this peculiar arrangement:

whom will no doubt be glad to learn DEAR EDITORS:-

KILLED BY A BULL .- In the beginning of last week a bull belonging to John Ryan, a farmer of Baileyville, THE PEOPLE'S PARLIAMENT. It may not be generally known that Maine, strayed away, and turned up It may not be generally known that Maine, strayed away, and turned up on the farm of Isaac Porter, Little and sleeping and sitting rooms, exactly one third of the brick building erected for the Railway offices at an expense of $15,000. These rooms are used by Mr. Brydges two or three times a year and for a day or two at a time, but Reform Economy is such that they must be kept exclusively for his occupation and an addition made.

Maine, strayed away, and turned up on the farm of Isaac Porter, Little on the farm of Isaac Porter, his occupation and an addition made to swim across, when after crossing to the building to supply accommoda- and reaching the railway track the tion that would not be needed if these rooms could be spared for the public business. This addition is now being erected at the rear of the building and some people have been curious and impudent enough to inquire whence situations. These enquiries led us to seek out the facts and as they are rather interest-how to build houses without money.

It appears that it is the custom of the Stores Department of the Railway in delivering supplies to any branch in delivering supplies to any branch of the service, to charge out the goods at a higher price than was paid for them. The object of this originally was to make up for possible depreciation was to make up for possible depreciation. was to make up for possible depreciation, shrinkage, &c., and with a view to keep the accounts square. But of distance 270 feet from bank to bank, that is to keep the accounts square. But of course at the end of the year it would be found that the Stores Department had made a considerable profit on the goods received and delivered, and in abutment on the north side, putting out from the rock 30 feet, and on the south side accounted for. This was done in Mr. Carvell's time (the dark days of Conservative rascality) by crediting back to each service a part of the whole profit proportionate to the snpplies given to that service. By this plan, of course, the actual expenditure on each branch of the service was shown. But this mode of doing the business did not suit Reform purity, and so Mr. Brydges put a stop purity and so Mr. Brydges put a stop purity and so Mr. Brydges put a stop purity and so Mr. Brydges put a stop purity, and so Mr. Brydges put a stop purity and so Mr. Brydg purity, and so Mr. Brydges put a stop to it and undertook to dispose of the surplus of profits in his own peculiar the structure now rests on the rock and my
