Iswolcky, Russian foreign minister; Naoum Pasha, the Turkish ambassador to France; the Austro-Hungarian, the British, the American and the Italian ambassadors, and of active exchanges which have been going on between the various cabinets, it was announced to night that France, Great Britain, Russia, and possibly Italy, were pre-pared to act in unison to preserve peace and to call a conference of signatories to the Berlin treaty to deal diplomatically with the situation that has arisen between Turkey and Bulgaria, and to harmonize conflicting interests so that fresh complications may be avoided.

Already certain tentative propositions as a basis for a conference have been forwarded to Constantinople, and if the Porte's assent can be secured it is argued as certain that peace will be the premaintained. The nature of these propositions has not been disclosed, but it is understood that they involve the recognition of Bulgaria's independence as

THE WEATHER

Yesterday mixed up the weather to a certain extent. In the morning for instance it was as blue as hopelessness; the sky was a sodden mass of dismal blues and looked as if it held enough snow to give us sleighing any time anybody expressed the desire for it. But there wasn't even the whisper of a desire for any such commodity.

There was scarcely a breath of a breeze all the morning; things—if you judged by the weahter—were at a standstill, while the very air seemed to hold something distinctly undesirable.

Men and women alike crowded the morning cars and went to work with the appearance you could imagine in the small boy who didn't want to go to school—nohow. It was a morning for pessimists—a great morning for the grumbler, for there wasn't a pleasant feature about it. And it was cold enough for overcoats and gloves. But every cloud has a silver lining, and the pleasantness after wards often causes our forgetful-ness of trouble. The afternoon was allright everyway you cared to look at it.

Didn't matter much whether you it.

There wasn't anything to growl about—not even a cold wind. So you see, on the whole it wasn't so bad. And to-day is likely to be a pretty decent kind of a day, so bank up your houses, coal up, get the geraniums under cover, dig up the potatoes—take advantage of this kind of weather to prepare for the chill blasts of winter.

ARREST FATHER AND SON FOR MAKING BOGUS BILLS

Thomas and Milton Crozier in the Toils-Oakville Police Make Important Capture.

The Toronto police expect to identify Thomas M. Crozier, 9 West Gerrard-street, arrested Friday for passing a counterfeit $10 bill at Oakville, as the man who worked the same game on two of the attractions at the midway at the exhibition last month.

It has developed that Crozier is known to have passed a phoney bill as early as April, 1896, when Detective Mackie was detailed to question him with regard to a bad Quebec Bank $10 note, which he had passed. His explanation given to the detective at that time is the same as that which he gave at Oakville. He told Detective Mackie that he was very sorry that he could not tell how he had got the bill, but thought it must have been at Guelph. Detective Mackie reported back to the office at that time that he believed the man to be an innocent victim. At that time there were many of those bogus Quebec tens in circulation, the workmanship upon them be-tion, the workmanship upon them being very similar to that which Crozler passed in Oakville Friday.

Crozler is a very noticeable figure and this with his carelessness led to his being found out at Oakville. He went to the boxoffice of a concert hall, purchased a 25 cent ticket. Then his actions became noticeable. He did not actions became noticeable. He did not go into the concert. Chief McClarry was then notified and after following Crozier some distance took him into custody.

Milton Crozier, his son, was arrested on Saturday at Milton, near where the family lived some years ago. Inspector Parkinson of the Dominion police arrived in Oakville Sunday morning. He went to Milton and thence to a shack used by the Crozier family as a camp in summer. This he searched, but found nothing incrimin-

Constable Cronkrite of Oakville came to Toronto Sunday, and early Mon-day morning with Inspector of De-tectives Duncan, Detectives Sockett and McKinney, and Plain Clothes Constable Montgomery secured entry at the Gerrard-street house. This was after a wait of over two hours, as no one was at home at the first call.

Finally Mrs. Crozier came and with her they entered. In the room which was the son's they found some 80 tubes of colored oil paints. Also an old hand printing press, together with a quantity of photographic material.

Mrs. Crozier denied any knowledge of these effects. She said they were her son's and that he was an artist and photographer of sorts, and that the other members of the family rarely entered his room.

An Ottawa special says: Hon. R. Oct. 8; Campbell's Cross, Oct. 8; Erindale, Oct. 9; Dixle, Oct. 9, and Credit Forks, Oct. 10. Mr. Blain is meeting with very great success at every point in the county. His meetings are very largely attended, and great interest is manifested in the discussion of public questions of interest. Sir James Whitney will address a political meeting in Sherbrooke, Que, on the 10th inst., the day following his meeting in Montreal, in the interest of H. B. Ames, candidate in St. Antoine, man at the exhibition wore a wide soft felt hat. Such a hat was found in the Gerrard-street house. The bills passed at the exhibition were both $10 bills of the Farmers' Bank. They are exactly similar to that passed at Oak-The police say that Crozier also resembles a man who passed a $5 Bank of Toronto bill on a Toronto firm in August, 1906. These bills also resemble those, a number of which were passed

In Dunn-avenue Methodist Church Sunday, Rev. W. H. From the life of the young King Hezekiah, the preacher drew many tion. The great need of the young king was not so much a vast army as the building up of a nation strong in individual righteousness and high moral aims, following which great material and national prosperity to the Jewish nation came in its wake. Democratic government was based on morality. The last session at Ottawa was the longest and bitterest in the history of the Canadian parliament, and the point at issue largely the morality of the contending lawmakers. The church, home and school in Canada must admit that the moral progress of the na-tion has not kept pace with the ma-terial. We want leaders who are strong enough to say no to the political pirates.
