

Student dies in Fredericton

HALIFAX (CUP) Students at UNB Fredericton are stunned by the death of visiting student who fell from a third floor residence window last Saturday morning.

Peter Hogan, a third year arts student at UNB St. John, died of severe injuries to the head at 5:00AM Saturday, police estimate.

Hogan and his friends had been drinking heavily during the night in a residence room. The others in the group had all passed out by the time of the accident; one says Hogan had done the least amount of drinking.

Ken Quigley, the editor of the UNB Brunswickian, says "it's a mystery to me how anyone could fall out of those windows."

Police in Fredericton have handed the case over to the criminal investigations unit even though no foul play is suspected.

Big theft at DSU

THE STUDENT UNION IS offering a $500 reward "no questions asked" for the safe return of two lightboards worth $20,000 stolen last Thursday night from the McInnes room in the SUB.

Max Keeping, director of security for the university, says it was the biggest theft on campus in five years.

The lightboards, one custom-made and one commercial, were stolen from the control room while it was undergoing renovations so the door may have been left unlocked, says Jim Hogan, director of technical services for the student union.

The lightboard was on loan until the student union buys one in January. There was no insurance on it.

The DSU is replacing the lightboard immediately with one that was to arrive last night.

Hogan says they have a few leads but have no idea whether the new owners are students at Dalhousie or not.

He stresses the model is so complex, it would be of little use to whoever stole it. The lightboard is a Mantrix 36 channel version. In addition, a Tascam Model 122B cassette deck was stolen, worth about $1,100.
