It is about half a century since I got possession of this brochure, when I made the marks in the margins:

There were in 1791, two newspapers published - the London Gazette & Herald. which last however had disappeared in 1788, and the Gazette was then published in a single small sheet - of folio post in very large type with every thing in the two languages - about half a column of news three months old: the Montreal Gazette like the London, published once a week in size & contents formerly singular was the only newspaper in Canada till the Quebec was started in 1805 & the Montreal Herald in 1808.
