Desperate Doings in the Illinois Mining District.

Conflict Between Strikers and Sheriff's Deputies.

The Governor of the State Favors the Strikers.

A Number of Persons Killed and Wounded-Militia Sent to the Scene of Trouble.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 13.-Telegrams to State President Hunter, of the Mine Workers of Illinois, say a battle has been fought between striking miners at Virden and negroes imported from Alabama. The men guarding the train bearing negroes fired repeated volleys into a crowd of miners at the platform of the depot as the train rolled into soon as it came into our town." the station, killing a number of men.

A DESPERATE BATTLE. shots were exchanged between the strikers on one side and Sheriff at he was shot in the stomach. Davenport and his deputies and railroad police on the other side. It is thought that at least twenty men on both sides were killed and wounded. The best information is that ten were killed, five fatally wounded and five seriously wounded. A Chicago and Alton special policemen is among the killed. His name is D. H. Killey. When the train bearing the negroes arrived it was met by fully 1,500 armed miners, who were lined up on each side of the track. The train was stopped immediately in front of the east gates of the stockade, and the trouble began. Dozens of shots were fired from the stockades at the white men, while the strikers were half a mile away.

TROOPS CALLED OUT. The governor ordered Capt. Craig, in command of Battery B, and the Sons of Veterans' companies at Pana to proceed at once to Virden,

THE VICTIMS. A special from Virden, Ill., says nine men on the train were killed and thirteen wounded. Ten miners were killed and sixteen wounded. The train pulled out for the north, and the cars were shot full of holes. A REPORTER KILLED. A reporter for a Chicago paper was killed at the Chicago and Alton depot by a stray bullet.

J. F. Eyster, manager of the company, was shot and trampled on by the miners. He cannot live. It is imposible to find out how many were killed in the stockade. DETAILS. Virden, Oct. 13.—A Chicago and Alton special train, bearing 200 negro miners from the south, arrived at 12:40

p.m. at the stockade around the Chicago-Virden Coal Company's mines, and immediately terrific fighting began. The list at 10 o'clock stood seven dead and eighteen wounded. The dead are: Ed. Welsh, Springfield; Frank Bilyieu, Springfield; Albert Smith, Mount Olive; Joe Kitterly, Mount Olive; Ernest Keutner, Mount Olive; A. H. Brenman, Girard; D. H. Killey, a Chicago and Alton detective. It is said that six men were wounded inside the stockade, but this has not been verified.

WAITING FOR THE NEW-COMERS For the past two weeks rumors have reacheed Virden daily that a train, having negroes from Alabama, would reach the city, and the Chicago and Alton depot has been surrounded day and night by vigilant miners, determinedly awaiting their arrival. At 12:40 the special train passed the sta-south end of the train, announcing the special's arrival. THE BATTLE BEGUN.

tion. Signal shots were fired from the Immediately shots were fired from the moving train and outside, and the battle begun. A few moments after the train had passed the switch where Killey was stationed, and while he was talking with two citizens, he threw up his hands and dropped dead, with a bullet through his brain. He was the first man killed. The train continued to the stockade, the miners firing into it all along the route, and the negro passengers returning the fire.

A CONTINUOUS VOLLEY. The moment the train reached the stockade the miners opened a desperate fire with Winchesters, revolvers, and firearms of all kinds. The negroes on the train answered with a strady fire. The miners of the train were enveloped in a cloud of smoke, and the, shooting sounded like a continuous volley. The engineer was shot in the arm, and dropped from his seat. His fireman seized the throttle, pulled it open with a jerk, and the train was under speed, carrying a load of wounded passengers to Springfield. The train stopped at the stockade but two minutes. Its departure did not cause the firing to cease. The tower of the stockade was filled with sharp-shooters, and they kept a steady fire into the union miner's ranks. Eye-witnesses say the dead miners' were killed after the train had departed.

INSIDE THE STOCKADE. An Associated Press representative secured admittance to the stockade. He found one man, A. W. Morgan, of Chicago-dead, and seven seriously wounded. There were about 35 men stationed inside the stockade, each keeping watch through a loop-hole. Manager Lukens remained at his desk in the office inside the stockade all night, issuing orders to his men.

