz Potemkine is a more powerful ship than any in Kruger's squadron, and the gravity of the situation is increased by the fact that they are practically in the possession of the strikers. Should the sailors of Kruger's ships join the mutineers, the government would have to face open revolution which would spread like wildfire to other towns in the Black Sea.
