ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

NANCY, NICK & COMPANY.

"Here's where we are to go into business," said Mister Snip Snap. "Really one wondered that he didn't catch on himself sometimes when he went to put on his clothes. And perhaps he did."

"Talking! Talking! Nothing but talking!" he ranted on. "Talking when there's so much work to do. That's what you were doing when I came to hunt you up. Talking and talking and talking!"

"But really," laughed Nancy, "we were only—"

"There you go again," said Mister Snip Snap. "More talking!"

"Why, sir, you're the one—" began Nick, but that's all he had a chance to say.

"Young man, this is no time for words," said Mister Snip Snap. "Don't you know that it's time for the Meadow-Grove School to begin and that the children are running about in a dreadful state? I saw Mister Scribble Scratch, the fairy school-master, dusting off the chairs as I passed, and putting a new rope on the bell. We shall have to begin work at once, if not sooner. Follow me."

The Twins wanted to laugh, but they were polite little people. So with a funny little look at each other they followed the busy little fellow along a path through the woods to a little empty store house with a sign which said, "For Rent."

"Here's where we are to go into business," said Mister Snip Snap. "Really one wondered that he didn't catch on himself sometimes when he went to put on his clothes. And perhaps he did."

"Thank you, Nancy," said Mister Snip Snap gratefully. "I'm really not as sharp as I look. If you worked with pins and needles and scissors all the time, I guess you'd be sharp, too." (To be continued.)

BOOTH PROVIDES HOSPITALITY

HUGHEY BOWERSOX WAS Madder than a wet hen, when he discovered he had PLASTERED HIS LUNCH BOX INTO THE CHIMNEY, MISTAKING IT FOR A DISCOLORED BRICK.

Wicker chairs, contains a desk, a table and telephone, some flowers, picture postcards of St. John, some chocolates and small biscuits, and a convenient box of cigars. The name Baird & Peters is on the inner wall. Nothing is advertised, and no business is done except the business of hospitality. A member of the firm or office staff is there to greet the visitors. These are the firm's customers from all over the Maritime Provinces, who received cards of invitation before the exhibition was opened. If a customer could not come, he could endorse the card to one of his own customers, and ensure a cordial greeting for him. Several hundred customers have called and others sent letters of appreciation. Here the guest may sit at ease and smoke, send postcards home, telephone if necessary, and his women-folk also rest and be refreshed. Other city firms have been greatly struck with the booth, and one remarked last evening that if a number of them were scattered through the buildings, even in small spaces, it would add greatly to the reputation of the city for hospitality.

N. B. MERCHANTS TO MEET IN MONCTON

Miss Frances Alward, provincial secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association, has returned from Moncton, where arrangements are being made for the provincial convention to be held there on September 24 and 25. Norman S. Jones, manager for Canada of the Retail Merchants' Underwriters Agency, has sent word to Miss Alward that he will be present to give what assistance he can to the success of the convention. R. A. Macaulay is to give a talk on the Buy-at-Home and the Maritime Made campaign. A banquet is being arranged for the evening of September 24, at which prominent speakers will be present. The committee in charge of this part of the meeting is made up of A. E. McSweeney and W. L. Creighton, Moncton. These are assisted by the provincial secretary, W. G. DeWolfe, Mayor of St. Stephen, who is also taking a deep interest in the convention, Miss Alward said.

Cunard CANADIAN SERVICE

to Europe

Via the glorious St. Lawrence Route.

THE Cunard-Canadian Route to Europe is absolutely unique in one respect—Montreal is the only "ocean port" in the world situated 900 miles from the sea, while Quebec is about 750 miles inland.

Both ports are used by the Cunard Line steamers. The magnificent oil-burning 20,000-ton ships, "CARMANIA" and "CARONIA" sail from Quebec to Queenstown and Liverpool—the popular "A" ships, "ANDANIA" and "ANTONIA" and "AUSONIA" from Montreal to Plymouth, Cherbourg and London.

Cunard appointments, cuisine and service make your trip to Europe one of uninterrupted enjoyment, that will ever hold a treasured place in your memory of life's pleasures. And you are assured this, whether you travel Cabin or Third Class. For rates and sailing dates, see the Cunard Agent in your town, or write to
