A RASPBERRY ICE CREAM.

The most delicious ice creams are those flavored with fruit juices or fruit pulp. They do not usually contain eggs; therefore, they are more like a sherbet than a regular ice cream.

A REMEDY FOR THAT MOST DISTRESSING MALADY.

Rev. J. M. McLeod, Zion Church, Vancouver, B. C.—"It is nearly three months since I finished the package of Dr. C. D. C. and though I have for more than twenty years suffered from indigestion that one package has done more for me than any other. Since taking your remedy I have not had the slightest symptom of a return of my old enemy. It affords me much pleasure to recommend Dr. C. D. C. to the numerous family of dyspeptics as the best known remedy for this distressing malady."

"The matter which this page contains is carefully selected from various sources; and we guarantee that, to any intelligent farmer or housewife, the contents of this single page will prove of great value during the year, and will be worth several times the subscription price of the paper."

THE HOME. TRIFLING THINGS.

It is in the perfection of minutiae that successful housekeeping consists. A thousand apparently trifling things make up the management of an orderly home. The successful housekeeper must possess executive ability in order to command respect from her help and to arrange their work in orderly succession.

No wise woman calls a household away from her regular work to fetch something which the mistress could very well have gotten herself. Nor does she permit a general houseworker, whose time should be occupied with the tasks of the house, to serve as an attendant on children.

There are some households where the work of each day and each portion of the day is planned out in advance. No unforeseen circumstance is allowed to interfere with the routine if it is possible to avoid it.

It is an admirable thing to bind oneself to the same routine that one prescribes for the help when one is doing work. When the work is done, it is done, and much more easily. Nothing interrupts order like the habit of trifling delay.

TEA AND COFFEE DRUNKARDS.

An eminent Chicago physician recently remarked: "Thousands of persons are unaccountably suffering from the pernicious effects of the use of tea and coffee." The investigations made by Morton, of Brooklyn, and a number of other neurologists, have clearly shown that the use of tea and coffee often develops a special form of neuroathetic symptoms which are evidently the result of chronic poisoning.

alcoholic liquors of any sort, but were addicted to tea-drinking. Prof. Virehow, of Berlin, is credited with saying: "We have at last arrived at the truth that caffeine (the active principle of tea and coffee) is nothing more or less than a strong stimulant, and, taken in large quantities, a poison, like brandy." Roberts, of England, has shown the pernicious effect of tea and coffee upon both stomach digestion and the digestion of protein.

The latest study of the subject, and a most careful one, has been made by two French physicians, Drs. Gagne and Gilles de Tourette, whose report on the subject to the Society of the Hospital of Paris describes at great length and in detail the symptoms of what they term "chronic intoxication" by coffee.

"Caffeine dyspepsia" resembles closely alcoholic gastritis, being characterized by pain in the morning, pain in the epigastric region, with radiation toward the back, coated tongue, distaste for solid food, etc.

"The most important symptoms, however, involve the nervous system; these are insomnia, or sleep is accompanied by frightful dreams; when the patient stands upright he suffers from a sensation of emptiness of the head, and frequently from vertigo."

SUMMER DRINKS. One tins of lemonade, yet it is at a loss to find an agreeable substitute. Tamarind water is a pleasant and healthful one.

Raspberry vinegar makes an excellent summer drink. To a quart of water add three or four tablespoonfuls of the vinegar, sugar, and ice chips.

Pineapple syrup, made from crushed pineapple, strained, with its weight of sugar, boiled to a clear syrup, is a capital drink. Add to water, sweeten to taste, stir in thinly sliced lemon.

GOOSEBERRIES AND CURRANTS.

Gooseberries are generally used when they are fully mature in size, but while they are still unripe. They make an excellent boiled fruit pudding, and a good cold desert in gooseberry "fool."

THE FARM.

TO DESTROY ARMY WORMS.

The fully developed worm is a little over one inch long, of a gray or dingy black color, with black stripes and markings. The surface is of a more or less greenish color. The head is smooth and yellowish, with two black lines running from top to mouth.

CELERY CULTURE.

In a late issue of the "Florida Agriculturist" the Messrs. Neylans of Tampa, Fla., give an interesting account of their experience in cultivating celery in that state. Seed-sowing is begun in August and continued until November, the latter sowings insuring the largest number of plants. When the plants are about six inches high, they are transplanted on ridges four feet wide, two rows on each ridge, the plants being set from five to six inches apart in the rows. The celery is blanched when it is mature, which is done by the color of the tops. Boards one by twelve, sixteen feet long, are used, stood up on each side of the rows. The blanching is influenced by the weather. It takes about six months to raise and blanch a crop from the sowing of the seed.

FATTENING HOGS.

A feeding experiment has been conducted by the Illinois Experiment Station. It was conducted in finishing out and fattening hogs. These experiments were made in nine different months of the year and show excellent work. The average of the six months showed 114 pounds live weight made from 56 pounds of corn.

HAY SUBSTITUTES.

If you have a fair stand of grass or clover, cut the present crop, even if it is short, and immediately apply a mixture of quickly-acting fertilizer, such as follows: 150 pounds nitrate of soda, and 100 pounds each of sulphate of potash and dissolved bone-bone or high-grade acid phosphate to each acre and you will probably get a heavier second crop than the first.

FEEDING MILK-COWS.

A well-balanced grain ration is equal parts of cottonseed meal, wheat bran and cornmeal. Instead of cottonseed meal, you may substitute gluten meal, linseed meal, or pea meal. Instead of bran, substitute wheat middlings, malt sprouts, or brewers' grain. Instead of corn meal, you may substitute ground wheat, ground oats, ground rye, or ground barley.

DRY GOODS, MILLINERY.

The price of beef is being kept down in Britain by a large importation of foreign cattle for slaughter. During the first quarter of this year there were landed 134,965, against 71,361 in 1895, and 56,018 in 1894. This is a very large increase. The stock from Argentina increased 300 per cent this year, while those for the United States were over fifty per cent more than the same period last year.
