BODY OF CAPTAIN WILL BE EXHUMED

Magistrate Appointed to Investigate French Officer's Death.

Paris, April 18.—There have been fresh developments in connection with the death of Captain Robinot-Marcy, an examining magistrate having been appointed to unravel the mystery. His first step was to order the captain's body exhumed. No doubt the magistrate desires to satisfy himself as to the type of bullet which caused death—whether the cartridge in the army revolver was one fired by the captain, or whether it might not have been placed there by a third person.

It now appears that no quarrel or even discussion took place between the captain and Mme. D. According to the statement of the latter's husband, what occurred was as follows:—

"The captain was to have attended a masked ball with M. and Mme. D. on the evening of the tragedy. The captain had chosen the costume of a brigand from an Offenbach operetta. Returning home from the Ecole de Guerre in good spirits, he met Mme. M. at her flat and bowed her the costume. Pointing to a large pistol lying on the table, he said: 'Do you think I will look sufficiently 'brave'?' Mme. D. laughingly replied: 'You might choose a still bigger pistol.' The captain then showed her his army revolver. Madame D., frightened, begged him to put it away, but the captain laughed and said: 'There is no danger; I hold the pistol in my temple and arrested the trigger. A forgotten cartridge in the magazine went off, killing me unfortunate officer.'"

"That is the husband's version, but the magistrate does not appear satisfied that it is the true one, and the investigations are being continued."

Intimate and fellow officer of the in at the Ecole de Guerre scoffs at theory that the cartridge could have been forgotten, pointing out that the war over, and that even when an officer on guard duty he did not carry a gun.

Cocoon Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain Mulisified cocoon oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair. Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulisified in a cup or glass with a little warm water, then moisten your hair with water and rub it in. It will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and its leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage. You can get Mulisified cocoon oil shampoo at all drug stores. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Be sure you get Mulisified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.