BLAMES THE GOVERNOR. Manager Lukens said: "The blood of every man shed here is on the governor's head. He is absolutely outside of the law, and has no justification whatever in refusing to send troops to Speaks in Regard to the Fashoda protect the men brought here by us His statement that the miner had the same right to fight for his property, which was his labor, as the mine owner did to protect his property, inspired these men to the action which they took today in firing upon the train as John M. Hunter, president of the Illinois district of the United Mine Workers, lies at the Collins House in a critical condition. Mr. Hunter got on the train which bore the colored miners to this city, and engaged in conversation with two of the negro miners. Some of the deputy sheriffs saw Hunter, and, attacking him, pushed him off the train while it was moving rapidly. A man who happened along later saw Hunter lying near the track in an unconscious condition, placed him, in his buggy and took him to the Collins House.

CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE. Chicago. Oct. 13 .- The difficulty at the Virden mines originated April 1, 1898, when the miners of the fourth district of Illinois went out on a strike instituted by the United Mine Workers. Trouble followed at Rana, but the Virden mines remained quiet through the summer. The strikers had asked for 40 cents a ton and were offered 28 cents. Actual disturbances at Virden began Sept. 25, when the Chicago-Virden Company, the principal mine owners at that point, imported a hundred negroes from Birmingham, Alabama. When the train arrived with the men on board, it was met by a large body of armed union miners, who threatened to shoot the first negro that stepped from the cars. The negroes were finally prevailed upon to return to the south and the mines were not operated. President T. C. Louck, of the Chicago-Virden Company, then proceeded to make preparations to get other miners. THE GOVERNOR WARNED.

Oct. 9, Sheriff Davenport notified Governor Tanner that there would certainly be trouble, and that state troops were needed to preserve the peace. The governor asked if it was the purpose of the coal company, in the event of troops being sent, to import miners from other seats to take the place of the strikers. Supt. Luckens, who was with sheriff at the time the request was made by telephone for the militia, said that the company proposed to operate its mines in its own way, and that they expected to import tabor both white and colored from the Southern States.

The governor told him that the best class of miners got employment at home, and only the criminal class would come-men who would soon quit work and get into the poorhouses, jails and penitentiaries, and become a burden on the taxpayers of the state; that he was opposed to the system; that while there was no law to keep them out of Illinois, he did not propose to use the arms of the state to give protection to the mine owners in operating their mines with this class

THE MANAGER'S STATEMENT. Lucken, according to Governor Tanner, replied that the mines would be at all hazards, that the company the bayonet and the muzzle of the language employed by M. Hano-Winchester. No troops were sent.

governor that his mines would be operated and demanded the protection of the state. The matter had been brought before the State Board of Arbitration and that board decided

IN FAVOR OF THE MINERS. but also decided that an injustice had been done the Chicago Virden Company. From this point the trouble has been a dispute between Governor Tanner and the mine operators, carried on by telegraph and other communications. The governor steadily REFUSED TO CALL OUT THE class of workmen. The operators declared that the men they desired to bring to their mines had been chosen for their ability and their capacity to become good citizens. They also say they are willing to take back the strikers at the scale of 28 cents a ton, but that they could not open their mines at the exorbitant demand of 40 cents. The mines, it is asserted, are operated in accordance with the state law. Sheriff Davenport has been in sympathy with the governor, and offered

STATE TROOPS and charged the operators with importing ex-convicts and an undesirable

MINERS REINFORCED. One hundred Springfield miners reinforced the Virden strikers on Oct. 10, armed and determined to prevent the negroes from going to work. Armed men have since been practically in possession of the town. A rumor was circulated the day before yesterday that a small body of negroes had been landed from a train just outside of Virden, and under cover of darkness conveyed to the stockade. They were suposed to be making the shaft ready for the miners who were to come. This made the strikers more than ever vigi-

Manager Luckens, of the Chicago-Virden Company, swore out a writ of injunction against 34 of the leading strikers. These men had run out of town four ex-policemen who had been hired by the operators. The strikers had not displayed violence against others until thy began to suspect that more negroes were to be brought in.

EX-PREMIER

Affair.

Acknowledges Responsibility for the Present Policy, And Backs Up Every Word and Declaration.

