

- free labourers, ib. Planters, i. 41. Xivaros, ib. Great recent importation of slaves, 43. Production of sugar, 44. Statistics, 95.
- Portuguese*, greatness of their exploits, i. 44. Their colonies, Leet. II. Defects in their administration of India, 45. Transportation of criminals first adopted by them, ii. 3.
- Prichard (Dr.)*, on the mixed races of mankind, ii. 219.
- Prince Edward's Island*, i. 107.; ii. 96. 274. Statistics, i. 127. Disposal of land there, and its effects, ii. 98.
- Profits*, cannot be permanently lowered, relatively to wages, except by some cause which raises the latter, i. 169. Positive rate of, in what way lowered by competition, 173. Extension of foreign trade would raise rate of, when, 192. Fit subject of taxation in colonies, when, i. 233.; ii. 239. Causes which govern the rate of, in colonies, ii. 233—237.
- Proprietary governments*, in the English West Indies, i. 69. In North America, 89.
- Protectors of Indians*, in South America, ii. 157. In British colonies, ib.
- Public works in colonies*, modes of providing for their expense, ii. 138—144.
- Quit-rents*, on land, in colonies, difficulty of raising, i. 135.
- Raynal*, i. 58. His picture of the character of the higher classes at Bahia, i. 49.
- "Reciprocity System," its effect on the employment of British shipping considered, i. 210—215.
- Red River*, British settlement there, ii. 210.
- "Reductions," or missions of religious bodies in Spanish America, i. 26. 277—291. (See Missions.)
- Removals of Indians from their settlements in North America*, evils occasioned by, ii. 177.
- Rent*. (See Taxation, Land.)
- Repartinientos*, i. 5. 270.
- Representation of the colonies in Parliament*, schemes for, ii. 290.
- "Reserves," Crown and Clergy, effects of, in Canada, ii. 96. 98. 251. For natives, ii. 181.
- Revenue*, colonial. (See Taxation.)
- Rhode Island*, its constitution, ii. 288.
- Ricardo*, his opinion that the increase of capital is sufficient in itself to increase the field of employment and the demand for labour, i. 169. That the extension of foreign trade cannot raise the rate of profits, 191. Of the rate of profits in new countries, ii. 236.
- Russell (Lord John)*, ii. 168. Purposes suggested by him for the appropriation of the land-fund in colonies, ii. 69. His opinion respecting uniform prices for waste land, and sales by auction, 73. Respecting select emigration, 299.
- Sadler (Mr.)*, i. 143.
- St. Vincent*, production of sugar there, i. 44.