POBT BOYAL AND BEAUFORT.

POBT BOYAL AND BEAUFORT. The region around Port Royal entrance and Island has a strange, eventful and ro-mantic history. It was, in fact, the first settled spot on the coast of North America. How interesting, in view of our expedition, to read the story of another expedition to the same locality just three hundred years ago. The first colony was sent out by Ad-uiral Coligny, a zealous Protestant, and Catholics obtained permission of Charles IX to plant a colony of Protestants in Floride a name then applied also to a great part the Southern coast. Command of two sels were accordingly given to Jean Bi-

The Southern coast. Command of two sels were accordingly given to Jean Bi-beult, "a man expert in see causes," and in the spring of 1562 he landed on the Florida coast. Sailing northward, he discovered several rivers, one of which, from the fair-ness of and largeness of its harbor, he call-ed the Port Royal River. The old chroni-cler Laudoniere, who accompanied the er-pedition, describes the scene in glowing colors. Splendid forests, shores festooned with rich grape clusters, birds of brilliant plumage, stags and deer in the luxuriant svannahs. As the commander cast his even across the

As the commander cast his eye across the waters of the beautiful river before him, says Laudoniere, and measured the breath of its mouth and the depth of its sounding, he persuaded himself that "all the arguesies of Venice could ride upon its boson." Ac-cordingly, upon the island a few miles up Port Royal River, he erected, it is said, on the very spot where the town of Beaufort now stands, a pillar with the arms of France and a few days after built a fort which, in honor of his king, Charles IX., he called Charles' Fort—Arz Carolina—from which circumstance the country took the name Car-olina. Bibault reminded the colonist that they were now occupants of a "vast country, filled with every goodly promise, where every man was to be honored, not for his birth or fortune, but on account of his own personal achievements"—a lesson, by the way, sadly neglected by after settlers of Carolina. Thus it was on that very spot that, for the first time, three hundred years ago, on the North American coast, the fag of a civilized colony might be seen by the approaching mariner. But this French in 1567, gave up all idea of making settle monts. It was almost a century after this before

It was almost a century after this before the English began to colonize around Port Royal Early in the seventeenth century, Lord Cardross led a colony from Scotland, and settled at Port Royal.

The N. Y. Tribune says that the health The N. Y. Tribute says that the health of Lieutenant General Scott remains so very feeble that it seems a pity he cannot be freed from the importunities of the bores who erowd upon him, begging autographs and personal mementoes, and his aid in promot-ing the interests of their friends at Washington. Since his arrival he has been har rassed in this indecent way until he has im-plored the proprietor of the Brevoort House to deny him to every person. He rises at about 8 o'clock, and breakfasts 'at 9; but his strength fails him so soon that, after noon, he is hardly able to see anyone.