Syllable of His Former

London, Oct. 13 .- Lord Rosebery, the Liberal leader and former premier, presiding at an agricultural dinner at Epsom, referred to the critical situation on the Upper Nile. He said:

As I was responsible, personally and ministerially, for the declaration of Sir Edward Gray on which the present policy in regard to Fashoda is founded, and as I have no disposition to recede from a word or a of that declaration-(loud cheers)—I feel bound to say a few guarded, and, I hope, inoffensive words on a subject so vital to our interests. There are two or three considerations in connection with the question which make it of supreme gravity, the greatest being that in face of a deliberate warning that a particular act would be considered an unfriendly act; that act, in spite of great geographical difficulties: great hardships and almost insurmountable obstacles, has been deliberately committed.

"UNFRIENDLY." The word "unfriendly," used diplomatically, is of exceptional weight and gravity, and when used to denote an act committed by one government against another, the situation is grave. On that point I will say no more. Behind the policy of the government in this matter there is the untiring and united strength of the nation. It is the policy of the nation itself, and no government that attempted to recede from it or falter therewith would last a week. I am perfectly certain that no idea has entered the heads of her majesty's present advisers. THE NATION SUPPORTS THE GOV-ERNMENT. They have only to maintain the attitude revealed in the blue book, and the nation will maintain any sacrifice and go to any length to sustain their action. On the other side of the channel the question of the flag is an element of great gravity. We all honor that flag, and would not wish it the slightest disrespect, but, after all, a flag is portable, and I have some hope that the flag in this case is not the flag of France, but of an individual explorer, and not, therefore, carrying the full weight of the republic behind it. Among the

received the representations of Great Britain in a conciliatory spirit. By denying the existence of a Marchand expedition he has deprived Major Marchand of the official character, which would give the hoisting of the flag a much more serious aspect, and, in spite of the contrary statement of Capt. Loitard and Major Marchand, I hope to find that the mission of Major Marchand, conducted far from French territory and across territory to which France has no claim, though other nations have, will prove to be of a local and not an authoritative character. But I found still greater hopes upon the fact that in urging the SUPREMACY OF EGYPT in the territories temporarily abandoned, we are using not so much our would employ such labor as they saw own arguments as the arguments of fit. that they would import this labor and operate the mines with it, even if they had to do it at the point of they had to do it at the point of the same of the sa of Egypt to these territories in a manner so authoritative that it will not be in the power of any government to repudiate them." After mentioning the untenability of Marchand's isolated position, Lord Roseberry said: "These considerations lead me to hope that the incident will be PRACTICALLY SETTLED. in a conciliatory manner; but France must understand that their can be no compromise of the rights of Egypt."

Referring, in concluding his speech, to the "general disposition in recent years to treat Great Britain as negligible quantity and to infringe upon her rights in various parts of the world," his Lordship said: "The present government has shown no want of conciliation-some think too muchand a conciliatory disposition that is widely misunderstood."

BRITAIN'S ANCHENT SPIRIT LIVES If the nations of the world are under the impression that the ancient spirit of Great Britain is dead, that her resources are weakened, and that her population is less determined than ever to maintain her rights and the honor of her flag, they make a mistake that can only end in disastrous conflagration. The strength of British ministers does not lie in the votes they command in parliament, but in the intrepid spirit of a united people. Let other nations remember that cordiality between nations can only rest upon mutual respect for one another's rights. Both Africa and Asia have recently furnished strange object lessons in international law and international practice. If that mutual respect be not cultivated, we shall ultimately relapse into a state of things most perilous to peace and the welfare of humanity.

The speech was punctuated with loud cheers.

ROSEBERY COMPLIMENTED. The London newspapers are unanimous in applauding the propriety portuneness and importance of Lord Rosebery's speech at Epsom. The Times says it would be difficult to overvalue Lord Rosebery's singularly impressive and timely observations. He reappears from virtual retirement in fense of the policy of continuity in foreign affairs. It may be hoped that his pregnant comments will open the eyes of the French to the perils in the path they are inclined to pursue and so tend to a pacific settlement.

THE FRENCH WILL QUIT The Paris correspondent of the London Daily Chronicle says: that Major Marchand's return from Fashoda by way of Cairo has already been arranged on both sides." The Russian newspapers urge that the question the possession of Fashoda on the Nile, in dispute between Great Britain and France, may be settled by arbitration. A DINNER PILL. - Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment, it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct
